The new side walk around the Postoffice will make people think they are in some live metropolitan city. It is made of Portland cement and a splendid job is being done with it.

The selection of the S. F. Post office site turns out to have been a big boodle job from the jump, and the boodlers raked in half a million. It begins to look as if the present Grand Jury would be obliged to serve for life if they expect to keep track of all the boodle rackets in California.

What about "Colonel Forsyth"? He is still holding a commission from the Governor that he obtained by fraud, is he not? He ought to be cashiered, and with head half shaven be drummed from the ranks. Honorable men ought not to be compelled to associate with him, not even on the roster. He ought not to be permitted to wear the uniform of the National Guard—Sac. News.

CLAUDE LEE.

Her Joke on the Comstock Reporters.

Mrs. Ranson, the woman who figures so conspicuously in the McDonald will case in San Francisco, used to be known as Claude Lee in Virginia City about sixteen years ago.

She was the leading attraction in Orndoff's Alhambra theatre and considered the nearest approach to an absolutely faultless figure on the Pacific Coast. Her head set on her shoulders like an ideal Greek Goddess, and the miners always stamped with delight when she tripped on the stage and began to warble: "My Mother's Green Grave" in E flat.

She was well liked by the press, as when ever there was a sensational item at the Alhambra Miss Lee could always be depended on to give the reporters the fullest possible particulars.

She finally persuaded Jim Orndoff to give the Comstock press representatives a private box for the season, and by this brilliant coup d'etat she scooped in the entire journalistic fraternity at once.

One night Rollen Daggett got her to recite "The Lily of Poverty Flat," and the private box contained Rollen M. Daggett, Charley Goodwin, Dan de Quille, D. E. McCarthy, Wells Drury, Alf. Dutton, Col Lyons, Richard Rule, Ed Colton, Pat Holland and the writer.

In the midst of the recitation a howl of laughter went up from the audience and it continued through the recitation. Everybody looked at the press box, and the astonished occupants were unable to figure out what was the matter.

Finally Drury was sent out to the front of the house and see what was the cause of the hilarity. He didn't come back, and another man was dispatched on the same errand, and also another. None of them came back, and finally Rollen M. Daggett was left alone, facing the howling audience with the greatest serenity.

It appeared that Claude had caused a large placard to be fitted into the panel just under the front of the box which showed plain white until the poem was recited, when a string worked by a man behind the scenes let the placard fall and the inscription:

"POVERTY FLAT" in letters several inches long stared the audience in the face.

This was the time that wines and liquors were sold in the boxes of the Alhambra and the returns from the press box were never alarmingly large, owing to the strictly temperate habits of the Comstock press gang at that time, who had a tacit understanding never to touch liquor of any kind while on duty—except at the Manager's expense.

After Miss Lee went to San Francisco she lost her classic figure owing to a fondness for Budwaiser beer and caviar sandwiches, incidental to a busy life at the California metropolis, and she dropped the graceful and pathetic ballad roles and betook herself to the more solid musical requirements of "Oh where, Oh where is my little wee dog," as sung by an old dutch woman in wooden shoes, with strong voice and large girth.

It is the wish of all of the old Comstock newspaper men that Claude gets a large slice of the McDonald estate.

Death of Mrs. Rickey. It was reported last evening that Mrs. T. B. Rickey had died in San Francisco of a complication of stomach troubles. She has been known for many years in this community, and the intelligence of her death was a surprise to everybody.

Mr. Rickey had no premonition of it until he received a dispatch from San Francisco, as her sickness had not been regarded as serious. He has the sympathy of people all over the State in his great loss.

Dr. Fox treats private, chronic and nervous diseases of men, nervous debility, impotence, stricture and all other weakness of manhood.

Death of Mand Doane.

DIED—In Carson City, Nevada, October 12, 1891, Mand L., youngest daughter of Wm. H. and Sarah G. Doane; aged 16 years, 2 months and 12 days.

The funeral will take place from the Episcopal Church this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

She had been ill some time, and while everybody hoped for a change for the better her death was not unexpected. She was only in her seventeenth year and an interesting girl of a gentle, lovable disposition, and the idol of her father's household. Although young in years she gave promise of great histrionic ability, and while yet a child had given public recitations to delighted audiences in this city.

In addition to the terrible loss to her parents she leaves a large circle of young friends in this city to mourn her untimely end. Friends wishing to view the remains can see them at the home after 10 o'clock, as the casket will not be opened at the church.

The Wheelmen's Novelty Dance.

On the 23rd of this month the Carson Wheelmen will present a dance at Armory Hall, and will on that occasion introduce several novelties never before heard of in Carson. Females will be served up hot, supplemented by sandwiches and hot coffee. Lemonade will be free. A new and pretty figure will be danced in the waltz quadrille, and an entirely new and novel guessing contest will give all dancers an opportunity to capture a valuable prize. Imported music, and other attractions, to be mentioned later, will make the occasion very enjoyable.

The tickets, admitting gentlemen and ladies, have been placed at the low rate of a dollar. The supper above mentioned will be 25 cents per head.

Death of J. M. Short.

J. M. Short, for years the only merchant of Glenbrook died on Sunday morning of paralysis of the brain. He was a leading man of Douglas county for years and Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. He was a native of Illinois and leaves a wife and three children. He seemed in the best of health last week and applied for an additional $10,000 on his life. Dr. Geiler learning of his illness did not till his health certificate.

The funeral will take place in Glenbrook at 1 P. M. today.

A Cowardly Scoundrel

On Friday night some cowardly wretch entered the stable of the McEwen ranch near Lake View and mutilated six fine horses with knives. Such a thoroughbred cur ought to be lynched on sight. There is now clew yet to the identity of the wretch.

Mamie Cohn's Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Mary Cohn took place Sunday from the family residence, and the remains were followed to the grave by a long line of carriages. The funeral was largely attended by friends, and the scene at the interment was very sad.

A Good Company.

CARSON, NEV., Oct. 8, 1891. J. D. KERSEY, Agent Northwestern Masonic Aid Association—Dear Sir: It affords me pleasure to acknowledge the promptitude of the Northwestern Masonic Aid Association in paying the sum of $8,500 insurance on the life of my father, T. D. Edwards, late deceased. The Company paid the above loss within thirty days after receiving the proofs of death, and is entitled to a general favorable consideration for its fairness. DWIGHT EDWARDS.

Kersey & Yerington have plenty of this same kind of insurance, and the man who holds a policy never strikes it amiss. o9

There is no Secret. About your buying shoes to advantage. You may not know any more about the quality of leather than you do about a lost comet but that is no reason why you should get "stuck." Either you get your money's worth or you don't and if you don't it is your own fault. We are in the shoe business because we happen to know something about shoes and leather. It is "bread and butter" to us, therefore we make it a STUDY. Of the knowledge you get as much benefit as though you possessed it yourself for we place it entirely in your disposal and if you think that other houses can quote lower prices than we do, come and look at the goods and and prices. We will put our time against yours and we feel confident that the result will be a mutual benefit.
