A Burglar Alarm.

Jake Longabaugh of this city has taken the agency for the Burglar Alarm Bell which is one of the best anti-burglar devices on the market. It is secured to the casing of a door and set by means of a simple lever each night before retiring. The instant the door is opened ever so little it goes off with a racket intended to give a burglar the snakes. In the day time the lever can be moved away from the door without turning the ball on and is altogether a very neat and necessary feature. Price $1.75. Jake Longabaugh Agent for Nevada. j4tf

CALIFORNIA TRIES TO HOG EVERYTHING.

The Wonderful Work of a Nevada Inventor.

Chicago, Ill., June 3.—I have just returned from a tour of inspection in which I attempted to discover the California exhibit. Christopher Columbus may have been able to put his foot on the soil of America and its tributaries, but he took particular pains to be extinct when called upon to find the California display.

I am glad the Examiner took the trouble to expose the laziness of the California attendants.

It is whispered very loud that Jim Yerington has been offered a fat figure to take charge of the California department and get it started in good running order like Nevada's exhibit. He refused on the ground that he had to eat fruit when he was working and that California had nothing decent on hand.

As usual the Golden State is claiming everything in sight. I heard a Californian say to an Easterner the other day.

"Some of the most celebrated people in the world were born and raised in California. Now you take Emma Nevada, she is a California girl."

"G. W. G. Ferris who designed and is now superintending the building of the Ferris wheel is a California boy. Albert Saxon the cadet who thumped the bully of West Point, is a California boy, and I could go on all day naming people who first got onto themselves in California."

The individual whom he was talking to happened to be pretty well acquainted with Nevada and ventured to remark that his informant was off his base; that Emma Nevada was born in Nevada, Albert Saxon was from Carson the Capitol, and that G. W. G. Ferris is a Nevada boy and his sister Mrs. Alex Ardery is now living in Carson.

"Why," said the coarse, vulgar Easterner who dared tell the Californian that something rare had come from Nevada, and that the sun had to pass over it to get into California. "You fellows will be telling me that Nevada silver didn't build the best part of San Francisco pretty quick and that Virginia City is in Tulare county. Nevada saved the United States from a frightful money panic in 1863 and in 1893 California discovered that she did it. If Nevada can get free coinage it will save another panic in America which is just at present getting ready to drop on us."

In order that the people of Carson may get an idea of the magnificent piece of work young Ferris is now engineering. I have visited it several times. It is still incomplete but the work is going rapidly. Prominent club men and engineers who consider Ferris the equal of Eiffel, have offered him $10 a head to take the initial ride. Already every seat is engaged.

It is regarded as the greatest engineering triumph and novelty of modern times. It will be one of the features at the World's Fair, and four hundred men are now working night and day. A technical description of this great evolution of engineering skill would fill columns, and yet be unintelligible to the average mind. Anybody, however, can imagine a monster wheel, somewhat resembling a huge bicycle wheel, revolving between two towers, this wheel being 264 feet in height, and around it, suspended between the two, crowns by great steel trunnion pins, 36 passenger coaches, each as large as the ordinary Pullman Palace car, built just as substantially, and upholstered just as luxuriously. Each of these coaches will have a seating capacity of sixty persons each. Then imagine this wheel, with its living freight to a total of 2160 souls, slowly revolving. Imagine the sensation of being carried up 250 feet on one side, and of being slowly lowered on the other side, and of gaining during the trip a complete view of the World's Fair grounds, a bird's-eye-view of the whole of Chicago, and of a goodly portion of Lake Michigan to boot. That is the idea of the Ferris Wheel in a nut-shell. The entire structure is of steel, and its construction will involve the expenditure of four hundred thousand dollars before a single passenger has been carried. The great axle is the largest piece of steel ever forged, being 33 inches in diameter, 45 1/2 feet long, and weighing 56 tons. The cost of this piece of steel alone was thirty-five thousand dollars. The foundation of masonry which supports the towers goes 35 feet below the surface of the ground, and tapers to a height of eighteen feet. The total weight of the structure is 4300 tons, but so liberal an allowance has been made for wind stresses that in the opinion of eminent engineers, a tornado of one hundred miles an hour would leave the wheel intact an unharmed. Hence, passengers while indulging in their novel trip will be just as safe as though they were riding out to the grounds on a railroad train. Arranged in groups on the rods around the crown of the wheel will be 3,000 incandescent lights of various colors, these will be alternately extinguished and relighted as the wheel revolves at night and the scene will thus resemble a monster display of pyrotechnics. Platforms are located on both sides of the base of the tower and six cars can be loaded and unloaded simultaneously. The time required for one complete trip is twenty minutes. This will give the passengers two complete revolutions of the wheel. The immense engines are duplicated, so that in case of any disarrangement of the machinery, the second plant could be started with less than a moment's delay. The location of the wheel is the middle driveway of the Midway Plaisance, about one hundred feet from one of the entrance gates to the Fair grounds. The inventor G. W. G. Ferris, has been largely identified with extensive bridge enterprise in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and other State. The different sections going to make up the complete wheel have been constructed in less than six cities, and nearly all the plant is on now on the ground. Young Ferris will be glad to see people from Nevada as he considers it the scene of his childhood and will press your hand warmly for the place you come from. G. A. B.

CHURCH ROW IN RENO.

A Pastor Who Attempted to Stop Dancing.

Reno, June 2, 1893.

ED. APPEAL.—There has been a lively church row here over the dancing proposition. Reno people love amusement and all our church members dance.

A few weeks ago Mr. Van Deerlin, who had charge of Trinity Church and the Bishop's School, resigned the pastorate of the Church and Rev. Fitchette was chosen his successor. Funds were rather low, so the ladies of Trinity got up a dance to help out. To this Rev. Van Deerlin made a loud protest, claiming that dancing was an abomination to the Lord.

The vestry held that the seeds had to come from some source and as Van Deerlin was no longer Rector he had nothing to say.

When Bishop Leonard got here he said that he did not approve of resorting to dance parties to pay church debts, but he avoided taking any hand in the row between Van Deerlin and Trinity. Van Deerlin claimed that the Bishop should have preached a sermon from the pulpit against it, and that his failure to do it put Van Deerlin in a bad light. So he resigned from the head of the Bishop's School, an institution he had taken charge of and leased for five years.

He insisted that he would not remain twenty-four hours in such a place, but after his resignation he cooled down, and is still there with eleven other people of his family.

The Bishop placed Rev. Hyslop, of your city, Res. Fitchette, of Trinity and Senior Warden Pinniger of Trinity, in charge of the matter, as a sort of Board of Arbitration. Mr. Van Deerlin recently turned the school over to Bishop Leonard. Rev. Van Deerlin has for years been making a crusade against dancing, until it has become his hobby.

Dancing being very popular in Reno, he has made but little headway.
