THE OTHER BODIES FOUND.

The Impressive Funeral of Patsy Daley.

Yesterday morning the men who were searching for the missing bodies of the Glenbrook disaster found the bodies of Fraiser and Carlson. The Lake had become calm after the storm and the men searching went out early when the water was perfectly clear. They searched some distance from shore figuring that they had been carried out by the undertow.

They found the bodies over a quarter of a mile from shore, lying about a hundred yards apart. They were able to see them lying in the bottom in nearly 100 feet of water. After this it did not take long to bring them to the surface with fish hooks and lines.

The funeral of Daley, who was a great favorite in Glenbrook, took place on Thursday.

The mills were closed down and the entire population following the remains to the grave on foot.

The litter bearing the coffin was carried at the head of the procession, and every few yards the eight men acting as pall bearers, gave way to eight more, and returned down the line, so that the whole line helped bear the body. It was one of the most impressive funerals ever seen in Glenbrook. Rev. Father Clynne officiated.

When Daley and Morris were found, there watches had stopped; Daley's at 23 minutes past 2, and Morris' five minutes later. This was almost the exact time of the tragedy at Genoa.

In Daley's pockets were found $272 in greenbacks. Frasier was insured for the benefit of his sister for $3,000.

A Long Dance.

Lyman Frisbie has just returned in a half dead condition from Millerville, where there was a big dance on the night of the 4th. The musicians played from 8 o'clock until nearly six in the morning.

When the sun began to shine in the windows of the hall, it got so warm the crowd had to quit, there being no blinds on the windows. Frisbie says the musicians begged to quit at 3, but the pretty Swedish and Danish girls coaxed them to go on.

At 4 they made another break to quit, when the powerful German girls gave them to understand that they had better resume the music if they knew what was good for them. So they played until their fingers were too stiff to manipulate the fiddle strings, and the caller was so hoarse that he couldn't call a figure.

Frisbie says that the next time there is a dance in Millerville they can leave him out. They had 43 dances and sometimes a good waltz would be kept up 20 minutes.

When the music stopped some large bored agriculturist would walk up to the musicians and remark:

"Keep that up a while longer or I'll make your ear ache."

This was accompanied by a suggestive motion of a fist that weighed five or six pounds, and the horn tooters and fiddlers would start up again amid a general clapping of hands. A Millerville dance is very lively—for the musicians.

The Reno Fight.

The fight at Reno Monday night between McKenzie and Barber was probably as rank an exhibition as was ever given in the State. A magnificent display of western Nevada nerve was given before the contest began, when the audience after waiting patiently for several hours, was edified by having the hat passed by the manager "to raise a few more dollars for de gentlemen, whose goin' to make de best scrap hever seen in bloody Hameria."

McKenzie had been drunk for several days before the fight and was far from sober when he got into the ring. Barber had it all in his own way from the start and smashed the Australian whenever he wished. McKenzie's friends and backers saw he had no show and tried to break up the fight several times by crying "foul" and jumping into the ring and shaking their fists in the referee's face. The affair came very near winding up in a free fight, which would have given the spectators their money's worth. Barber won the fight in the eight round.—Silver State.

BUCKEYE NOTES.

The Camp in a State of Armed Quietude.

Lynn District, Buckeye, July 5 '93. Last week an item appeared in the Genoa Courier, to the effect that a compromise had been made between the Black Horse Company and the Millich party, and work had been resumed.

If anyone thinks peace has been declared or a compromise made, he should visit Buckeye and see the glittering array of guns glistening along the slopes and at the Fort.

Sentinels are stationed at this point day and night, keeping a sharp lookout for an imaginary foe.

There were eight men working last week with Winchesters beside them, mostly Raycrafts. An injunction was put on the Black Horse mine by the Raycraft faction, who are working the mine at present, notwithstanding. They are fearful of another attack from the owners of the mine, and are taking every precaution to guard against it.

This is the only mine being worked at present or likely to be worked at this place this season, as Raycrafts have turned all of the water down the Black Horse gulch, shutting off the water from others who would or could work their mines.

MINER.

Committed to the Asylum.

The commission consisting of Judge Cheney, County Clerk Evans and Drs. Phillips, Thoma and Lewis, convened to inquire into the mental condition of Mrs. T. B. Bradshaw, found the lady to be of unsound mind, and committed her to the Asylum. The lady has been mentally unbalanced for some time, but was hoped by her family that her reason might be restored by home treatment. Finally neighbors made complaint, and after a thorough inquiry the commission unanimously agreed at the conclusion that the lady is insane.—Journal.

The lady in question is the wife of the Methodist Clergyman of Reno. While she is pronounced insane by a complete Board of Examiners, there are many people in Reno who insist that she is mentally all right.

Beats Blondin.

Niagara Falls, July 7. — Clifford Calverly last night eclipsed all previous records at Niagara by walking on a wire across the gorge in the darkness and shooting off fireworks in midstream. He had arranged for two strong search lights to be placed at each end of the wire, but the light proved a failure and so the young man ventured out in the darkness. No one could see him until suddenly a bright light illuminated the center of the river, and Calverly was seen seated on the wire, with his balancing pole across his knees, setting off fireworks. He reached the American side amid a flame of red light and the cheers of the crowd.

A Mob Waiting for Him.

Louisville, Ky., July 6.—The negro who brutally outraged two little girls near Bordwell and afterwards killed them by cutting their throats, has been captured and is now on a special train which is due at Bordwell at midnight. An infuriated mob is awaiting him there, and he will probably be burned at the stake in a few hours. His name is Miller.

Mark Twain as a Reporter.

Mark Twain was fond of manufacturing items of the horrible style, but on one occasion he overdid this business, and the disease worked its own cure. He wrote an account of a terrible murder, supposed to have occurred at "Dutch Nick's," a station on the Carson River, where Empire City now stands. He made a man cut his wife's throat and those of his nine children; after which diabolical deed the murderer mounted his horse, cut his own throat from ear to ear, rode to Carson City (a distance of three and a half miles) and fell dead in front of Pete Hopkins' saloon.

All the California papers copied the item, and several made editorial comment upon it as being the most shocking occurrence of the kind ever known on the Pacific Coast. Of course rival Virginia City papers at once denounced the item as a "cruel and idiotic hoax." They showed how the publication of such "shocking and reckless falsehoods" disgraced and injured the State, and they made it as "sultry" as possible for the Enterprise and its "fool reporter." When the California papers saw all this and found they had been sold, there was a howl from Siskiyou to San Diego. When Mark wrote the item he read it over to me, and I asked him how he was going to wind it up so as to make it plain that it was a mere invention.

"Oh, it is wound up now," was the reply. "It is all plain enough. I have said that the family lived in a little cabin at the edge of the great pine forest near Dutch Nick's, when everybody knows there's not a pine tree within ten miles of Nick's. Then I'd make the man ride nearly four miles after he has cut his throat from ear to ear, when any fool must see that he would fall dead in a moment."

But the people were all so shocked at first with the wholesale throat-cutting that they did not stop to think of these points. Mark's whole object in writing the story was to make the murderer go to Pete Hopkins' saloon and fall dead in front of it, Pete having in some way offended him. I could never quite see how this was to hurt Pete Hopkins. Mark probably meant to insinuate that the murderer had been rendered insane by the kind of liquor sold over the Hopkins' bar, or that he was one of Pete's bosom friends.

To-day not a man in a hundred in Nevada can remember anything written by Mark Twain while he was connected with the Enterprise, except this one item in regard to this shocking murder at Dutch Nick's; all else is forgotten, even by his oldest and most intimate friends.—Dan De Quille, in July Californian.

To be Buried Alive.

Toledo, O. July 6.—Seymour, the mindreader, arrived in Toledo on his way to Chicago, where he is to be buried alive in the alleged manner of East Indians, who say they can suspend animation for any period by swallowing their tongues and controlling their heart and mind.

"My coffin has gone on ahead," said Seymour. "It is made in three sections, one fitting inside the other. I will be buried six feet deep in the coffin."

"Signals will be arranged, so that if things don't go right I can communicate with the soldiers on the outside, who will guard the grave."

"Directly after I am buried a crop of barley will be sowed over my grave. I will remain buried until the germs sprout, grow and ripen and the crop is harvested."

"Then the disinterment will take place. I won't come back to earth until Sept. 2."

A Pleasant Meeting.

Lieutenant H. H. Todd, of the Veteran Guard, of California, was the guest of the Hon. H. F. Bartine while in this city. Captain Todd was in the 8th New Jersey infantry during the rebellion, and was the man who called for volunteers to bear the colors after six had been killed bearing them. Bartine, a beardless boy at the time, stepped promptly forward and bore the colors through the fight. It must be a pleasant thing for such men to meet and talk of old war times after so many years' separation.
