"The Prize Winner."

"The Prize Winner" is the title of a new comedy drama written by Dr. E. A. Wood and James R. Gary of Pittsburg, for Charles A. Gardner, the inimitable German dialect comedian and sweet singer, who will produce it in this city to-morrow (Wednesday) evening at the Opera House, with new scenery and costumes and a company of talented actors. The new work is not a one-part affair, for, besides the principal role of Karl, assumed by Mr. Gardner, it has well defined and strong characters. It is a play full of human interest, with realistic scenes and situations that are possible and natural. Karl is a Turner and wins a prize at a "fest" of his brethren at the Turverin, and from this "fest" the plot is developed and love and heroism is revealed. Mingled pathos and humor relieve the sober scenes. An avalanche that supposedly buries the principals is one of the startling scenes of the play. Mr. Gardner has seven new songs which he will sing during the progress of the play.

A Bloody Charivari.

Northfield, Minn., May 7.—A report comes from Lestor, twelve miles southwest of here, of a battle between forty masked men, who repaired to the home of Fred Herdler, a well-to-do and respectable German farmer, who was married a few days ago, and attempted to charivari them. Some thirty guests were seated at a banquet at 10 o'clock, when the leader demanded $10 to buy beer for the crowd. The demand was refused and $3 offered instead.

The door was closed in the speaker's face, and a few minutes later the gang returned, smashed in the door and a night ensued, in which guns were used. Three unknown men of the gang were shot and seen to fall, whether dead or not no one knows, as they were hastily carried away. The masks were torn from the leaders and arrests are being made.

DE YOUNG IN DANGER.

An Attempt to Assassinate the Chronicle Proprietor.

The following dispatch was received at this office yesterday afternoon at three o'clock:

San Francisco, May 7.

APPEAL, Carson:—About noon today Jake Rudolph, connected with Chris Buckley, attempted to kill Mike De Young in the Chronicle office. The ball struck Elliot, the Chronicle business manager, who grappled with the would-be assassin. Rudolph is now under arrest. There is intense excitement here.

[Parties in Carson who know Rudolph say he is an expert shot with a revolver, and, as he did not hit De Young, it is probable that Elliot jumped between them in time to receive the bullet.—Ed.]

According to later dispatches, De Young was not seen by the assassin, but he was after him all the same. Elliott's life was saved by the bullet striking a silver dollar.

Attempted Suicide.

Between nine and half past last night, Johnny Moise, steward at the Exchange hotel, cut his throat with suicidal intent at his residence North of the Armory.

His wife had gone to bed, and the deed was committed in an adjoining room.

His stepson found him bleeding profusely, and immediately went for a physician, securing Dr. Guinan.

It was not thought judicious to allow his wife to see him and it was necessary to keep her away by force.

On being asked by an APPEAL reporter how he felt he replied:

"Pretty good."

"What did you do it with?"

"A razor."

"Why did you do it?"

"I don't know."

He also stated that he was sober, and remarked, "I did it like I was shot."

He was alive at last accounts and in a fair way to recover.

Sunday's Ball Game.

The alleged game of base ball between the Turn Vercins and the All-American Club composed of boys from the public school was about the worst game ever seen in Carson. The score 36 to 26, in favor of the school boys was enough to make a good player weep. The less said about the game the better, but one of the kids who was pulling for the T. V.'s sizes it up as follows:

"See, it was dis way. Dat mug Burlington was in de box for de Turners de first innin. Wall de school kids got in eight sen tallies on his pitchin'. In course dat rattled 'em, and dey lost de game. De next time Burlington is in de box, I bet my dough on de odder nine. See?"

Yesterday's Election.

Voting was very light yesterday, there being but one ticket in the field, and on the whole it was about the quietest election ever held in this city.

The election yesterday was a signal victory for the Republican ticket, as there was no opposition. There were 33 votes cast in the first ward and 38 in the second.

The reported discovery of a wonderful deserted city in a remote section of the Sierra Madre mountains in Durango, has been verified by Maurice Lentow and party of explorers. They found a secret entrance to the city and made exhaustive exploration. They returned laden with curiosities from the abandoned residences and temples. The population of the city could not have been less than 25,000.

C., but he utterly failed to hypnotize any of the subjects.

Two years ago Justice Drake of the British Columbia Supreme Court delivered himself of a now famous remark: "I have yet to meet a Canadian gentleman." No doubt the expression was made use of thoughtlessly to please an English audience, but it was said at the time to voice the sentiment of the English people in British Columbia. The feeling is growing in bitterness between the Canadians and the Englishmen.
