She clung to Castoria.

When she had children,
She gave them Castoria.

'A Queer Accident.

A teamster who came down from Wolf Creek yesterday tells of a queer accident to a bicycle rider. He was coming down the grade from Markleville, when a rancher was coming up with three horses. He was riding one and leading the others who were tied together. The horses he was leading got away and charged up the road meeting the bicyclist coming down. They tried to pass each side of him and were about ten feet apart held by the rope. When they met him the passage was narrow, and they crowded close to his wheel. This lowered the rope and it caught him across the breast. He had to grab it with his hands, and let go the wheel. The horses dragged him about fifty yards, when he let go, and found most of his clothes torn off. His name was William Maxwell and he belongs in San Jose. He purchased some clothes and started over the mountains again none the worse for his adventure.

A Freak of Nature.

On Wednesday a hen belonging to S. C. Burke of this city, found itself the mother of a very curious animal. It was nothing less than a chicken with a mouse's head. The animal broke the shell but partially, and having no bill was unable to pick its way into the world. Burke broke the shell and was astonished to find a mouse's head on the chicken. It was a perfect mouse head with hair and ears. He placed the specimen in alcohol and has it on exhibition.

The Birthday Party.

This evening the Ladies Guild of the Episcopal Church will hold a birthday party at Mrs. Jewett Adams' residence. Everyone who attends is expected to bring a little bag of money. The idea is to put in a penny for every year of your age. If you like, you can put in more and have refreshments and a good time. The older you are the more it costs, and the more fun you have.

For Nevada Sheep men

The Southern Pacific railroad in compliance with the request of numerous requests of sheep raisers, has consented to run double-decked cars for the transportation of sheep from Reno to Omaha, Kansas City, and Chicago. They carry twice as many sheep as the ordinary combination cars, and will enable sheep men to ship fat mutton from Nevada to Eastern markets, and prevent a glut in the San Francisco market.

Likes the Country.

B. F. Priest, who is the agent for H. Levi & Co. cigar dealers, has been spending a few weeks in Nevada. It is his first trip here and when he went away last evening he felt that he was leaving the home of his childhood. He had been royally entertained during his stay, made a raft of friends and did a smashing business for his firm. The secret of his success is that he is a very pleasant gentleman to meet and he sells a cracking board of cigars.

Henry Warren, a Los Angeles reporter, wrote a sensational article in his paper ten days ago, giving his experience in the chain gang of this city, having been sent there by the paper. Yesterday, in order to be sent to the Highlands Asylum for the Insane, he pretended to be crazy and attacked a constable at Azusa. He was examined to-day by a Commission before Judge Clark of the Superior Court. He was ordered by the Commission to be confined in a padded cell in the County Jail for six days. He weakened at this and gave the "snap" away. Judge Clark ordered him into the custody of the Sheriff under $1000 bonds for contempt of court. He will be tried for his act. Everybody is laughing over the episode.
