CLEVELAND'S CUBAN POLICY.

Grover Cleveland has not performed one act which the future historian can count to the glory of the American people. The pretended defender of civil service reform, he discharged, without an opportunity for defense, every Federal officer charged with opposing the gold standard doctrine in the recent Presidential campaign.

Says a writer in New Occasions, speaking of Cleveland's general course and particularly his attitude on the Cuban question:

Four years of war under Abraham Lincoln did not entail more suffering and loss to the people than have four years of peace under Grover Cleveland. With three millions of idle men lifting up their calloused hands and imploring for work, he replied by placing on their shoulders the burden of a $260,000,000 bonds issue. They asked him for bread and he sent them a tax collector. Cleveland will not help Cuba so long as Wall Street has any thing to say about it.

LADY SCOTT'S FATE.

The sentence of eight months as first imposed on Lady Scott for slander, is regarded by the English press as too light considering the nature of the offense.

Lady Scott is just a plain ordinary scandal monger who gets even on her enemies by inventing nasty lies about them. Eight years would be better than eight months for all of her wretched class.

An odd Book.

Dr. J. L. Meyer, who is visiting relatives in this city, has in press a book entitled "Heads, Hands and Feet, and how to read them." It will be published by S. F. Meyerson & Co. of St. Louis, and the subscription agents have already taken orders for over 4000 copies.

The St. Louis Republican of Dec. 13 devotes a page to reproducing illustrations of the book in which the hands of prominent men of the country are reproduced and charts of their character given. The Dr. claims that the lives of people are indelibly written in the lines of their hands and all the characteristics which govern their aims and purposes in life. The book will contain over 200 pages and be profusely illustrated.

The following from the Dixon Tribune may be rather sarcastic, but some solid truth is uttered: "Help a dog out of a ditch and no matter what kind of a dog he is—town dog, county dog, aristocratic or plebeian—he will wag his tail into paralysis and exhaust every muscle trying to tell you every drop of blood in his veins is at your service. Help a man out of a ditch and what follows will depend very muchly upon his breed."

A. Schilling & Company of San Francisco are responsible for the publication of a book entitled "Money Making." It is a very clever treatise on advertising and how to do it and is the work of an expert who knows his business. Any merchant can get it by addressing Schilling & Co., San Francisco.
