

AFTER THE BATTLE.

Editor Nixon Tells the People of His Campaign.

The following appears in the Silver State of Tuesday morning:

The Silver party members of the legislature of this State, in caucus last evening, elected John P. Jones to succeed himself as U. S. Senator for the ensuing six years. As their will is law, Nevada will have the distinction of being represented in the future, as in the past, by a non-resident in the Senate of the United States.

The editor of the Silver State has been bitterly assailed by partisan friends of Senator Jones because during the campaign we did not oppose him, and after the election did. All we have to say upon that point is that for years the silver cause has been dearer to us than anything else. When that fight was on we felt that it would be unwise to oppose Senator Jones—that to have silver win we would even submit to being represented by a Californian or New Yorker, whichever he may be. But after the election was over, and silver was temporarily defeated, we felt it was an opportune time to do some house cleaning, hence our announcement.

That our candidacy met with the approval of the people of the State we have the most positive evidence, but so many members were tied up to Jones one way or another that our fight was well nigh hopeless from the start, as the obstacles we had to go against were too great and the time to overcome them too short.

Our principal object has, however, been obtained—namely, the declaration of the principle "Nevada for Nevadans," which, through temporarily defeated, will yet triumph when referred back to the people of the State.

Four years ago Nevada broke away from the old parties and old methods, and from this time on it will break away from the old rule of electing non-residents to the Senate of the United States, as "Nevada for Nevadans" will be made an issue in every future election in this State, and to doubt that the principle will meet with the seal approval of the people of Nevada at the ballot box would be to doubt the honor, manhood and integrity of our citizens.

We have no fault to find with those who did not approve of our course in opposing Senator Jones, as every American citizen has the privilege on free thought and free speech.

To the many kind friends of all political denominations who have in many ways shown to us their evidence of friendship and support because of the principle we contended for, we can only say that our heart is full of gratitude and appreciation, and that, while we have been thrown aside, the principle of home rule will ever live. We also extend our most sincere thanks for the many complimentary notices given our candidacy by the press of Nevada and other States.

Carson Mint Appropriation.

A Washington dispatch to the Examiner dated January 18, says:

The bills making appropriations for the legislative, executive and judicial expenses of the Government for the year ending June 1, 1898, was today reported to the Senate. As passed by the house the bill carried a total of $21,658,370, and to this the Senate committee added items aggregating $60,885, those of principal interest being: Contingent expenses of the Senate, $11,900; Mint at Carson City, Nevada, $19,300.

This restores the Carson Mint appropriation to the same established in 1893.

The Clarke-Ward Company will open here on the 25th to play one week. Of this company the Stockton Mail says.

Those who didn't attend the Avon theater last night missed a good performance of the Carrie Clarke-Ward Company in the sterling mountain play, "49," with Miss Ward as Carrots and Carl Bereh as "49." Edwin B. Bailey played the General, a broken down drunkard, in excellent manner and the support was good throughout.

The Carrie Clarke-Ward Company carries a sterling repertoire. Tonight the "Strangers of Paris" will be presented with Miss Ward as Sophia.

Girls Fight a Duel.

Ocala, Fla., Jan. 20.—For love of Edward Melton, Marian Smith and Bertha Floyd fought at Marti City, a suburb of Ocala, and the former was mortally wounded. The girls, who are about 18 years old, and members of respectable families, have been infuriated with Melton for some months past. Melton would first favor one and then the other, making each wild with jealousy by turns.

Yesterday afternoon Melton and Bertha Floyd were walking when they met Marian Smith. Crazed by jealousy, the latter demanded that Melton choose between them. Melton replied: "You must settle it."

The Smith girl then savagely attacked Miss Floyd, Melton looking on. The girls used only their fists, nails and teeth, but inflicted frightful injuries. Miss Smith was the stronger and finally bore Miss Floyd to the ground, when the latter drew a dagger and stabbed her rival three times in the breast, inflicting fatal wounds. Miss Floyd is herself badly injured and there are fears for her reason.

A pessimistic German says: "If the dear God should announce from one end of the world to another that on the 1st of January, from 12 to 1 o'clock, He would open the gates of Paradise to all who made application at the time, the women would arrive late, in spite of the importance of the occasion. They would find it impossible to complete a satisfactory toilet before evening."
