

Lafayette Advertiser.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE SCHOOL BOARD AND PARISH OF LAFAYETTE.

VOLUME XLIII.

LAFAYETTE, LOUISIANA, TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1908.

NUMBER 44.

SANDERS MEETING.

John C. Wickliffe, of New Orleans, Spoke at Tanner & Landry's Rink.

A Sanders meeting was held Sunday night at Tanner & Landry's Rink, which was crowded.

A. M. Martin opened the meeting and I. B. Bendel presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, John C. Wickliffe, of New Orleans, who discussed matters pertaining to the campaign. His speech was frequently applauded.

Take your prescriptions to the Lafayette Drug Store and you can feel sure that they will be filled correctly and with the purest medicine on the market.

Louisiana State Horticultural Society.

The fifth annual meeting of the Louisiana State Horticultural Society will be held in Minden, La., Feb. 20, 21 and 22. The program will include discussions of subjects presented by the leading scientific and practical horticultural men in the State.

Vote for R. G. Pleasant for Attorney General because he is a young man of ability, energy and ambition and will enforce the laws against the trusts.

U. D. C. Call Meeting.

There will be a call meeting of Mouton Gardner Chapter No. 700, U. D. C. Thursday at 4 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. Sidney Mouton, for the election of officers and payment of dues. All members are requested to attend. EUNICE BARRANGER, Secretary.

I have just added groceries to my line and you will find that it will pay you to place your orders with me.—Rene Comesux.

We issue printed checks showing the exact amount of each purchase made at our store; and pay you 50 cents in cash for every $20 of these checks returned to us. We do this to induce the people to concentrate their purchases at our store, and thereby get the benefit of this cash bonus that we are willing to give to show our appreciation of their patronage. We aim to sell only reliable goods and to sell them at fair prices, and in the proof of this assertion, we agree to cheerfully refund the money on any purchase that does not prove entirely satisfactory.—Moss Pharmacy.

For Coughs and Colds take White Pine Expectorant. For sale at Moss Pharmacy.

A Fluctuating Market.

"How's your temperature, old man?" asked the stockbroker's partner. "Fine for active speculation," answered the invalid. "It went to 104 six times yesterday, each time dropping back to par."—Puck.

A Pointed Answer.

Rude Husband—My dear, your nose is sharper every day. Angry Wife—No wonder, the way you keep it down to the gridstone.—Baltimore American.

Suspicious.

The waiter—Will you have your cheese served out under the tress, sir? The diner—Yes, yes; there's more air out there!—Tokers Statesman.

TODAY WILL DECIDE.

Candidates All Took Advantage of Fine Weather Yesterday to Work.

Yesterday being the last day before the primary, was an active one for the local candidates, all of whom were engaged in giving the finishing touches to their campaigns with the hope that they might make "assurance doubly sure." The day was a beautiful one and afforded all the candidates the best kind of an opportunity to work—and they did.

But the weather, though pretty enough to attract a great deal of attention after the kind of wetness and coldness and dampness old Boreas has been giving us, got mighty little attention. Instead of "How do you like this lovely weather? it was, Who do you think will win?"

To-day will answer that question—and it will be a relief to the candidates who have found the campaign a long and vigorous one.

And because it has been a long and vigorous one the people have been presented with "all the facts in the case," and are now in a position to judge as between the candidates. Whatever that decision it should be accepted and a united Democracy give the nominees their hearty support.

Bulk Garden Seeds at the Moss Pharmacy.

Food and Air.

Food sense is still hampered with fads, but it is becoming science and a custom. No qualified authority is ready to say that a meat diet can with the best results be abandoned. What the qualified men do say is that far less nitrogenous food than is usually consumed in America suffices for nutrition and is better for general health, showing its benefit in longevity. Science will not say that slow and thorough mastication will stop disease or perfect digestion, but it is peremptory in advising a mastication as thorough as the proper appetite for food permits. Too much holding of food in the mouth may cause dislike or indifference, and the proper digestive action depends upon enjoyment. Human beings can live a long time in bad atmospheric conditions, but we know positively that oxygenation of the blood is indispensable, and that fresh air is a remedial agent of more potency than ten years ago we fancied.

A Sly Hit.

"Henry James," said a publisher, "lives at Rye, one of England's cinq portes, but recently he left Rye for a time and took a house in the country near the estate of a millionaire jam manufacturer, retired. This man, having married an earl's daughter, was ashamed of the trade whereby he had piled up his fortune.

"The jam manufacturer one day wrote Mr. James an impudent letter, vowing that it was outrageous the way the James' servants were trespassing on his grounds. Mr. James wrote back:

"Dear Sir: I am very sorry to hear that my servants have been poaching on your preserves.

"P. S.—Excuse my mentioning your preserves."

Up-to-Date Definition.

"Pa, what is a blase person?" "One that has seen all the sights, my son, and is completely 'rubber' tired."—Kansas City Times.

All Mapped Out.

"I suppose you are going to make some speeches?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "I shall deliver a few timely and significant utterances."

"Have you thought out what you will say?"

"Yes. I shall follow my usual formula. To a few extemporaneous remarks about what I have done for the good of the country I will add a humorous anecdote and conclude by assuring my constituents that I rely on the wisdom of the plain people."

Time to Go.

He—I could sit here and hear you play all night.

She (sarcastically)—That's just what I was thinking.

Died.

Died, at her home in this city Sunday, Jan. 26, at 4 a. m., Mrs. Rene Barras, aged 32 years and 10 months. The remains were taken to Breaux Bridge, where they were interred yesterday. She leaves a husband and one child to mourn her loss. We join the friends of the bereaved ones in extending sincere sympathy.

Private Laboratory.

We have in our establishment a private Laboratory entirely distinct from the salesroom, and we give special attention to the compounding of medicine prescribed by physicians and for family use.—Moss Pharmacy.

Late Homecoming by a Man of Suspicious Character.

He climbed off the car out in East Cleveland the other night, or, to be exact, the other morning, and proceeded toward his modest little home down a pretty side street.

As soon as he reached the sidewalk he tried to walk along the edge and ascertain if he was still able to navigate along a straight line.

"I'm th' only man that wuz in the bunch 't'night that c'n walk straight's that," he muttered to himself, with pardonable pride when he found that he could move along first-rate.

A moment later he saw a suspicious-looking man following him.

"That fellsh goin' t' try t' rob muh," he muttered. He felt in his trousers pocket and found only a crumpled two-dollar bill, but it was all he had left after the evening's entertainment, and he didn't want to lose it.

Then he reflected that probably the stranger following him wasn't thinking of robbing him at all. But to make sure that they didn't have any trouble he crossed the street. A minute later, he looked about. The man behind him had crossed over, too.

Once again the man with the two-dollar bill crossed the street. He hated to look around for a time, lest his fears be substantiated. When he did turn his head his pursuer was not far behind him. He had crossed the street again.

The man ahead clutched tightly his two-dollar bill, dear to him because it was all that remained of what had been a roll the size of a blacksmith's forearm, and started to cross over once more, for he happened to think that he lived on the other side of the street anyhow, but he hadn't reached the middle of the street when he looked back and noted that his pursuer was also crossing over.

He stopped right there, pulled out his two-dollar bill and watch and held them out toward the man behind him. "Here's all I've got, old man," says he, now perfectly sobered by his fright. "Take it, but lemme alone. My wife's worried about me anyway, and if I go into the house with my face bunged up I'll get thrown out."

"Why, you darn fool!" grunted the other man as he brushed on by, "I'm the man that goes around to turn out the street lights."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Took Advantage of Czar's Hobby.

Peter the Great particularly delighted in drawing teeth, and he strictly enjoined his servants to send for him when anything of that sort was to be done. One day his favorite valet de chambre seemed very melancholy; the czar asked him what was the matter. "Oh, your majesty," said the man, "my wife is suffering the greatest pain from toothache, and she obdurely refuses to have the tooth pulled." "If that is all," said Peter, "soon cure it; take me to her."

When they arrived, the woman declared that she was not suffering at all; there was nothing the matter with her. "That is the way she talks, your majesty," said the valet; "she is suffering tortures." "Hold her head and hands," said the czar; "I will have it out in a moment." And he instantly pulled out the indicated tooth with great dexterity, amid profuse thanks from the husband. What was Peter's indignation to discover a little later that his valet had used him as an executioner to punish his wife, who had never had an unsound tooth in her head.—San Francisco Argonaut.

many a farmer is blinded by jealousy because of the success of his neighbor so that he is unable to see why he didn't succeed and the other fellow did.

The covered milk pail proves no inconvenience to the milker, and certainly does keep out the dirt and germs from the milk. Why not try the plan?

WE HAVE THE STOCK

A Visit to Our Store Will Convince You.

T. M. BLOSSAT'S JEWELRY STORE

Society.

The Wednesday Workers held their second meeting last week at the home of Mrs. H. L. Ducrocq.

The Workers organized Jan. 15 with fourteen charter members.

Mrs. Raoul Jeanmarc was elected president and Mrs. Jas. Kelly secretary and treasurer. The object of the meetings will be social enjoyment and sunshine work.

Members present were: Miss Eliza Hopkins, Mmes. Leo Judice, Orren Hopkins, Nickerson, LeRosen, Nusz Kelly, R. A. Kennedy, Ducrocq.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 5, with Miss Eliza Hopkins as hostess.

Miss Quintilla Morgan charmingly entertained the Euterpe Girls Saturday afternoon.

After all the members and guests had arrived Miss Morgan announced that all were going to a "Tea Party" which was in the form of a contest. Miss Stanley was successful in cutting for the prize, a lovely hand-painted plate.

In the guessing contest Miss Maxim Beraud was lucky, winning the delicious box of candy. A dainty and enjoyable two-course luncheon was then served, after which the guests very reluctantly left, numbering this as one of their most enjoyable Club meetings.

Miss Morgan was graciously assisted in entertaining by her mother.

The Club had as its delightful guests, Mrs. W. A. LeRosen, Misses Andrus, Stanley, Massey and Byrne.

Miss O'Connor and Miss Shumate will be the next hostesses of the Club.

The scrawny horse on the farm tells a story of neglect and abuse on the part of the farmer, or one of worthlessness on the part of the horse. If the former, the farmer needs reforming, if the latter, the horse should be disposed of.

"No milk producer should sign a contract to sell milk for six months or a year ahead at fixed prices. No grower of potatoes or cabbages would think of pledging himself to accept fixed prices six months ahead of his produce." That sounds about right to us. What do you think about it?

It is a safe guess that dairying does not pay on the farm where you see a bunch of cows huddled together in the lee of the barn-yard, their backs humped up like jack rabbits, and each fighting for a place in the patch of sunlight while chewing the butt ends of cornstalks.

Discouraging. Eva—And now some Danish scientist has discovered that there are germs in tears.

Katherine—Gracious! With germs in tears and germs in kisses they must be trying to deprive poor woman of all pleasures in life.—Chicago Daily News.

The Stage

Macauley & Patton's Production of "When We Were Friends"

A company of excellent players with William Macauley in the leading role will be seen at Jefferson Theatre one night only Sunday, February 2, in the Macauley & Patton production of the beautiful comedy drama, "When We Were Friends". This play scored a high success from the very start and adds one more to the long list from the pen of that writer of real success, W. B. Patton. The costumes worn in the ball room scene are said to be the most stunning of the period, and the special scenery carried for this production is both elaborate and appropriate. This engagement will be looked forward to as one of the particular bright offerings of the season.

Vote for Jno. T. Michel for Secretary of State because he has made a good officer.

White Pine Expectorant is one of the guaranteed cures for Coughs and Colds. We have two sizes 25 cents and 50 cents bottles at the Moss Pharmacy.

BEN HUR

The Great Roman Spectacle at

TANNER & LANDRY'S

Roller Rink, Electric Theatre and Amusement Co.

JANUARY 28, 29 AND 30.

Admission: Everybody 10 Cents.

GIVE US A CHANCE

To show you the kind of bargains we are offering, by calling at our store. We sell Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Eurniture, Carpets, Matting, Stoves and House Furnishing Goods and our prices will interest you.

Falk Mercantile Co., Ltd.

JEFFERSON THEATRE

Sunday, Feb. 2

MACAULEY & PATTON'S

Magnificent Production of the Great Society Comedy Drama

"When We Were Friends"

By W. B. PATTON.

Plenty of Comedy. A Strong Heart Story. A Play Founded on Friendship A Play for the Masses. Beautiful Costumes.

SEE THE GREAT MASQUERADE BALL SCENE.

Prices 50c, 75c, and $1.00

Woman Cut.

Officers Charquois and Veazey arrested four negro women yesterday morning charged with cutting another woman. The injured woman was stabbed during a quarrel. The wound is under the shoulder and is considered serious.