RUSSIAN PRINCE AT CARNIVAL

Attracts Interest of Thousands—The Fair Sex is Smitten With the Charms of This "Big as a Minute" Man—Poor. But Proud Prince May Find a Wife.

If you saw a 4-year-old child passing up the street you would walk right on, paying no attention to this one of a thousand youngsters in every town and city, but if a real "true-true" man no bigger than the leg of your dining room table, and 32 years of age, met you on the highway you would look up and take notice. It is the unusual that makes one pause and wonder.

There is a little man in this city who is said to be the littliest man in the world. His name is "Prince" Nicholi and he weighs 16 pounds. Think of it, a man 32 years old wearing baby shoes and with a wrist that is not nearly so big as that of a Mellin's food baby. Poor little "Prince."

But the Prince is very happy. He was talking to a reporter yesterday and the world seems to hold only sunshine and gladness for him. He is very expectant because he is looking for a wife.

"I love the girls," said the Prince; "I have a girl, you know, or rather I had one, but I'm afraid she doesn't love me now and I am still hunting for a wife."

"And where did you get that diamond ring?" he was asked. "My girl gave it to me," was the happy response. "Now you want to bring all the girls around to see me. I want to look them over. I'm crazy about the girls."

In a little dwarfed frame, such as this very remarkable man possesses, one could scarcely hope to find health or strength. The appetite, for instance would be thought to be quite below the normal man's—but not so. Listen to this bill of fare:

"If I went to a restaurant for dinner," said the Prince, "here's what I'd order: Manhattan cocktail, porter house broiled steak with sauce shoe string potatoes, sliced tomatoes with cracked ice on top, a cold bottle of 'Milwankee,' a small cup of black coffee, a pretty girl with a 'peek-a-boo' shirt waist and 'peek-a-boo' stockings then I'd be ready for a good time."

Poor little "Prince." He seems to have set his heart on the sex and the winning of a woman is ever uppermost in his mind. Is he serious; or is it only a joke for effect? Judging from his demeanor and his tone he seems to be quite earnest and one can almost see written on that little brain "somewhere in the world there's a little girl for me."

The "Prince" says he comes from Siberia; that he has been in this country seven years and his parents live now in New Orleans. The little man speaks German, Russian and English. His grammar is very good, indeed and he speaks in a rather high-pitched, squeaky voice. He was neatly and well dressed in a fancy little "Prince Albert" and a white vest, baby shoes and a cap no bigger than a butter plate.

"This suit cost $35," said the Prince. "I get them all made to order."

The little fellow wears glasses, his right eye being weaker than the left. His head is quite bald. He suffered with pneumonia some years ago and his hair fell out. This is a rather "touchy" point with the "Prince" and he wears a skull cap when entering a dining hall. The "Prince" is a life member of the Elks.

"Tell the ladies to come and see me at the Carnival," said the "Prince."
