ITEMS OF INTEREST OVER THE STATE

L. J. Allemen, State Institute Conductor, has returned home from Salt Lake City, where he represented Supt. Harris at a conference of Southern and Middle West and Western superintendents of education. The conference was held for the purpose of discussing the question of interchangeable certificates for teachers. Mr. Allemen reports that good progress was made on this line.

Superintendent Harris announces that when the State Board of Education meets in Baton Rouge on Dec. 8 he will present for the approval of the board the list of seventeen agricultural high schools that have been established by the department upon the strength of the recent appropriation made by the General Assembly.

A. C. Lea of Shreveport and Ben Ingout, of Alexandria, have been notified by Attorney General Wickert of their appointments by President Taft as postmaster and United States marshal for the Western District of Louisiana, respectively.

Three hundred rice farmers of Acadia Parish met in Crowley Saturday to discuss the sales contract of the Southern Rice Growers' Association and listen to an outline of the plans of the Association. Vice-president W. T. Lawson, Secretary A. C. Wilkins and director F. J. Bernard gave the details of the workings of the organization, and after the meeting about 90 per cent of those present signed the contract.

Archie M. Smith, supervisor of public accounts has sent to every state official handling public funds, and to every board and department handling funds, a letter calling attention to the act of 1910, providing for quarterly statements of the fiscal affairs of the department and advising the officials of his intention of carrying this law into effect.

The Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad Company inaugurated a motor car service yesterday between Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

A statue to the naturalist, John J. Audubon, was unveiled in Audubon park, New Orleans, Saturday.

Hammond proposes soon to vote on an issue of $100,000 to build a school house, a town hall, jail, fire house and sewerage.

A special coach of Illinois farmers will leave on December 6, to inspect lands in the vicinity of Alexandria through efforts of the Progressive League of that city.

Over seventy-five new buildings are now in course of construction in Lake Charles. Some of them are not costly structures, but most of them are pretty homes and substantial business buildings. Work on the court house, Catholic church and convent, city hall and the sewerage system will soon be under way, and will bring hundreds of laborers and workmen into the city for an indefinite period.

For Sale. 40 acres of land, 30 in cultivation and 10 woodland, situated in Acadia parish, 2 miles from Jennings oil fields. Terms to suit purchaser. 11-29-1m FERNAND MOUTON.

Frank P. Davis.

Frank P. Davis, an old and highly esteemed citizen, died in this city Tuesday at 3 p. m. of Bright's disease, aged 66 years. Mr. Davis was sick only a short time and his death came as a great shock to his many friends. He was a native of New York, but was raised and educated in Mobile, Ala., being one of the first graduates of Spring Hill College. He served during the Civil war and made a record as a gallant soldier. He was claim agent of the Southern Pacific at the time of his death and had been in the employ of the company for forty years. He married Miss Elizabeth Grant of Mississippi, who survives him, and also eight children, all of whom were present when the end came, some with their husbands as follows: Mrs. (Dr.) Bourgeois, Mr. Louis Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, Morgan City, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bass, Mrs. L. J. Frederick, New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, Lake Charles; Mrs. F. T. Nichols, Mr. Randolph Davis, Savannah Ga. He leaves two sisters, Misses Lizzie and Marie Davis, of Mobile, Miss Lizzie with a nephew, Toby Petty, came, but the other sister was kept home by illness.

A special train bore the remains to Morgan City, at 2 p. m. Wednesday, where interment took place.

TRADE MORAL—Nobody would have known the Good Samaritan's kind act were it not for Our Saviour's parable. Be the home folks' Good Samaritan, Mr. Merchant; make this paper your commercial bible; write your own parable and put it in our advertising columns.

"Polly of the Circus."

It is rather unusual to see graphically represented on the stage of a theatre a real circus, with real horses, ponies, dogs and a trained elephant, and all the paraphernalia of the sawdust ring and yet that is what will be truly portrayed at the Jefferson Theatre on Thursday, Dec. 8. It is made possible by the ingenuity and cleverness of Frederic Thompson, a young man who a few years ago went down to New York City, and by his dash and dare revolutionized the then prevailing big amusement enterprises in and around the metropolis. He produced the wonders of Luna Park, Coney Island and the marvels of the huge Hippodrome in New York City. He was a sort of theatrical Moses, was this young Lochinvar, who came out of the wilds and invented realistic scenes on a prodigious scale. He had Margaret Mayo write a play on ideas he furnished, and then put them into realism. "Polly of the Circus" is a very human play with a quaint tenderness about it and a continuous interest that holds and entertains. Polly is a star rider in the circus that has just come to a stall old town in the middle West. The circus pitches its tent next to the parsonage. Polly meets with an accident, and is brought into the parson's home unconscious, with the parson, the two protectors of the girl—"Uncle Toby," the clown, and "Big Jim," the boss canvas-man—to care for her. Polly stays at the parson's home for eleven months and during that time she has learned to love and be loved by all the younger folks. The inevitable of course happens. Polly and the minister fall in love, and to the scandal of the proper parishioners. Polly hears how she is dragging down the clergyman's good name, so she decides to go back to the circus and not reveal her passion. A month after her departure the circus comes back again to the town and the big tent is packed all eager to see Polly ride. Polly who was in their town for nearly a year. And here are the big scenes of the play. The play ends of course with Polly and the minister uniting their fortunes, and the circus going away a second time without the star rider. Mr. Thompson has spared no expense in presenting this play with a capable cast. This is exactly the same production that played one solid year at the Liberty Theatre, New York City.

Woodmen's Ball.
The Woodmen's ball on Thanksgiving night was a big success financially and socially. A pleasant feature of the evening was two songs by Miss Alice Boudreaux of Crowley. Music was furnished by the Lafayette Concert Band.
