Lafayette, La., March 2, 1911.
 The Police Jury met this day in regular session.
 The members present were: Alonzo Lacy, Cornelius Spell, Edmond Martin, R. A. Voorhies, M. Billeaud, Jr., president, presiding, S. J. Breaux, P. R. Landry, and J. M. Broussard.
 P. A. Duplex, was absent.
 The minutes of the meeting held February 2nd, were read and approved.
 In regard to the contention of Registrar Mouton as shown in the minutes of the meeting held Feb. 2nd, District Attorney John J. Robira, reported that the compensation of the Registrar should be figured from the census of 1900 and not from that of 1910. Report accepted.
 The following petition was read and the matter turned over to the jury's attorney for investigation and to report at the next regular meeting.
 To the Honorable President and Members of the Police Jury of the Parish of Lafayette, La.:
 The petitioners, residents of the Second ward, Lafayette parish, desire that your honorable body change the public road running east and west, from a point at the southeast corner of the land of Alex Domanque, and the southwest corner of the land of Alexandre Broussard, on the east side to a point at the west end of said line, to the southwest corner of the land of Marcelle Sonnier and the southeast corner of the land of Leo Judice, that the said road may be about two arpents south thereof, so that same may conform to a survey made by Ruso J. Mouton, C. E., which survey was made in the suit of Eugena Trahan vs. Pierre Trahan et al. and which survey was confirmed by Court of Appeals and affirmed by the Supreme Court of Louisiana, that as the road is now situated in cuts, the property of Marcel Sonnier, D. Trahan, M. Trahan and Alex Domanque, into two parts, leaving only a small strip on the south side of said road, and disturbs the lines of all residing on the south of said road, whereas the proposed change in the road will help all and will correct all errors.
 Respectfully,
 L. L. Judice, Eighth ward, Thos. Hutchinson, Hugh Hutchinson, Numa Chession, Frank Foreman, Bennett Dubon, Noel Guidry, Ophie Guidry, Serenin Dubon, Overt Domingue, Alexie Breaux, Albert Trahan Neville Trahan, J. E.  Adjourned until 1:30 p. m. for dinner.
Afternoon Session.
 Messrs. Landry and Broussard committee on Darnas bridge repair reported having received through the secretary, letters from Messrs. Alsbury and Son, containing assurances to the effect that any defects in the bridge would receive immediate attention. Accepted.
 Mr. Breaux reported that he had investigated the complaint of Mr. Jos. P. Miller regarding the overflowing of this land along the public road in the 6th ward, and advised the jury that there was nothing the parish could do in view of the fact that this overflow was caused from the bayou through natural causes. Report accepted.
 Parish Health Officer, L. O. Clark, appeared before the jury and stated that he had, up to date vaccinated in the neighborhood of 1000 school children; and that he had given attention to several cases of small pox, two of which were now being cared for in the pest house.
 Dr. Clark requested that the jury fix his compensation for this year at the same figure as that of last year, i. e. $300.
 The report of Dr. Clark was accepted and on motion duly seconded and carried, his salary for the year 1911 was fixed at $300.
 By request of Mr. Lacy the secretary was requested to ask permission of Superintendent E. E. Shackford for the road overseer of the First ward to enter the company's premises at Culvert No. 153-a for the purpose of cleaning the drain under said culvert.
 Mr. Lacy turned over to the secretary the sum of three hundred dollars to be deposited to the First ward's special fund. Same being part of the road grader.
 A communication from Mrs. H. Baringer regarding her license in the city of Lafayette was ordered referred to the City of Lafayette Council.
 Messrs. Martin and Voorhies stated that they had had the per capita and vehicle tax assessment taken in the Third ward outside of the corporation of Lafayette for the reason that heretofore about 80 per cent of this tax in the corporation of Lafayette was left uncollected, that they did not care to go into the expense of taking this assessment unless some assurance was given them by the Police Jury that strenuous efforts would be made to collect all the tax.
 District Attorney John J. Robira was called and asked to read over the jury's ordinances regarding the per capita and vehicle tax and give his opinion as to the way to proceed for the collection of these delinquents. After examination of these ordinances Mr. Robira gave as his opinion that the Sheriff Ex-Officio Tax Collector was the proper officer to enforce the collection of these taxes.
 Sheriff Lacoste was called and after hearing the above opinion from Mr. Robira and after also the instructions of the Police Jury as per its ordinances, stated that he would, as soon as possible, proceed to enforce the collection of these delinquent taxes.

 Treasurer J. Ed Martin made the following report which was read and ordered placed on file:

THE BIBLE IN ENGLISH
 To Celebrate Ter-Centenary This Month - History of English Volume Reads Like Romance.
 Frederick L. Haskin in Times-Democrat:
 The whole English speaking world will this month celebrate the tercentenary of the English Bible, whose history is bound up as much with its spiritual life as with its material progress. The English Bible continues to uphold its reputation of being the best seller among the world's books. In 1910 the American Bible Society put out nearly two and a quarter million copies of the scriptures. In the ninety-fourth year of its existence the same organization has put out nearly 85,000,000 volumes. In the early days when the art of printing was a slow and painful process, a copy of the English Bible cost 40 pounds, equivalent in purchasing power to $800 in United States currency. Today a copy of the Gospels may be purchased for two cents, and a complete Bible for a nickel.
 The history of the English Bible reads like a vivid romance, at times clouded with superstition, cruelty and bigotry. John Wickliffe, (1344) made the first translation into the English language, a literal rendition from the Vulgate. His work in this respect preceded and pioneered the Reformation. William Tyndale was the true father of the English national version founded on the original languages. He conceived and undertook the work when he risked his life for a proof sheet of it were found on him, and his work was the basis of all subsequent ones. He published the New Testament at Wittenburg in 1526. He and Coverdale commenced to translate the Old Testament at Antwerp, but they were discovered. Tyndale, was captured, strangled and his body burned at the stake near Brussels, in 1536. Coverdale finished the translation of the Old Testament in 1535.
 "Matthews' Bible," (1537) was approved by royal authority, although he was burned at the stake in 1555. It was the first to contain notes. A new edition in 1539, the "Great Bible," and another in 1540 with Cranmer's preface - "Cranmer's Bible" - which omitted the notes, supplanted the former. This was the version issued by command of Henry VIII and chained to the reading desks in the churches, so that the common people might see the scriptures in English. The Geneva Bible followed in 1560, with Calvinistic notes. This won great popularity. Archbishop Parker went back to the "Great Bible" and appointed a commission of Bishops to revise it. This produced the "Bishop's Bible" (1568). It also had explanatory notes and was read in churches. This "Bishop's Bible," represented the church party, while the Geneva Bible retained its place among the Puritans and in fact with the popular majority. In 1610 the English Catholics, also produced a representative version translated from the Vulgate, and known as the "Douay Bible."

 In 1604 at the Hampton Court Conference, it was proposed to supercede the two Protestant versions, the Bishops and the Geneva, by a new one satisfactory to both parties. James I appointed a commission of forty-seven learned men of all sects to do the work, and fixed the rules under which they were to act. The Bishops' Bible was to be the basis and only to be altered where necessary. This version was published in 1611, and gradually displaced the others by virtue of its intrinsic merits. Under the commonwealth the question of a new version was raised, but a committee of the Long Parliament reported that "the English version was the best in the world," and what we call the King James Bible or Authorized Version, is certainly one of the very best national Bibles. No revision of that edition was undertaken until 1870, when the Convocation of Canterbury began the work, which being pushed to completion by a body of English and American scholars gave us what is known as the revised version.
 It was centuries before the desires of those who wished to give the Bible to the people were fulfilled. Vain attempts were made in Anglo-Saxon times to render the Latin version of Bible, only understood by learned men and priests, into the common vernacular of the English people. Caedmon, the Venerable Bede, King Alfred, Aelfric - these were some who translated or paraphrased portions of the Bible. Copies of these fragments thus laboriously made by hand were eagerly sought for. "Some gave a load of hay for a few chapters of St. John or St. Paul's epistles in English."
 It is the tercentenary of the appearance of King James Bible which is being so widely celebrated in this month of March with appropriate ceremonies and exercises in America and England, wherever the English tongue is spoken or the Scriptures read.
 Among the ancient Bibles behind the glass in the library of the British and Foreign Bible Society in London, there is a large folio volume stoutly bound, printed in black letter, with ink that has retained its color for three hundred years. There is the following legend on the title page: "The Holy Bible, containing the Old Testament and the New; newly translated out of the original tongues, with the former translations diligently compared and revised by his majesties Special Commandment. Appointed to be read in churches. Imprinted at London by Robert Baker, printer to the King's Most Excellent Maiestie. Anno Dom. 1611."
 An interesting exhibition has been arranged by the British Museum in connection with the observance of the tercentenary. The exhibition will be divided into two sections, manuscripts and printed books. The manuscripts illustrate the progress of the Bible from the very earliest times, starting with examples of Greek and Hebrew originals, and going on to the Latin Vulgate which really brought the Bible into England. The printed or book section starts with an example of a portion of the Bible printed in England, this being Tyndale's New Testament, produced in 1526.
 Other examples of printed work show all the editions produced by private individuals from Tyndale's time down to the first edition of the authorized version in 1611, when the special committees appointed seven years before by James I to revise the Bible put forth the results of their labors. Among the early texts of the Bible the museum possesses one great treasure, the Codex Alexandrinus. This manuscript was presented by a Sultan of Turkey to Charles II. Two other great Codices of early manuscripts, are shown in facsimile - the Sinaiticus and the Vaticanus. The former was discovered in a monastery on Mount Sinai by the great German scholar Tischendorf.
 Another section of this tercentenary exhibition will consist of a set of "Peculiar Bibles" - editions which, because of some typographical or other error, have become famous and known by such fanciful names as Vinegar Bible, the Treacle Bible, the Wicked Bible and the Bug Bible, to mention only a few. There are about twenty of these Bibles in all each with a definite history for its old nickname. For example an authorized version of the Bible was printed in London in 1631, by Robert Barker, and Martin Lucas, which is known as the "Wicked Bible," because the negative was left out of the seventh commandment. The King ordered that the printers should be fined $3,000 pounds. Only four copies of this Bible are known to be in existence.
 The Treacle Bible, issued in 1568, was so named from its rendering of Jeremiah viii, 22: "Is there no treacle in Gilead?" instead of the word

FOR RENT - Three furnished rooms. Would rent for light house-keeping. Mrs. W. J. Liddle, 419 E. Vermillion street.
"balm." The "Bug Bible," which bears the date of 1551, won its distinctive title through a queer rendering of Psalm cl, 5; where the word "bug" is substituted for "terror," making the text read: "Thou shalt not be afraid of the bug by night." Then there is the Vinegar Bible, where instead of the "Parable of the vineyard," we read the "Parable of the vinegar." This occurred in the chapter heading of Luke xx, in an Oxford edition of the authorized version published in 1717. This book was the most sumptuous of the Oxford editions, gotten out by a printer named Basket, some of the copies being printed on vellum. Owing to the careless proof reading all through it was dubbed, "a basket full of errors."
 There is also on exhibition a copy of the most valuable printed book in the whole world - a copy of Gutenberg Bible, which was printed at Mainz, in Germany. Experts say that its present day value would be hard to determine, since no copy has recently come into the market at any of the sale of rare books in London. Yet it is known that its price and value have steadily advanced. In 1884 a copy sold for 3900 pounds; in 1897 the Ashburnham copy on vellum sold for 4,000 pounds. The late Robert Hoe predicted that it would not be long before a copy of the rare Gutenberg Bible would easily fetch fifty thousand dollars.
 The English Bible is in itself an epitome of the struggles and advances of the English speaking races. The King James Bible engaged forty-seven of the best scholars of the day, involving on their part many years of labor. When printed it made 1464 large folio pages, laboriously set by hand and printed from cumbersome wood-block type on the primitive and slow going presses of the period. Nowadays it is set up on linotype machines and printed on steam or electric power presses that turn out thousands of sheets an hour. In it we find the origins of the standards of law and literature, our moral code and our ideas of human equality and freedom. It is fitting, then, that English-speaking countries and people all over the globe should celebrate the tercentenary of The Book with reverence, joyfulness and thanksgiving.
