A Ten Cover Supper. Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ellison entertained a few friends at supper in honor of Mrs. Thibodeaux and Miss Thibodeaux of New Orleans, who were the charming guests of Mr. and Mrs. McNassy. A large comfortable spring wagon was sent in for the guests who arrived at this pretty country home about seven o'clock. They were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Ellison and ushered into the house which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens, trailing vines and a profusion of lovely sun flowers emphasizing the cordial welcome of this hospitable couple. After indulging in pleasant conversation for a while, the guests were invited into the dining-room, where a most enjoyable ten cover supper was served. After returning to the sitting room all took part in a very interesting guessing contest, which resulted in Miss Esther Kendrick winning the ladies' prize, a pretty farm yard paper weight, and Prof. Keane, the gentleman's prize, a unique pig paper weight.

At the conclusion of a delightfully spent evening the guests bade Mr. and Mrs. Ellison good night, and will always remember this occasion with the greatest of pleasure. Those in attendance were Mrs. Thibodeaux, Miss Thibodeaux, Miss Esther Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. McNassy, Prof. Keane, Messrs. Ayers and Beadie.

Birthday Party. Mrs. M. Y. Moore entertained a number of little folks Tuesday afternoon in honor of her daughter Norma's fourth birthday, and such a jolly good time was had. About four o'clock the little folks began to gather and in a short time there were twenty-seven bright, happy children playing many games, singing catchy songs and reciting pretty recitations. Just before time to go home Mrs. Moore was assisted by Misses N. Poulet and Loise Stafford in serving delicious refreshments, which were highly enjoyed. The time went by so fast and the little fellows had such fun that they did not want to go home even when the parting time had arrived.

Just received fresh spare ribs, 12½c a pound.—R. H. McFaddin, phone 64.
