HOLY ROSARY INSTITUTE DEDICATED

Last Wednesday Archbishop Bleck assisted by a number of clergy formally dedicated the Holy Rosary Institute, a school opened near Lafayette for the industrial training of negro boys and girls. A procession was formed at Father Keller's residence, composed of the Archbishop, clergy, pupils of St. Paul's convent and visitors. Proceeding through the beautiful grounds to the school, Father Keller delivered an eloquent address of welcome. The clergy sang "Veniceator", after which the Archbishop solemnly dedicated the building, giving in his address many cogent reasons for the existence of the institution, paying compliment to the great and untiring energy of Father Keller, in establishing the school.

The following priests were present: Revs. Gassler, vicar general of New Orleans; J. B. Jeanmard, chancellor, New Orleans; N. A. Grace, president St. Charles College; W. J. LAFAYETTE MAN MAKING GOOD

SHIPS FIRST CAR OF ONIONS FROM MISSION OF PRESENT CROP.

Is Said Never to Fail in Way of Farming—Makes Good Every Season.

The following clipping from a Mission, Texas, paper will be read with much interest by the many friends of J. F. Tanner who moved to that South west Texas town about eight years ago. The paper says:

Mr. Tanner of this city has the honor of shipping the first cars of onions of the present crop, the two cars having left here last week consigned to northern markets through the Roy Cambeil agency represented in Mission by Fred Volz. The onions were sold cash on track for $1.25 per crate and today Mr. Tanner is reveling in plenty of cash, the world looks bright and he is among the happiest farmers of the Mission proposition. Mr. Tanner usually makes good with his onions and the writer has yet to hear him say he failed at anything in the way of farming. We have known him ever since he has lived here and have seen him make good every season. To Mission belongs the honor of shipping the first car of onions this season, the first time in three years that we have been first, Laredo having beaten our time for the past three shipping seasons."

And the Villain Still Pursued Her

In the Kalem farce "AND THE VILLAIN STILL PURSUED HER," which the management of the Jefferson has secured for Tuesday, April 21, patrons will find a photoplay which, in addition to containing a laugh in every scene, presents a powerful moral. Ruth Roland and John E. Brennan, the famous KALEF provocokers, are the leading people in this farce. Geraldine is compelled to return a gown she has just purchased, because her husband finds himself unable to pay for it. Reggie, a former suitor, volunteers to loan Geraldine the money. The woman foolishly accepts the loan and tells her husband that she has received it from her aunt as a gift. Later, the aunt unexpectedly arrives, and to save herself from an embarrassing situation. Geraldine confesses to the woman. The aunt, after a lecture, gives Geraldine the money and orders her to return it to Reggie. This Geraldine attempts to do when Reggie appears at the house that evening as one of her husband's guests. To her indignation, the contemptible wretch tries to make love to her. Ripping off the dress that has caused the trouble, Geraldine throws it into Reggie's face. The guests learn the story. What they do to Reggie will bring a hearty laugh from every photoplay patron.
