Wisdom of the Administration in the

The secretary of the treasury has for nity, and, so far as the world knows, without serious disturbance to his temper or digestion.

Mr. Carlisle did not, of course, expect to satisfy his critics when he arranged the sale of the new-bond issue. It has not astonished either him or his friends that the contract with the new syndifor his country.

All the assaults made upon the govthey were sold at too low a price. Few have the hardihood to say that they should not have been issued.

Unquestionably it would be best to place all loans with our own people, all things being equal. It is also true that a low price was realized for the

But every thoughtful man who carefully examines into the condition of affairs must not only approve the sale abroad, but also the bargain made with the great banking houses which took

By the terms of the contract the members of the syndicate obligated themselves to check the exportations of gold. The only way to do this is by keeping down the rate of exchange both by importing gold and by the employment of such other means for in-fluencing the markets as lie in the power of the Morgans and Rothschilds and their associates who have great credits abroad which may be drawn upon at will. This is really the principal con-sideration in the sale; it could have been obtained from no other combination, unless, perhaps, the associated banks of New York could have been prevailed upon to enter into such an reement. It is unfortunate that they lid not rise to the situation. The New York clearing house is made up of an aggregation of financiers who have shown themselves equal to any great emergency. While the Bank of England had to call upon the richer Bank of France for assistance after the Baring crash, the New York clearing house weathered the great financial storm of 1893 without soliciting a penny of help, and held up the whole country in so do ing. Had this great association desired to help the government it could have checked the gold run on the treasury long ago. The members have not cared to assume this patriotic duty, strained relations having grown up between some of them and the secretary of the treasury, who has acted as he thought best independently of their wishes and advice. Private pique influenced them to such an extent that with over eightyone million dollars in gold coin in their vaults and with a further stock to draw from of over five hundred million scattered over America, they refused to spare one dollar to relieve

Under the circumstances Mr. Carlisle made the best and wisest arrangement possible. Knowing that no matter at vhat price the bonds might be sold in this country the gold would be imme-diately withdrawn and again hoarded, he decided to treat with a syndicate that could not only furnish gold, but also give some reasonable guarantee of its preservation for at least a time. Only such houses as the Rothschilds and the Morgans could give this guar-

There is no sufficient ground for sup posing that the syndicate either canno or will not do much of what it has greed to do. It can control hostile bankers, some of whom there must be, by indirect influences, and thus vir-tually secure the cooperation of the New York clearing house and the great continental and English banking in-stitutions. The Rothschilds have branches in all the great money cen-evils the treasury has encountered ters of the world-London, Vienna, in the last five years are attributable Frankfor through them can sell commercial bills so as to keep down on the rate of ex-change in favor of a country they are helping. They have been doing this for nearly a hundred years, and this they have no doubt agreed to do again, if necessary, for the United States.

From now on we shall be able to watch for the first time, at least in many years, an intelligent manipula-tion of the money markets for a praise-worthy and patriotic purpose. We can hardly see how the syndicate can fail to preserve a satisfactory gold balance in the treasury for many months. There will undoubtedly be attempts to cut it down. Such a one was Russell Sage's recent withdrawal of $550,000 from the subtreasury and the efforts to force gold to a premium. But these movements will almost necessarily be individual efforts disconnected and of little consequence when exerted against the syndicate's influences. A combination to bear the government's credit would not be tolerated. The exortation of gold ceased as soon as an ntimation of the contract got abroad and there is no indication that it will be resumed, though at a time of the year when the tide sets its strongest to

If the syndicate do what it has under take nthe value of such a service can-not be overestimated. The daily loss to business under such conditions as prevailed during the great gold run was far in excess of what the interest on the bonds for a year would be. The syndicate made the bond issue a success, and the five millions or so it may be success, and the five millions or so it may make will be fairly and honestly earned.

When this administration and the men who compose it have passed into history, it will be understood by all that Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Cleveland met the greatest emergency that has arisen since the war with courage, patriotism and wisdom.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The administration cannot very well some months enjoyed the distinction of being the worst abused man in the country. It is not a very pleasant poment. For one thing, the constitution country. It is not a very pleasant po-sition to occupy, but Mr. Carlisle has is against it. Furthermore, there is in maintained it with his customary digcalling in musketeers to expedite legis-lative proceedings. But it is a great pity—at least in some respects. We do not say in all.

When a house of representatives that is overwhelmingly democratic de cisively rejects a proposition the adop-tion of which would strengthen the cate has caused him to be denounced national treasury half a million a year by the republican and populist orators for thirty years, no doubt every demo and press from Dan to Beersheba. He crat who is also a patriot and a good has too long been their target to care for such firecracker artillery when he knows, and knows that the public knows, he has done the best possible of this!" cried Cromwell, striding into the middle of the chamber. "The Lord All the assaults made upon the government have sought to establish two things: That it was unpatriotic and unjust to American citizens to sell the should give place to better men." And conds to a foreign syndicate, and that they scuttled out before his musket-

Of course, we see that this was irreg ular and foolish. One evil cannot b corrected by another and more mon-strous. But the behavior of the house of representatives in rejecting a proposition to authorize the issue of three per cent. gold bonds must, in the present circumstances, be set down as an ac of such nneommon and unpatriotic madness as to call for the severest censure the people can pronounce. There would be a savage satisfaction in seeing these false servants put out—al-ways by some safe constitutional process—if only their successors would

But what are we to infer from the conduct of the republicans in the house? Mr. Reed's behavior the other day was plainly dishonest and insin-He professed to support the sound-money resolution, and through partisanship or a worse motive did it what harm he could. This is not of good augury for the republican conress to com

Following this defeat of a sound financial proposition, we may expect attacks upon the gold-purchase con-tract just made by the administration. Ignorance and vice will cheerfully join hands in that business. It still seems to be a little difficult to convince even intelligent persons that this contrac provides for something more than the sale of bonds. A study of its provisions shows that it makes vision not only for replenishing treasury's stock of gold, but for protecting it against all preventable drains. How efficient the protection is will probably appear. It might be well for the too-ready critics to wait and see whether the government has made a bad bargain.—N. Y. Times.

M'KINLEY'S BUNGLING. Condition Brought About by High Tariff Legislation.

Gov. McKinley, of Ohio, the putative author of the McKinley bill, says the way to maintain the gold reserve in the treasury is to stop the deficit in the revenues. This is a strange proposi tion coming from that source. From the close of the war until the McKinley law became operative there was no defi cit in the revenues. From that time until the day the bill was repealed there was nothing else.

At the close of Cleveland's first term in the presidency, March 4, 1889, there was a surplus in the treasury of more than one hundred million dollars, and a revenue redundancy that excited the concern of the statesmanship of the country. But in 1890 the McKinley law was enacted, and the condition was changed. In three years the sur-plus was exhausted, and instead, there was a treasury deficit amounting to more than fifty million dollars. In other words, the revenue deficit amounted to more than fifty million dollars a year under the McKinley law For Gov. McKinley to comment in the language imputed to him in regard to the revenue deficit is, therefore, to set him down as a montebank. Under the circumstances he should be modes and to no other car

A Bank

Failure.

AN INVESTIGATION DEMANDED.

A general banking business is done by the human system, because the blood deposits in its vaults whatever wealth we may gain from day to day. This wealth is laid up against "a raim day" as a reserve fund—we're in a condition of healthy prosperity if we have laid away sufficient capital to draw upon in the hour of our greatest need. There is danger in getting thin, because it's a sign of letting down in health. To gain in blood is nearly always to gain in veholescene flesh. The odds are in favor of the germs of consumption, grip, or pneumonia, if our liver be inactive and our blood impure, or if our flesh be reduced below a healthy standard. What is required is an increase in our germ-fighting strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enriches the blood and makes it wholesome, stops the waste of tissue and at the same time builds up the strength. A medicine which will rid the blood of its poisons, cleanse and invigorate the great organs of the body, vitalize the system, thrill the whole being with new energy and make permanent work of it is surely a remedy of great sale. But withorate the great organs of the body, witalize the system, thrill the whole being with new energy and make permanent work of it, is surely a remedy of great value. But when we make a positive statement that oß per cent, of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the early stages of the disease, be CURED with the "Discovery," it seems like a bold assertion. All Dr. Pierce asks is that you make a thorough investigation and satisfy ourself of the truth of his assertion. By sending to the World's Dispensary, Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., you can get a free book with the names, addresses and photographs of a large number of those cured of throat, bronchial and lung diseases, as well as of skin and scrofulous affections by the "Golden Medical Discovery."
