

Arabian Devotees at Prayer in Algerian Desert

Though the religious devotees were greatly opposed to having a photograph taken while they were at prayer, the navy photographer managed to secure this picture without being discovered. It shows an Arab prayer meeting in the desert of Algeria.

She Is an Active Miner at Eighty

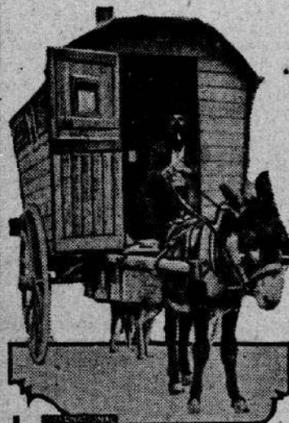

Mrs. Mary Nunes, eighty years old, grandmother of six and great grand mother of three, is actively operating her mining claims near Tonopah, Nev. The photograph shows her home and shed built of old tin cans and scrap lumber. Mrs. Nunes has sunk about twenty shafts doing all the drilling, blasting and hoisting herself.

SHE IS AN ENGINEER

Women in business and professional life are no longer an oddity. It remained for Miss Lou Alta Melton of Denver, however, to seek entrance to a sphere which has hitherto been almost exclusively occupied by the stronger sex—civil engineering. She was the only girl in the civil engineering class which graduated from the University of Colorado last June, and she is now employed as an assistant bridge engineer for the United States bureau of public roads in Denver. Miss Melton is also the first woman member of the Colorado Society of Engineers. She is twenty-five years old.

GYPSY OF FRANCE

This is a typical French gypsy just roaming in his house on wheels drawn by his little donkey. It has recently been ascertained that the French gypsy tribes originated in Hindustan. While their language is French, their habits and traits are those of the natives of Hindustan. Members of the French academy spent years studying the history and traits of the gypsies before becoming convinced as to the origin of these people.

RULING IS MADE ON STORING OF LIQUOR

Supreme Court Justice Decides Whisky Transportation to Home Legal.

Washington.—Storage of lawfully acquired liquors in commission warehouses and the transportation of such stocks to the home of the owner is not prohibited by the Volstead act, under a decision handed down Monday by the supreme court.

In passing upon the appeal of William G. Street of New York from decisions of lower courts, refusing to enjoin internal revenue officials from seizing liquors he had placed in a room rented from a safe deposit company, the supreme court reversed the lower courts and held the injunctions should be granted.

The effect of this ruling had not been fully appraised by the internal revenue and prohibition enforcement officials. The belief was expressed, however, that the result might be the release of some 10,000,000 gallons of intoxicating beverage stored in warehouses since January 16, 1920.

Records on file at Washington show that in addition to immense quantities of liquors purchased and stored by individual consumers, there were in storage when the Volstead act became effective, large stocks held by hotels and restaurants as reserve. Whether these later stocks come within Monday's ruling has not been determined. It was anticipated that test cases would be filed soon on this and similar questions arising from the undetermined scope of the new interpretation of the Volstead act.

Justice Clark, who rendered the opinion, held that the transportation of liquor from warehouse storage to the owner's home would be legal, if the liquor had been lawfully acquired and for a lawful purpose. He said "that the act is understood by the officers charged with its execution as permitting such transportation as shown by the provisions and the regulations of the bureau of internal revenue authorizing permits for the transportation of liquor from one permanent residence of an owner to another in the case of his removal, although no such transfer is in terms provided for by the act."

Texas Congress Mothers Hold Interesting Session

Dallas, Tex.—The Texas Congress of Mothers closed its three-day session at Dallas Thursday by electing officers, choosing San Antonio as the next congress city and adopting resolutions calculated to better the living conditions of women and children of the state.

Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, Austin, was elected president; Mrs. Edward Kneeland, Dallas, vice president; Mrs. Noyes Smith, Austin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Stephen Chamness, Henderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles J. Chaisson, Beaumont, treasurer, and S. P. Waltrip, Houston, principal of the Houston Heights school, auditor. Mr. Waltrip is the first man ever to hold an office in the organization, the committee announced.

Resolutions calling for exclusive use of English in Texas schools, a new constitutional convention, devotional exercises in schools, unit system in country districts, a modern child labor law, requiring health certificates from contracting parties seeking marriage licenses and continued physical training in schools were adopted.

Bodies of Americans to Remain.

Washington.—The bodies of about 550 American soldiers who died in England are to remain permanently in that country by request of the families of the men. Secretary Baker announced Tuesday that orders had been given to concentrate the bodies in a permanent cemetery near London, which will be under the perpetual care and control of the American government. All other American dead in Great Britain have been returned to the United States, according to the war department announcement.

Voters Favored Bond Issues.

Houston, Tex.—Two bond issues to provide $2,175,000 for wharves and other harbor improvements and a proposition to buy the Manchester tract of 600 acres on the Houston ship channel for wharfage and harbor development purposes were defeated and four bond issues aggregating $375,000 for the construction of bridges, street paving, sanitary sewers and school buildings were authorized in a special election held in Houston Wednesday.

Recognizing Them. Her parents had started with nothing; had succeeded in amassing a fortune; had given her a splendid education, and had sent her abroad to study music. She was cultured, but her parents were still as ingenuous as the day when they were married. They went to see "The Passing Show." When a pair of acrobats did their turn the mother became excited, and said, "So that everybody could hear her, 'Sadie, Sadie! Do you remember what I said about them two fellers I saw in the hippodrome in Cleveland?' 'Well, then there are 'em.'—Indianapolis News.

First Impression. A friend wearing a long "goatee" had come in and had been greeted by the man of the house who, with the pride of a father, lifted his little son in his arms and smilingly said: "Willie, this is Mr. Blank. Mr. Blank, isn't Willie a fine boy?" Mr. Blank smiled, but his goatee shook forbiddingly in the boy's face, which was clouded with suspicion, in spite of his father's reassuring words. Willie only stared for a moment and then exclaimed, thinking hard of the wisp of hair on the caller's chin: "Don't you bite my fader!"—Columbus Dispatch.
