

HAD NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

But Health Restored to Texas Lady, Who Is Now Well and Strong, Able to Do All Her Housework and More.

Rosebud, Texas.—Mrs. Annie Lange, of R. F. D. No. 4, this place, writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardui: "Some time ago I had a nervous breakdown of some kind . . . I was very weak, and so nervous. It all seemed to come from . . . trouble, for at . . . I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, tremble, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly.

"I began the use of Cardui, to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I felt better . . . I soon saw a great improvement, so kept it up.

"I used seven bottles of Cardui, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Now able to do all my housework and a great deal of work besides."

If you are run-down, weak, nervous, and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardui will help you, in the way it has helped thousands of others, during the past 40 years.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. —Adv.

PROCLAIMS NOV. 25 THANKSGIVING DAY

President Calls on America to Give Thanks on That Day.

Washington — President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation Friday, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, November 25, for the usual observances. The text follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness.

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imprinted in our thoughts and habits. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace, as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call. The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. May we have vision to discern our duties; the strength, both of hand and resolve, to discharge them, and the soundness of heart to realize that the truest opportunities are those services.

"In spirit then of devotion and stewardship we would give thanks in our hearts and dedicate ourselves to the service of God's merciful and loving purpose to His children.

"Wherefore I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and I call upon my countrymen to cease from their ordinary tasks and avocations on that day, giving it up to the remembrance of God and His blessings, and their dutiful and grateful acknowledgement."

Harding Delivers First Address at Border City

Brownsville, Tex.—Facing a border crowd in which were many citizens of Mexico and several officials of the Mexican government, President-elect Harding proposed Thursday a foreign policy directed toward peace and friendship, but demand always full protection of American nationality and of American citizens wherever they may go.

The address, which was his first prepared public utterance since his election to the presidency, was delivered from a stand on the Fort Brown parade grounds without a few hundred yards of the international boundary.

In the course of his address, devoted jointly to the significance of the Armistice Day anniversary and to the country's foreign relations, he did not mention Mexico by name, nor did he refer directly to the league of nations.

"We crave fraternity," he said, "we wish amicable relations everywhere. We offer peace and choose to promote it, but we demand our freedom and our own America. I believe an America eminent on the seas, respected in every avenue of trade, will be safer at home and greater in influence throughout the world. I like to think of an America whose citizens are ever seeking the greater development and enlarged resources and widened influence of the republic, and I like to think of a government which protects its citizens wherever they go on a lawful mission, anywhere under the shining sun."

France Opposes German Entrance.

Paris.—The French government is unalterably opposed to the admission of Germany to the league of nations at this time, it was stated at the foreign office Friday. Some "drastic action" would be a consequence if the league voted to admit Germany, it was intimated.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. MOON'S TALK.

"My dear friend—even though I don't see him so often I call him and feel toward him as one of my good friends—Mr. Sun," said Mr. Moon, "has been telling of late some of the reasons why he is so happy. And I'd like to tell people that I'm happy, too."

"I'm sure you would," said Fairy Princess Twilight Bell. "Why don't you tell me and I'll tell the Fairy Queen and she will wave her wand about and see that the message goes to many people."

"Ah, that is good of you," said Mr. Moon.

"I am not jealous of Mr. Sun's talking a great deal of late. I'm too high up and superior to be jealous. It's only those who don't amount to much who are jealous.

"But I, too, would like to let the world know how happy it makes me as I look down upon it at night."

"I would look down upon it during the day, only the day isn't my time," laughed Mr. Moon.

"In the first place, you see," he continued, "I'm not in fancy dress. I'm neither a crescent moon tonight nor a half-moon. I'm not a full moon, either, with my full dress suit on."

"I'm almost round, but not quite. That is a way I like to be, too. I am like this when I feel like dressing up a good deal but when I don't feel like wearing my very best things.

"Did you see the beautiful ring I wore tonight around me?"

"Yes, indeed I did," said the Fairy Princess Twilight Bell.

"They know now that once in a while I like to wear a little jewelry, don't they?" asked Mr. Moon. "I mean the earth people, of course, and the children especially. I like to feel they know about me."

"I believe a great many of them have heard that you do like jewelry, especially a nice ring, or several rings put alongside of each other to make it look as though you were wearing one wide ring of many different kinds of colored stones when you're really wearing many rings. And you have a beautiful gold ring, too."

"You did have on some lovely ones tonight."

"Yes," said Mr. Moon. "I wore my wide gray ring. That's a plain ring, but handsome. I got those gray stones which made up that ring from a very fine jeweler named Mr. Gray Night Cloud."

"If you ever want a ring like that, Fairy Princess Twilight Bell, you should see him. Of course you wouldn't want quite such a large ring as Mr. Moon would want, but he would make one to fit you."

"And then I wore a very wide and very handsome ring he made me of rows of gray and blue and green stones. Beautiful ring, wasn't it? It made me look as though I had a ring about me like a rainbow, didn't it?"

"It was very lovely," said Fairy Princess Twilight Bell. "And everyone spoke of how curiously you looked tonight and how remarkable."

"They certainly all looked at you."

"Ah, I'm glad they admired my jewelry. Of course, you know," he added, "I usually wear a ring to remind me that I need a rest and that the King of the Clouds and the Army or Raindrops and all of his family will take my place."

"And I like to wear beautiful rings. One can hardly blame me when I have such fine jewelry up in the sky and they never charge me anything. They say they have no use for money, and neither they have. And if they wanted money I couldn't give it to them for I haven't any, you know."

"I never go and buy ice cream sodas and such things so why should I need money?"

"But I was going to tell you, dear Fairy Princess Twilight Bell that I too am very happy."

"I look down upon boys and girls sleeping and I twinkle and laugh as I see them for I say to myself."

"Tomorrow you will get up and you will do many fine things. You may make mistakes but you will do fine things too. And old Mr. Moon knows, as for years and years he has seen boys and girls and he has never failed to like them and to think well of them, mighty, mighty well, so why wouldn't he be happy I'd like to know?"

REGULAR GROWTH OF CLUBS DURING 1920

Exodus From Country to City Is Being Checked.

Agriculture Dignified in Eyes of Thousands of Boys and Girls and Brings New Interest Into Lives of Members.

During the first six months in 1920, 208,257 boys and girls in the northern and western states enrolled in the clubs which are supervised by the United States Department of Agriculture and the state colleges. The large enrollment in these clubs promises that soon, possibly before the next census is taken, the exodus from the country to the city will be definitely checked. Club work has already dignified agriculture in the eyes of thousands upon thousands of farm boys and girls, and made them satisfied with country life, for the organization brings new interests into the lives of its members and enables them to make money of their own. While club work encourages boys and girls to procure a higher education if possible—887 northern and western club boys and 607 club girls are in agricultural colleges this year—it does not educate them away from the farm.

One per cent of the total population of the country, or 1,041,441 persons, were reached the first six months of the current year through the juvenile club events. When the boys and girls put on an exhibit it is popular with all ages and all ages attend. The work in the clubs was carried on by 173 permanent county club agents and 8,046 volunteer local leaders. The number of permanent club agents has nearly doubled in six months. Large numbers of farm bureaus now are paying the salary of a club leader as well as that of a county agent and home demonstration agent.

PIGS REDUCE HUSKING COSTS

"Hogging Down" Corn Shown to Be Profitable by Test Made at North Dakota College.

Here is another bit of evidence received at University farm that "hogging down" corn is good business for many growers of hogs and corn. The North Dakota Agricultural college obtained a return of $45.54 an acre by using 48 shoats to hog down 16 acres of flint corn in 1918, according to J. H. Shepperd of the experiment station. The hogs were turned into the field September 6, when they averaged 109 pounds in weight, and left there until November 12. They made an average gain of 94 pounds, or a gain of 281.75 pounds per acre. They were marketed at 16.31 cents, which, allowing for shrinkage, gave a return of $45.54 per acre. These results are in line with those obtained by the Minnesota experiment stations.

SKUNKS WILL YIELD PROFIT

Besides Destroying Mice, Grasshoppers and Other Insects Their Fur Is Valuable.

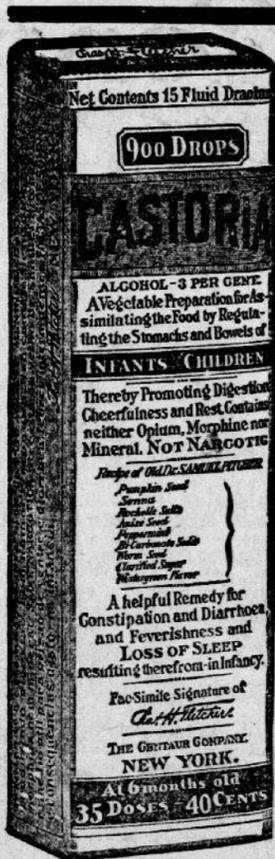

Farming is supposed to deal only with domesticated animals. Few persons have considered establishing friendly relations with the skunk, although it has been done under the misapprehension that the animal was a cat.

Skunks destroy mice, grasshoppers, crickets and white grubs and yield a very valuable fur. A couple of dozen skunks running around the farm will produce $100 worth of fur and save much money by the animals that they kill. If the chickens are kept in skunk-proof yards, their dens respected and tact used when meeting them in the dark, a profitable side line will be added to the farm income.

MARKETING BY PARCEL POST

It Should Be Remembered That Not All Farm Products Can Be Handled in This Manner.

While it may be attractive to a city dweller to believe that he can have a vegetable garden grown for him 100 miles or 150 miles away, place his orders for the cost of a stamp, and have the produce delivered at his door, it should be remembered that not all farm products lend themselves to direct marketing by parcel post. Usually it is impracticable to market such heavy products as potatoes by parcel post, whereas eggs, butter, sausage, poultry, many vegetables, and meats may frequently be shipped with profit and at a saving to the purchaser.
