An Advance Worthy of Encouragement.

We have been engaged in printing the minutes of the proceedings of the last session of the Ouachita and Bayou Macon colored Baptist Association which was held near Charleville in this parish last August; and in reading over the copy, we find many things worthy of commendation, encouragement and imitation. For instance, they take very high grounds on the temperance question, advising the churches to exercise strict discipline in regard to the habit of drum drinking—to prohibit their members indulging in the use of intoxicating liquors. They make an earnest appeal to the police juries of the different parishes to submit the question of liquor license or no liquor license to the vote of the people, and pledge themselves to vote no license.

But what we set out to speak of more particularly in this article is their movement toward establishing within the bounds of their Association an institution of learning for the benefit of the colored race. They adopted a resolution putting an evangelist in the field, to canvass the matter and solicit contributions for this purpose; and we know the colored population of this section and are acquainted with their sentiment on the subject well enough to know that they will respond to his appeals most liberally, and to be fully persuaded that they will succeed in establishing the school.

Let us give them all the encouragement and assistance in our power in this laudable purpose; encourage their ambition for intellectual and moral improvement, and thus assist them to become more useful and worthy citizens.

They are the tillers of our soil, furnish the most of the labor of our country and are the most reliable laborers that can be found; and the more intelligent they are the better laborers they make; the better they are prepared to cultivate the soil in such manner as will produce the best results. Education will make them better laborers, better neighbors, better husbands, wives and children and better citizens; and, therefore, we should feel gratified to see them making such advances in this direction. School houses and churches are much cheaper and a great deal more desirable edifices than jails and penitentiaries.

In reading the proceedings of the Executive Board, at a meeting held in September, we also discover that we were requested to publish the Temperance report adopted by the association, which request we shall certainly comply with either this week or next.

Capital for the South.

What is needed in the South is more capital. This is a want felt in every branch of business. It is phenomenal that money can be borrowed by the farmer in the North on long time, at less than half what it can be borrowed at on the best commercial paper in the South, on short time. Northern farmers borrow money at from five to seven per cent. Southern merchants borrow it at from ten to eighteen per cent. Southern landowners, until recently, found it difficult to borrow money at any price. Last Spring efforts were made by planters to borrow money in this city at rates amounting to twenty-five per cent, that failed. Some citizens who have money argue that this is not a bad state of affairs, for no thrifty land-owner ought to borrow money. That is nonsense. There is no good planter who can not make money rapidly by borrowing money and wisely using it if he can get it anywhere nearly as cheap as it can be borrowed in the North. It is time that this should be the case in the South.

Large amounts are pouring into the South to develop immense enterprises, and our citizens should do everything in their power to secure sufficient capital for all legitimate commercial, manufacturing and planting interests. Where the laws are not up to the mark, they should be promptly changed, so as to give capital absolute protection. They should be changed in many important respects in this State. We have often referred to the changes that should be made, but they cannot be too persistently pressed on the attention of the public. The exemption laws should be pruned thoroughly. They exempt entirely too much and they are grossly partial. A correspondent has suggested making loaned money a preferred debt. We are inclined to believe this measure would be beneficial both to the lender and borrower. It would certainly make the rate of interest lower.

Politics should be brought to a normal, safe, healthy, and permanent condition. Capital is timid and shuns localities where elections resemble semi-revolutions. All extremes should be avoided, and all classes and interests should participate and be represented in the local government. The selfish radicals that would ignore the property and prosperity of the country should be put down and kept down, and the Bourbons who do not want to tolerate any opposition should be kept curbed. A permanent, just, conservative course is the proper one to pursue. This sort of policy and this sort of legislation will bring a sufficient amount of available cheap money to the South. There are already indications of the flow of money South that give promise of a prosperous future.—Richland Herald.

DEAD!

Governor Louis Alfred Wiltz Expires at 12:30 a m.

Surrounded by Loving Friends, After a Long Term of Suffering, the Head of the State Placidly Enters into Immortality, His Last Thought Being of His Devoted Wife.

This morning at 12:30 o'clock Gov. Louis Alfred Wiltz, surrounded by loved ones and ministering friends, quietly breathed his last. During the whole of yesterday it was seen that he was growing weaker, and at night those in attendance felt that the end was not far off. Just as the moon was rising above the tree-tops surrounding the beautiful home of our lamented Governor, and whilst a quiet and peaceful rest seemed to lie upon the surrounding landscape, the breath became shorter, and the crisis was approaching.

At 11:30 o'clock, as tender hands were changing his position, a fainting spell came on, and it was thought he was dying. Dr. T. G. Richardson was immediately summoned, and at once entered the sick room. The Governor, however, had recovered from the faint before the doctor arrived, and after a coughing spell, seemed to rest somewhat easier. The doctor ordered a hyperdermic injection of morphia and at once a messenger was dispatched for the drug. During his absence the dying man complained that he felt chilly, and the windows which he had a short time before begged to be opened, were ordered closed. The fever had passed away and a clammy coldness began to steal upwards from his extremities. His faculties were undimmed and with a natural look he gazed around the room to see who was present.

His breathing after midnight became stertorous and his pulse rose to 150. At 12:15 it was seen that he was sinking, for his features were pinched, his breathing had intervals of at least half a minute and the coldness had stolen up the limbs. Before he lost consciousness his last words were to his devoted wife: "Do not leave me. Stand here in the light so I can see you when I die!"

As the closing scene drew near, the following friends in attendance, beside the family, were grouped around the death-bed: Thos. Wiltz, Chas. Colbertson, Phil. Powers, P. O. Fazende, Geo. Dupre, E. A. Burke, Jas. D. Houston, Will. A. Strong, Col. L. St. Martin, John Finney, T. Lee Shute and P. L. Boucay. In silence they gazed upon the last moments of the chivalric and gallant man, and tears "from eyes unused to weep" moistened cheeks. At 12:30 the last respiration had ended, and the mortal spark died out without the movement of a muscle or a change of feature. A ripple on the surface of a stream could not fade into smooth placidity with less quietude and gentleness than that soul was immobilized in eternity.

The Meeting This Morning.

This morning at 2 o'clock there was a meeting of State officers in the gentlemen's parlor of the St. Charles Hotel, of State, civil, and military officers to make arrangements for the funeral of our late Governor. There were present Ex-Gov. McEnery, Secretary of State Will. A. Strong, State Treasurer E. A. Burke, Private Secretary Major Halsey, Gens. Belan and Meyer.

A committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Edwin Harris, Jemel and Strong was appointed to select a room in the State-house for the lying-in-state and to attend to the decorations. The body will lie in state from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., Monday. The funeral will take place at 3 p. m., sharp.—N. O. Democrat, Oct. 21.

Good Advice From A Leading Medical Professor.

The learned doctor says: Keep some kind of a tonic medicine always in the house, and if anyone feels unwell, make free use of it. But first be sure that it is both harmless as well as meritorious. Put no trust in alcoholic preparations; their use will lead to intemperance; neither be partial to any remedy that produces a severe cathartic effect, for prostration of the nervous system and digestive organs is sure to follow. The mildest and best medicine ever invented for strengthening every organic function to their normal condition, and one which is having an unparalleled and rapidly increasing sale in the Eastern States, is Brown's Iron Bitters. Any Druggist will procure it for you if you request him to do so, especially when he finds you cannot be persuaded to take some substitute. It does not contain alcohol, and is the only preparation of Iron that cures headache and does not blacken the teeth. It is a sure restorative, a true strengthener, and the very best medicine ever invented for permanently strengthening the pulmonary, urinary and digestive organs, and preventing consumption, kidney diseases and chronic dyspepsia, often curing these diseases when all other remedies have failed; for it is truly nature's best assistant.—GAZETTE.

David Davis Elected President Pro Tem.

As soon as the Republican Senators from New York and Rhode Island were seated, the Republican Senators showed their determination to undo the work of the Democrats in electing Senator Bayard President; and as they only had a majority of one they could not spare one of their number for the position, consequently they selected David Davis, of Illinois, as the man and elected him last Thursday to the position.

Hung by a Mob.

A few days ago a colored man named Ben Robertson was arrested and confined to jail in the town of Jeanerette on a charge of chicken-stealing, and during the night was assaulted, taken out by a mob and hung. The offense was not deserving of so grave a punishment, and besides as he was in the hands of the law, it was a very felonious act, to say the least, on the part of those who did the hanging. The Colonel of our parish, Dr. T. J. Woolf, made an inquest on the body and gave a verdict in accordance with the facts stated above. We have no recollection of such brutal treatment to a prisoner in the hands of the law, and we cannot explain why a man should thus perish for stealing a few chickens, when so many others are liberated for darker crimes. This mob law should not be tolerated, and the quicker it is suppressed, the better it will be for the country at large.—New Iberia Star.

A special to a New York paper from Kansas City, Mo., says: "A terrible plague has broken out near Waldron, Platte county. Eleven persons have died in five days and none of the victims give signs of recovery. The bodies of the sufferers are covered with black eruption, and after death the flesh falls from the bones, so that the bodies cannot be lifted into the coffin without falling to pieces." It has been pronounced black plague.

Last Monday a heavy snow storm set in at Quebec, Canada. At midnight six inches of snow had fallen and was still falling the next morning.

The political campaign waxes hot in Mississippi. Senator Lamar has paired with Dawes for the remainder of the extra session of the Senate and returned home to participate in the campaign.

There have been heavy rainfalls in the North west, the streams are all swollen and still rising, while considerable damage has been done. At Keokuk and neighboring towns the Mississippi was reported Tuesday as high as it was last spring and still rising.

Ireland is in a condition bordering close upon revolution and bloodshed.
