

THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL DISEASES

No organ of the human body is so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Danger is in sight.

Find out what the trouble is—with-out delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back, wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

DREW NO STRONG HYPOCRITE

Absence of Such a Dominating Character From Shakespeare's Pages Explained by English Novelist.

Material for discussion among those who more or less know their Shakespeare has been provided by Sir Walter Raleigh's suggestion on the lecture platform that Shakespeare created a complete and carefully drawn figure of a hypocrite because the dramatist had had a free and happy childhood. "It is the child," says Sir Walter, "who sees hypocrites;" and so, as one follows the argument at second hand in the column of a newspaper, Dickens, who had a harsher childhood, was more impressed by hypocrisy, and later wrote about hypocrites. One suspects, however, that there may be readers who will deny that Shakespeare failed to include the hypocrite in his remarkable gallery of dramatic portraits. Hypocrisy certainly figures; one has only to recall the behavior of Blotter or Iago to find the characteristic, but Sir Walter no doubt has ground for his conviction that the plays contain no figure dominated by it.

Concerted War on Tuberculosis.
A systematic campaign of anti-tuberculosis education has been conducted in France for more than a year, under the patronage of the Rockefeller foundation. Three traveling exhibits and groups of lecturers visited ten departments, and in 141 gave exhibits. During the year more than 2,000,000 pieces of printed matter, posters, pamphlets, postcards, games, etc., were distributed through the whole of France. It is stated that the public material, written by French men and women, and charmingly illustrated by French artists, has set a new standard for popular health public education.

His First King.
One of the national treasury officials who helped put over the national Liberty loan campaigns and his colored man-servant George were coming through Rock Creek park, Washington, the other morning and they met King Albert of Belgium taking a constitutional foot. The trio stopped and chatted for a few minutes and the king shook hands with George the same as he did with the official.
After the king had passed on the official turned to George and asked him what he thought of his majesty.
"Afore Gawd," George said, "dat an the first king I ever saw outside of a deck."

DRESSES MATCH COAT LINING

Latest French Fashion Bids Fair to Become One of the Extravagances for Afternoon and Evening Toilettes.

In our grandmothers' days it took years to make a fashion—now one season sees a new style established, writes a Paris fashion correspondent. The cycle of fashion turns so rapidly nowadays and in its revolving reveals so many types of clothes that every woman has plenty of opportunity of seeing her own particular taste represented. There is not a fancy in dress that we may not some time or another indulge to the fullest. Last season the woman who loved gay headgear might satisfy her taste for bright colors and quantities of trimming to her heart's content; this season she who prefers more subdued hats will have an equal opportunity of shopping for her favorites with the certainty that fashion has provided them for her in abundance.

The smartly dressed woman wears a black hat this winter, and let us thank heaven and the modistes that there is at least one article of dress that we may buy with the comforting assurance that we are being economical—the black hat is an economy, for it may be worn with a frock of any color. Following closely on the heels of the fashion for black hats are those of tete de negre and new copper color known as culvre or chaudron. The great demand, however, is for black hats.

Velvet Favorite Material for Sailors.
Panne velvet is the favorite material from which to evolve medium sailors with shaped brims and smartly draped crowns, while plush and satin are draped into round turbans, some of which are set to a shaped head band to give the effect of a little brim. These are more becoming than the brimless turban. A summer favorite that continues in popularity and will not hesitate to make its appearance wherever smartly dressed women are congregated on cold, crisp winter afternoons is the large Chantilly lace hat. Sometimes, as a concession to Jack Frost, it has a velvet crown above its lacy brim, although it frequently is entirely transparent.

A pronounced millinery vogue is the use of monkey fur as a trimming, this fur, to a very great extent, taking the place of egret and paradise. It is used alone and also combined with ostrich feathers. Black hats having ostrich feathers show these feathers alternating with long-haired patches of monkey fur. While this combination perhaps does not sound interesting, it looks well. Large hats of black panne have brim facings and brim covers made in this way. To keep the brim from looking thick or fringed it is often faced with a layer of tulle, which holds the trimming in place and makes a soft and becoming frame for the face.

Draped Beret Popular With Milliners.
The draped beret still continues to be tremendously popular with all Paris milliners. It is almost entirely without trimming, but the crown is so beautifully draped that no trimming is for some elaborate ones. The dark ones embroidered in metal threads are very smart. These latter, however, are so expensive that one feels it an extravagance to buy them. Yet any woman at all gifted in draping a fabric could easily make one herself. The embroidery is nothing more than a running stitch done in a fine gold or silver thread.

While some of the Paris milliners strongly advocate the veil-trimmed hat, others do not show the veil at all. Veils have always been favorite trimmings in the hands of Maria Guy; with them she achieves beautiful effects. Recently she developed an oriental turban from a huge tulle scarf printed in two colors, one end of the scarf forming the turban, while the other end draped around the neck or over the shoulders. Suzanne Talbot also makes these turbans from big tulle scarfs, but uses the scarfs in solid colorings and borders them with ostrich or silk looped fringe.

New Wraps Have High Collars.
Practically all of the new wraps have very high, neck-enclosing collars. Little more than a woman's eyes are visible if she wears a hat with these high collars. Separate fur collars with matching muffs are shown in this high style, for wear with afternoon dresses, while tailored suits have chin-enclosing fur collars as part of their trimming. It is quite remarkable how the slender silhouette is emphasized by these chin-enclosing collars. Their use gives a distinctly new outline to the figure in a very clever manner. The low-lying collars, so long a feature of our clothes, would, if used with the widened hip, tend to give the entire figure a broadened appearance. As this would be anything but attractive, we have the high collar.

Nearly all of these standing collars are made of long-haired pelts, notably fox and "chevre-de-mongolie," as the fur of the now fashionable Mongolian goat is called. Pure white fox collars made in the standing style are worn with elaborate afternoon dresses of black velvet; cross fox collars trim dull metal crepe dresses and even the priceless silver fox is shorn of his head and tail to make these straight, round upstanding collars; all of which goes to show how far fashion reaches. Even the beasts of the forest must conform thereto.

Corresponds With Lining of Coats.
A Paris fashion which bids fair to become immensely popular is that of having a dress made to correspond exactly with the lining of the coat or mantle with which it is worn. The scheme is carried out in both afternoon and evening toilettes. This plan of having a dress to match every coat lining or a coat lined to match every dress bids fair to become one of the marked extravagances of the season.

One of the prettiest developments of this idea is a simple crepe de chine dress made almost in lingerie style and worn with a full length coat lined with the same crepe de chine that forms the dress. A smart costume seen recently consisted of a brown duvetyn coat, cut on very simple lines, and a lovely copper-colored crepe de chine frock which matched the lining of the coat. The frock, made with side-pleated flounces, was ornamented with drawn threads and hand embroidery. The coat, when opened, with its exactly matching lining of the copper-colored crepe de chine, also adorned with the drawnwork and hand embroidery, gave the appearance of the unfolding of the wings of a great moth or copper-colored butterfly.

GOLD LOST TO THE WORLD FINALLY SUBDUED FOREST FIRE

Destruction of Precious Metal Practically Goes On Without Ceasing, Either Day or Night.

Every ship that goes to the bottom takes with her a certain amount of gold. It may be only a few pounds' worth or—as in the case of the famous Lusitania—a million may be lost in a minute.
Every fire that occurs means a destruction of gold, and there is never a minute, day or night, when scores of human habitations are not burning. London alone has 2,400 fires yearly.

Besides all this, there is the matter of hoarding. In countries where banks are not found in every town, the people who have gold hide or bury it. In many cases they die without revealing the hiding place. In this way India alone swallows up more than $500,000 worth of gold yearly. China more than this, while Africa is at present absorbing gold in this way at a rate of more than a million pounds a year. The money is paid as wages to Kafir laborers at the mines, and by them carried away to their kraals, whence it never returns.
