

Where only the best is good enough. In Your Get-Up Mr. Gooddresser!

Consider Clothes Character First!

In the Final Analysis the only things that count in this world are the home-spun virtues—

No Philosophy has ever improved upon the Golden Rule, and the most gorgeous tapestry of silk label trickery in your Suit or Overcoat looks like a rag alongside the simple beauties of a square deal.

We never have exploited our character clothes for Man or Boy as offering more than you are legitimately entitled to receive for your money—nor made a virtue of the fact that they are honest values.

We aim simply to interest the Man who seeks clothes which combine the virtues of a square deal with the added accomplishment of an individual and uncommon style.

BOB BURDETTE, AUTHOR, DIES AT PASADENA, CAL.

Native of Pennsylvania Who Made the World Laugh as the "Burlington Hawkeye Man." Succumbs in His Seventy-first Year

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 20.—Dr. Robert J. Burdette, preacher, author and humorist, died at his home here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the seventy-first year of his age. He had been ill for the greater part of two years, and for the last week had been in a state of coma.

Robert Jones Burdette, humorist, lecturer, newspaper man and minister of the Gospel, was born in Greensboro, Pa., July 30, 1844. He was the son of Frederick E. and Sophia E. J. Burdette. His parents removed to Peoria, Ill., when he was a boy, and he was educated in the public schools of that city.

He began his lecture tours in 1876, and since that time lectured all over the United States. His tours ceased when he accepted the pastorate of Temple Baptist church, in Los Angeles, in 1903. He was ordained a Baptist minister in 1903, and in 1909 became pastor emeritus of the same church.

Robert J. Burdette began cultivating good humor obscurely in Peoria, Ill., forty years ago, when he spent part of his days at a desk on the Peoria "Transcript," "trying to think," as he himself once related, "of pleasant things to tell the folks when I went home at night." His audience of "folks" then was Carrie Garrett, the Peoria girl he had married a short time before, while she lay supposedly on her death-bed, but who lived and, though an invalid for life, became immortalized by her husband as "Her Little Serene Happiness."

Although Burdette's original home was in Greensboro, Pa., where he was born in 1844, the later part of his life was spent in California. At Sunnyside, Pasadena, he had a spacious house. His first wife had died after 15 years of encouragement to him. In 1899 he married Mrs. Clara B. Baker, of Pasadena.

A fugitive instance of Burdette's rollicking humor was a letter home to his flock in Los Angeles during his first trip to Europe. He dated the letter from "some distance out in the dumpy," and said, in part: "The scenery along this route, although somewhat monotonous, is splendidly irrigated. But it seems too early for the growing crops. Nothing has come up yet, except on shipboard, and that has gone overboard. The route is not nearly so populous as the Santa Fe trail over the desert. We have just two kinds of days—the days we see a ship and the days we don't."

The veteran humorist found fun in everything. While he was forced to abandon it in the pulpit largely because of the reputation he had made for fun-making, he agreed with Henry Ward Beecher that a joke in the pulpit was not at all out of place. It was, as Beecher said, "When you are fighting the devil, snoot him with anything." Burdette died with the conviction that there was not only just as much fun in the world to-day as ever, but "a great deal more, because," as he said, "there are more people in it, and people are the funniest things on this side of the grave."

GERMANS PLAN TO CROSS THE INUNDATED COUNTRY

Bruges, Belgium, Thursday, Nov. 19, via Sluis and London, Nov. 20, 10.22 A. M.—Large bodies of German engineers have been passing toward the front, according to information received here and it is believed that the Germans are planning to cross the inundated country by scientific engineering methods. In the meanwhile the western storm continues, and the waters of the North sea are sweeping inland through the sea big locks at Newport. It is learned here that the Germans on November 18, attempted a raid on these locks, which are built in a semi-circle. Their attack which was conducted in a number of armed automobiles, was repulsed.

The fortifications which have been constructed all through West Flanders for use in case of an eventual German retreat, evidently now are completed, for the troops employed in their construction have all gone to the front. The snow in Flanders continues. There is much illness among the men in the trenches and the past few days have seen little fighting.

NEW YORK ALIEN LABOR LAW

Case Against Dock Contracting Company Basis for Testing Constitutionality of Measure

New York, Nov. 20.—A case against the Dock Contracting Company, which comes before the Public Service Commission today, was expected for the basis for taking the State alien labor law to the courts to test its constitutionality. The commission will take up a pending complaint that this corporation employed aliens on their city contract between September 1 and October 15. On the latter day they discharged all aliens and have since been unable to find citizens to take their places.

Representatives of the general contractors' association and of the Public Service Commission have been unable to agree to a statement of facts to test the constitutionality of the law. Both sides are unwilling to have work on the new rapid transit line stopped, but neither is quite sure that it will be safe to proceed with the employment of alien labor, which is prohibited by the law.

Counsel for the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, which brought forward complaints of the law's violation, announces that the union would be willing to have such a test of the case if it could become a party to the suit. A force of 13,000 alien laborers is employed by the several subway contractors, many of whom have already been discharged pending a test of the constitutionality of the law.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 20.—Unless China is christianized by the rest of the world she will eventually lead the rest of the world to paganism, declared Miss Hie Ding Lin, a converted Chinese woman of rank, in an address before the Interdenominational Medical Missionary conference here today. She urged the evangelization of China by native teachers educated in mission schools.

Miss Ida M. Schudder, member of a widely known missionary family, discussed medical missionary work among women in India and told of good results being accomplished.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Grauel

Preliminaries to Washing Day

Since the beginning of housekeeping or as far back as we can remember Monday has always been considered the proper day for washing. "Because," our grandmother's grandma said, "be forelunched with the work." Poor grandma, she need four handedness if anyone did, but the task of washing for the family, though still hard, is easier than it once was. Another reason for washing used to be the best truly a restful day, but this is changed too, for now Father and the Boys are home on Sunday and it is mother who waits on them and looks after them. So Monday finds the house in disorder and many duties needing attention beside the washing.

However the most important argument against washing on Monday is that clothes should be sorted out and mended before they are washed. This is no proper duty for Sabbath evening. On Monday, though, after the house is made fresh for another week, the clothes can be assorted and put to soak and the soap and tubs and lines, the wringer and washing machine made ready.

It is a bother to separate the clothes but after it is done the work of washing goes more easily. The woollens must not be soaked as they shrink, become matted and lose their softness unless washed quickly in warm water; so put all flannels and woollens in a separate pile. Neither should stockings be soaked. Calicoes, gingham, printed muslins and satens will run and lose their brightness if soaked and the same applies to colored table linen.

All that will remain now, will be the white things. Put the collars, cuffs, sheets and body linen to soak in warm water containing soap chips or soap powder an ammonia. The kitchen towels, aprons, dust cloths and similar things should soap in a separate tub and these should be well boiled as the boiling process is a disinfectant and these articles are in need of this treatment. Handkerchiefs should be put in a small tub and well soaked and then boiled separately.

The muslins, laces and fine things may soak the longest as they should never be rubbed hard. As the woollen goods are most costly and most easily damaged by laundering they should be washed first and rinsed in water of the same temperature they were washed in. A little borax added to the rinsing water will keep them soft. Do not rub soap directly on the woollens but have warm and do not put them through the wringer but press with the hands and hang them up dripping wet.

Some of the best housekeepers now assort the clothes and mend those that need it and then wash the flannels and the hosiery. The rest are put to soak on Monday night and the washing on Tuesday is soon over with.

Now just a precaution about washing without boiling. We all know that clothes can be made white and sweet with many of the soaps and soap powders on the market and that boiling is not a necessity. But the boiling process makes contagion from germs and bacteria absolutely impossible and sterilizes the clothes so they are truly sweet and clean. Soap alone cannot do this. When you boil clothes put them into warm or cold water and let them come to the boiling point, putting them into boiling water fixes the soil in them.

DYING DOG DELIVERS NOTE

Poisoned Spaniel Lives Just Long Enough to Reach Mistress

Greeley, Col., Nov. 20.—Dragging himself into the house with a note for his mistress, Mrs. John F. Redman, Col. Bunch, a thoroughbred spaniel, looked pitifully up into her face, sank into a heap on the floor and died from poison that had been fed him in some mysterious manner.

The note was from Redman, who is clerk of the County Court, and the message related to home affairs.

Col. Bunch was taught to carry notes in his collar when he was a puppy, and all that was necessary for either his master or mistress to do to get a note delivered was to slip it under his collar and tell him to go.

TO DESIGN EXPOSITION MEDAL

Washington, Nov. 20.—Robert Aitken, of California, has been chosen as the sculptor to design a commemorative medal for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, according to announcement made here by A. C. Miller, chairman of the government exhibit board for the exposition.

Mr. Miller and Mr. Aitken conferred with the President regarding the design for the medal. It probably will be the size of the silver dollar and be struck off in silver, bronze and probably copper. The work will be done on the coining presses at the exposition as part of the government's exhibit.
