Impression Prevailed in Many Quarters That Dodge Bros' Was to Compete With Lowest Priced Machines on the Market

Aside from the tremendous interest shown by the public in the new car which has just been announced by Dodge Brothers, a much vexed question as to the position the new car would occupy in the industry has been definitely settled. Every sort of guess from a cycle-car to a six-cylinder machine was ventured by men who claimed to know but probably the greatest number believed that Dodge Brothers' new car was to be some sort of marvelous creation selling well under $500.

The attitude of Dodge Brothers was well explained by General Sales Manager Philip recently in a talk to dealers and newspaper men.

"Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in turning out parts for low priced cars, have sought and we believe, obtained a new ideal in the moderate priced field," said Mr. Philip. "In place of building the best car possible at a low price, Dodge Brothers determined to build the best car they knew how to build, and then place a moderate price on it. We believe that this is the first time the problem has been approached in this manner, and the enthusiastic reception given the car proves the correctness of Dodge Brothers' estimate of the public demand."

"In assigning a new motor car to any particular grade, it should be remembered, that while the moderate priced field is not as large, it is equally as important as the low-priced field. In deciding to enter the moderate priced field, Dodge Brothers felt themselves to be peculiarly well fitted for operating in this branch of the industry. Equipped in every way to turn out large quantities of well built cars, Dodge Brothers' efforts have been confined from the first to establishing a new
