STOCK MARKET CONFUSED BY DERANGED MACHINERY

Only a Few Initial Quotations Obtainable and These Showed Little Change From Yesterday's Closing Level—Trading in Minor Volume

By Associated Press. New York, Dec. 17.—Wall Street.—Some confusion attended opening dealings in the stock market to-day because of a derangement of the machinery which distributes market prices. Only a few initial quotations were obtainable and these showed little change from yesterday's closing level. In the main, however, the trend was lower, Amalgamated yielding half a point with smaller losses in U. S. Steel, Brooklyn Transit, Canadian Pacific and Great Northern, pfd., the latter selling under yesterday. The only notable exception to the general movement was Reading, which rose 3/8. Trading was in minor volume.

Prices soon recovered from the opening but the buying appeared to be largely in the nature of short covering. Union Pacific, Reading and Baltimore and Ohio sold above yesterday's best, while Steel and some others approximated that level. A few more specialties touched their minimum. Cessation of the moderate inquiry resulted in another receding movement, with greater dullness. Throughout the morning many hitherto active issues remained unquoted. In fact, the session was chiefly conspicuous for its extra narrowness. Bonds were steady.

FLAMES AGAIN ATTACK THE MASONIC TEMPLE

Continued from first page. The fire made its way down under the kitchen to the armory of the Pilgrim Commandery, Knights Templar, which was filled with supposedly fireproof lockers used for keeping the uniforms of the members. Flames spread through the south side of this room and made the steel lockers red hot. In a dozen instances the clothing inside lockers caught fire. Most of the other uniforms in this room were damaged by smoke or water. The uniforms are valuable, many of them having cost more than a hundred dollars apiece.

A hole about sixteen square feet was burned in the sixth floor, and through the ceiling of the fifth floor, the fire going on down into the council room of the commandery, where burning embers fell onto the handsome high backed chair and completely destroyed it.

The Rev. Dr. M. D. Lichter, an official of the Pilgrim Commandery, opened the door of the council chamber for the firemen and then personally supervised the saving of more than $2,000 worth of furniture. The chair, which was the most valuable piece in the room, was burned so badly that afterwards, when it was handled, it fell to pieces.

The carpet in this room as well as that in a large meeting room immediately next on the fifth floor, was damaged by water.

Smoke poured into the meeting room in such volume that the walls were damaged and it may have to be re-plastered. Water ran out on the floor above and damaged considerably the furnishings in the other rooms of the Pilgrim Commandery. The ball room and ball room hall were damaged by smoke but the flooring is hard wood and the water did little or no damage to that.

Masons Save Records

On the western side of the building there is an eighth floor or half story which was damaged slightly by fire which came through from the kitchen below. The kitchen and pantry, with the contents, are a total loss. The fire was confined to the southwest wing of the building and to the three upper floors.

Between the sixth and seventh floors the joists are burned away and the steam table and gas stoves in the kitchen are hanging suspended on a few pipes ready at any minute to fall onto the steel lockers in the room below.

The fire alarm box was pulled twice and eight rounds of the alarm were sounded in the city fire houses. Soon it became rumored about the city that the Masonic Temple was doomed and that a general alarm had been sent in. Only the apparatus from one district, however, was actually called out. Prominent Masons hurried to the Temple but it was seen that the fire was under control in the three upper floors and they did nothing except carry some of the records out of the building from the various lodge rooms in the third and fourth floors.

Shivering Firemen Eat Ice Cream

Mayor John K. Roy, who is secretary of the lodge that held the banquet last evening, was on the scene early. George W. Melhenny, William A. Boll and Clark E. Diehl, prominent members of the order, were at the fire and superintended the salvage work. The water was swept from the fire escape suffered from the cold. Water froze on the fire escape opposite the top floors and made footing dangerous. This stream was kept on the flames for only five minutes and the fighting was then conducted from the inside. The mercury registered 11 degrees at that time. This low temperature was sufficient to freeze the water inside the building so that steps on the inside were ice-coated. The fire-fighters worked in coats frozen stiff in some instances.

In a tour of inspection after the fire one of the firemen came upon some tin cream that had been left over from the banquet and the smoke-eaters made short work of it after it was offered to them by Superintendent Machin.

Misses Watts Suffer No Loss

The occupants of the store rooms and offices in the first and second floors of the Masonic Temple, were very fortunate, as practically no damage was done in either of these two floors by fire or water.

None of the holiday stock of the Christmas Novelty Shop, which is conducted in the Third street side of the building by the Misses Anna M. and Marion B. C. Watts, was damaged. Miss Marion Watts said this morning that if she had not been told that there had been a fire she would not have known that anything out of the ordinary had occurred when she went to the store, as it was impossible even to smell any smoke in her quarters.

Some of the furniture was removed to places of safety from the offices in the second floor occupied by the following: Room No. 13, occupied by the Walter Jones Manufacturing Company's agency; No. 15, by the Cosmopolitan Insurance Company, and No. prices. Only a few initial quotations Company.

LATE WAR NEWS SUMMARY

off the east coast of England in the territory covered, yesterday by the raiding German warships. These vessels were said in England to have scattered mines to cover their retreat.

Seventy-four persons were killed and 147 wounded, according to the best figures now available in the raid on the east coast of England yesterday by German warships. The heaviest losses were in Hartlepool where, the British information bureau announces, fifty-five persons were killed and 145 wounded. Unofficial reports give the casualties in Scarborough at 17 killed and 30 wounded, and in Whitby at 2 killed and 2 wounded.

The success of the Germans in making their way past the line of British warships and through mine fields and escaping after the bombardment leads England to expect another attack, preparations for which are under way. Berlin is elated and the newspapers there hint that yesterday's exploit may be the prelude to greater events on the seas.

Germany's new plan for the operation against the Russian armies is unfolding gradually. Petrograd dispatches say that the Austro-German flanking operations in the Carpathian mountains on the Vistula are being conducted on a large scale, and that they threaten Russian lines of communication. Such importance is attached to these maneuvers that apparently Germany is willing to risk an invasion by the Russian armies in the south, withdrawing troops from that region for use on the battlefields west of Warsaw. An official statement from Vienna says that in Galicia and Southern Poland the Russians are retreating along the entire front and are being pursued.

Russia's Caucasian army is having frequent encounters with the Turks but official statements are at such variance that it is difficult to form an opinion as to what is happening. The Russian general staff states that the Turks, reinforced, assumed the offensive in the Van region, Armenia, but were beaten decisively. The Turkish statement says that these battles "resulted in our favor."

NIAGARA FALLS.

At One Time the Mecca of American Brides and Grooms.

Niagara is the spectacular center of the whole great system of fresh waters flowing toward the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It was for a century the country's one great sight. No visiting foreigner dreamed of missing it; no American in foreign parts would have dared call himself an American unless he could tell how he had seen his land's greatest wonder toss its iridescent spray on high.

"See Niagara first" was the unformulated maxim of those earlier days—the writer himself, as a boy, heard a brisly patriotic lady refuse a trip abroad solely on the plea that she had never seen Niagara Falls.

There was something almost sacramental in the trip. Marriage, indeed, was scarcely legal or binding unless the visit to the altar was immediately supplemented by a trip to Niagara.

Those were the days when the honeymoon was "what it used to be." Over Niagara's gorge and rushing waters it hung benignantly, always at its full. And in the corridors of the falls hotels the miserable unmarried forever bruised their feet upon honeymoon rice.

The "funny columns" of the newspapers could not have existed without the Niagara wedding trip.
