EDUCATOR TO REPORT ON LOCAL SCHOOL PROBLEMS

Rotary Club Votes to Procure Services of An Expert to Look Into Advisability of Adopting Six-Year High School Plan in This City

The members of the Harrisburg Rotary Club at their regular business meeting last night at the Hershey creamery, 409 South Cameron street, voted to engage the services of a competent educator, whose name has not as yet been announced, to report at the next meeting of the organization, May 18, on the advisability of adopting in this city, the six-year high school plan. The action was taken at the recommendation of the committee on education, Dr. Samuel Z. Shope, chairman. Dr. Shope's report gave a comprehensive idea of the plan which provides for six years of elementary school work and six years of high school study instead of eight years of the former and four of the latter as at present. The following passages of the report show what favor the plan has met in other places.

"I am informed by the Department of Public Instruction that several cities in Pennsylvania have taken steps to inaugurate the six-year plan. Among these may be mentioned Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, Erie, Williamsport and several large boroughs. The Johnstown 'Democrat,' April 26, 1915, prints the following: 'The junior high school plan, such as is contemplated for Johnstown, is being adopted by most of the progressive cities of the country. When asked the reasons in favor of the grouping of the twelve years of elementary and secondary schooling into six years of elementary and six years of high school, J. N. Adee, superintendent of the Johnstown schools, asserted that there were many strong arguments in favor of the plan, but no valid ones for holding to the present plan of eight and four years.'

"That the movement is having a potent influence upon reorganization of schools may be seen from surveys of city school systems in various parts of the country. Dr. Henry Snyder, superintendent of schools, Jersey City, in his report to the Board of Trade in this city, recommended the adoption of the junior and senior high school as a scheme of school administration that is considered both practicable and economical. Dr. Leonard P. Ayres in his report of the survey of the Springfield, Mass., schools, advocated the adoption of the six-year high school. The commission appointed to make a survey of the Portland, Ore., schools, in its report, outlined courses of study for the junior high school."

The Rotary club is the first local organization to consider the proposed plan, and by bringing the matter before the public it hopes to evoke interest in the suggested improvement. A plea for immediate action is embodied in the closing paragraph of the committee's report.

"Knowing the deplorable conditions in our Central High school with the consequent disadvantages to both faculty and students, I ask in the light of this report, 'Is there anything this organization as a medium ought to do to increase the efficiency of the public school system of this city?' From quotations cited in this report, there are good reasons for believing that the junior high school would do much to relieve the overcrowded conditions in the Central High School and greatly improve the teaching. Judging from experience in other cities, it is quite obvious that the junior high school is the solution of the school situation in Harrisburg. Your committee on education has a method of procedure, and with your approval will make an effort to find out how easily the six-year high school could be adapted to the present system and the probable advantages accruing therefrom. With the slight chances of relief from the present conditions for at least many years to come, makes immediate action for the welfare of the boys and girls as well as of our people imperative."

The Rotary Club, host of the evening, was E. N. Hershey, manager of the Creamery company, who told briefly of the growth of the firm's ice cream business and conducted the visitors through all parts of the plant. During the business session nominations for officers were made as follows: For president, Karl Stewart, Dr. Samuel Z. Shope and Arthur D. Bacon; vice president, George W. Mumma; secretary, Howard C. Fry, Theodore P. Carey, E. Weaver and H. E. Lindley; treasurer, W. Grant Rauch; sergeant-at-arms, John N. H. Manger; associate editor of the 'Rotarian,' E. Fred Rowe; directors, Henderson Gilbert, John H. Nixon, E. J. Lewis, D. D. Hamnelbaugh, Harry Bruau and Joseph H. Wallazz.

C. J. Stevens, of International Harvester Company, Gives Some Interesting Data About the New Transportation Plan

C. J. Stevens, 619 Walnut street, manager of the Motor Truck Department of the International Harvester Company, has the following to say about the jitney bus business:

"The motor bus or 'jitney' passenger transportation system, soon to be enlarged in Harrisburg, is meeting the approval of our citizens, if we are to judge by the favorable comments heard on all sides, and many of the inconveniences and displeasures of the past will be minimized."

"The public of this country is just awakening to the advantages and possibilities of motor transportation. The service will not be confined to the cities, but will enter the smaller towns, especially the inland points not having good railroad or street car accommodations."

"It is also true that certain other interests will be affected by this development of motor passenger transportation, and the public will be deeply interested in legislation to be enacted controlling this new and up-to-date convenience for the general public."

"Thousands of motor buses, including 'jitney' lines, have made their appearance in different parts of this country during the last few months, making good on a profitable basis, showing the people's endorsement of the new system. In far-off Vancouver the motor buses and 'jitney' units show receipts averaging $80,000 per month. The term 'Jitney' is a term of Russian, Japanese or sporting circle origin, and a 'jitney' bus is any automobile or motor truck which is used to carry passengers at 'jitney' fare, five cents."

"From the way in which the 'jitney' bus has taken hold there is nothing to indicate that it is a fad. The panner in which many cities have been taken by storm by the 'jitneys' is illustrated by the experience in Kansas City. Within a week after the first 'jitney' line, having made their appearance in different parts of this country during the last few months, making good on a profitable basis, showing the people's endorsement of the new system. In far-off Vancouver the motor buses and 'jitney' units show receipts averaging $80,000 per month. The term 'Jitney' is a term of Russian, Japanese or sporting circle origin, and a 'jitney' bus is any automobile or motor truck which is used to carry passengers at 'jitney' fare, five cents."

"In all cities of moderate size the former systems have been unable to handle the traffic during the rush hours, causing congestion and crowding. The strap-hangers have complained loud and long, with no relief in sight until the advent of the 'jitney' transportation system. An army of 'jitneys' is like a relief corps, which swoops down upon

Hard to Fit?

No. You may think you are, and perhaps you are—in the ordinary store. But not at Doutrichs.

You see, it's this way. Clothes making has been developed to such a high degree that ready-to-wear suits may now be had in sizes and proportions to fit men of the most unusual build.

But few indeed are the stores doing a business large enough to warrant carrying all these extra sizes. Thus it happens that many a man whom we fit without any trouble at all finds it impossible to get properly fitted anywhere else in Harrisburg.

The stout man shown here isn't a circumstance beside many that we fit—the 7-footer with a 32 waist, for instance; or the extra-tall, stout man; or the chap as broad as he is long.

THE HOUSE OF KUPPENHEIMER

—devotes special and expert attention to the tailoring of clothes for men of unusual build. As large makers they can afford to do this, just as we, as large retailers, can afford to carry such clothes in wide variety.

MANY TICKETS SELLING FOR LOCAL MINSTREL SHOW

"In Old Kentucky," a Magnificent Skit, Will Be Featured by the Solo Singing of Eugene Buck, the Boy Soprano, and Chorus

The street sale of tickets for the eighteenth annual show of the Original Home Talent Minstrels, to be held in the High school auditorium, Tuesday evening, May 11, for the benefit of the St. James' Catholic church, is steadily increasing and the prospects now are that the auditorium will be crowded to its capacity on that occasion.

The curtain will go up at 8.15 o'clock and the minstrel management announced this morning that it has spared no pains in securing the best talent obtainable, to assist the old time favorites, in order to make this year's performance the best one in the history of the organization.

One of the many good additions to the roster is the well-known boy soprano, Eugene Buck, who will sing the big song number in the singing and dancing skit, "In Old Kentucky." This act closes the show and is replete with novel features; a Virginia reel by eight members of the company, a good line of Southern comedy and a well trained singing chorus of twenty voices helping to make up an after-piece company favorably with the closing skits of the big traveling companies.

WOMEN AID CLEAN-UP WORK

Give Great Assistance By Tying the Rubbish Into Bundles

Housewives in the northern section of Allison Hill, and also in the downtown district greatly helped the clean-up work of the Pennsylvania Reduction Company's men by tying up bundles of paper and rubbish and having all of the refuse in receptacles ready to be thrown upon the dump wagons.

This assistance made it possible for the clean-up men to cover the upper Hill district before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and they at once invaded the downtown section. By evening to-day, those directing the clean-up work said, the whole of the section east of the Pennsylvania railroad and south of North street will have been cleaned and some work will have been done on to-morrow's district immediately north of North street.

One dead horse was taken out of the downtown district this morning. Just before the men quit work in the upper Hill section yesterday afternoon they picked up two dead dogs. Yesterday's total of the rubbish amounted to 205 loads or 18 loads more than were taken out of the same district a year ago.

BELIEVES THE "JITNEY" HAS COME TO STAY

C. J. Stevens, of International Harvester Company, Gives Some Interesting Data About the New Transportation Plan

C. J. Stevens, 619 Walnut street, manager of the Motor Truck Department of the International Harvester Company, has the following to say about the jitney bus business:

The strap-hangers have complained loud and long, with no relief in sight until the advent of the 'jitney' transportation system. An army of 'jitneys' is like a relief corps, which swoops down upon the crowded corners, carrying away the people to their homes or destination. "There are sections of every city not having regular transportation lines, while there are residence sections where noisy systems will not be permitted. Such sections are particularly favorable to the 'jitney' line, and all parties will be made happy. The 'jitney' lines operating in some of the western cities, with daily receipts, are as follows: Portland, 75 cars, $600; San Francisco, 300 cars, $2,400; Transbay Cities, 450 cars, $3,600; Seattle, 500 cars, 4,000; Los Angeles, 1,050 cars, $8,400. This shows an average of $8 a day for each 'jitney'."
