To-day is the commencement of the penitential season of Lent.

Services at Christ Church to-day at 10:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

If the next six weeks are Lent will they ever be returned?

Found—A fur glove. Owner can have it by calling at this office and paying for this notice.

The musical convention in North Towanda opens to-morrow. The prospects are that it will be a very enjoyable affair. The people of that neighborhood will entertain the singers in a royal manner without charge.

The Postmaster General has issued an order revoking the section of postal regulations in force for the past two years, which permitted the transmitting through the mails of commercial paper and blanks filled out in writing, such as invoices, way-bills, bills of merchandise, deeds, insurance policies, etc., at third-class rates, viz: one cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. All such matter must hereafter be paid at letter rates, three cents per half ounce.

The conductors, baggagemasters and brakemen on the Lehigh Valley trains donned their new uniforms yesterday. The suits are quite becoming; the material is fine navy blue cloth, made up in good style. The conductor's coat is a double-breasted frock, military pattern, and that of the baggagemaster of much the same appearance, but a sack. The brakeman also wears a sack nearly like that worn by the Pennsylvania R. R. hands. We understand the suits including caps to match, are furnished by the Company without expense to the employees.

The wife of Rev. A. G. STILWELL, of Lynn, Susquehanna county, died on Sunday of last week in consequence of an abnormal growth which was called dropsy. She had been increasing in size for several years and at the time of her death her weight was estimated to be over five hundred pounds. A post mortem examination showed that the flesh over the abdomen was six inches thick and also revealed the presence of about a gallon of dropsical water.

The burial casket was two feet square and eleven pall-bearers were employed. Notwithstanding her enormous weight she was remarkably active until a short time before her death, and she insisted on performing a considerable part of her household work.—Tunkhannock Republican.

In speaking of the gifted young artist, Miss LILLIAN CHASE, who is to appear for the second time in this place two weeks hence, the Syracuse Daily Journal says:—"Her voice which seems to be of contralto register, is most distinct and effective when in its natural tone, and words are spoken in somewhat measured length. It is rich, full and mellifluous, and readily adapts itself to almost any style of composition. The young lady is one of the most promising students in the profession. She has a wonderful power to originate, many of her own ideas having been introduced with splendid results. She possesses a remarkable memory, and her ability to imitate both in voice and manner, is surprising. Her features have surprising mobility, and change with great rapidity in the personation of various characters. Though the time has been short since her appearance as a finished reader, she has already won an enviable reputation. The young lady is certainly destined to win a high position in her art."
