President Cleveland is not likely to take much interest in affairs of State for a month at least. He will remove to Buzzard's Bay during the coming week and devote his time to his family.

The County Commissioners awarded the contract of grading the court house yard to Stewart Chase of Laporte and George Ferman of Strawbridge, on Thursday of last week. The contract price is 29 1/2 cents a yard. Just how much of the yard the Commissioners intend to grade, we are not prepared to say. Have understood though, that they will extend the slope about fifty feet on either side of the court house building. It is to be hoped, however, that this rumor is not correct and that the Commissioners will extend the grade to the fence on the North, West and East side. The county office building would interfere with a change on the South side.

Will Be Much Prized.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—There is a cherished bundle of hickory sticks at the State Department, every one out by Secretary Gresham with his own hands, and designed by him as mementoes for presentation to friends. All of them were obtained from the abundant timber in the grounds of the President's country place at Woodley.

One of these sticks the late Secretary gave to Postmaster General Bissell, just before his retirement, and another to Private Secretary Thurber, and a third to Edward S. Renick, the Chief Clerk of the State Department.

In each case the Secretary with perhaps some premonition of what was impending, said to the recipient "I want you to keep and use this stick in remembrance of me."

The bundle which still remains at the State Department will be polished and mounted and presented to some of Mr. Gresham's closest friends.

It was Mr. Gresham's intention to have them prepared, but he delayed doing so because, as he told one of his friends, that "the man who fixed them for me won't take any money for it, and I don't want to give him all this work without seeing some way of reciprocating."

The sticks are naturally very highly prized, particularly as most of them were cut in the short interval between Mr. Gresham's first attack and his last illness.

Sittser-Dunham Contest.

From the Scranton Tribune.

Judge R. W. Archbald and Court Stenographer H. H. Coston returned Friday from Laporte, Sullivan county, where the judicial commission had been during the week taking testimony in the Sittser-Dunham contest. The testimony of the contestants in Sullivan county was finished on Thursday.

Judges Rice, Archbald and Searles were appointed to hear evidence in the case, but their commission provides that they must sit in Sullivan county. The judicial district consists of Sullivan and Wyoming counties, and in order that the witnesses from Wyoming will not be forced to travel over to Laporte, the Judges have appointed Mr. Coston commissioner to take testimony in Tunkhannock on June 17. The commission could not sit and take testimony in Tunkhannock for the reason before given, but the judges will go there and look on so that they can observe the character of the witnesses, but they will be there not in an official capacity.

Mr. Coston will take the contestants' testimony on June 17 and 18, and that of the respondent on June 19 and 20. On June 24 the commission will sit at Laporte and hear the testimony of the respondent in Sullivan county.

An interim of perhaps a week or more will then elapse and a time will be fixed when the judges will count the ballots that were cast for each of the judicial candidates at the last election. Judge Dunham, the respondent, is now sitting on the bench having received his commission. He had a majority of twenty-nine votes over ex-Judge Sittser.

The Tunkhannock New Age remarked last week that it is said in that vicinity that at least 250 Dunham votes would be thrown out as a result of the contest, in Sullivan county. This saying is all bosh. The attorneys for the respondent do not apprehend that there will be any such result in Sullivan county and we are quite sure that they are in a position to know equally as much about the outcome of the case, as are the attorneys for the contestant. In our opinion it is all foolishness for anyone, we care not whom he represents, to say how many votes will be thrown out. How can HE come to a conclusion as to the opinion of the judges regarding a defective affidavit?

The Dunham side of the case is yet to be heard in Sullivan county and it is presumed that there will be a few Sittser votes thrown out in consequence. The attorneys for the respondent say that Dunham will come out ahead in Sullivan county when the end is reached.

As to Wyoming county we hear that the entire vote in two townships will be thrown out, because the elections were held in buildings other than were ordered by the court; similar to Colley township in Sullivan county. One of these precincts gave Dunham 11 majority and the other gave Sittser 41 majority. Judge Sittser also won in Colley twp., by a majority of 11, hence, Judge Dunham will gain 41 votes as a result of this one technicality of the law.

We are also informed that there will be a large number of Sittser votes thrown out for one cause in Wyoming county. We deem it advisable however, to withhold the cause at this time. The informant to the attorney for the respondent, is positively reliable and there cannot be a shade of doubt but that his words will prove true.

There is no fiction in this article, we have given facts as have been stated to us and we have every reason to believe that it is true.

A big lot of $2.00 suits to be closed out at 75c at Jacob Per's, Hughesville, Pa.

Dr. B. E. Gamble and Miss Blanche R. Collins, both of Forksville, were married at the bride's home Tuesday. Prothonotary Walsh issued a marriage license to the happy couple on Monday. The Doc. is a fine young man and is enjoying a large practice in Forksville and vicinity. Miss Blanche is a daughter of A. A. Collins, and is one of the fair and society ladies of Forksville. THE REPUBLICAN extends congratulations.

The sidewalks around the court house square should be rebuilt. A good part of them are dangerous to walk upon. It is the duty of the Town Council to notify the County Commissioners of the neglected pavements and order said officials to make them good. An appeal of this kind might save for the Boro. a bill of damages. The Commissioners, or rather the county would then be the defendant, in case a suit is brought for damages.

In Honor of the Soldier Dead.

The custom of honoring the dead heroes of a nation is not original with this country, but it is in a general measure a renewal of a beautiful custom established by the ancient Greek. It was revived in this country shortly after the close of the Civil War, and in 1868 Commander-in-Chief, John A. Logan, issued his first order to the Grand Army of the Republic in the finest literary effusion that ever emanated in the order. It was promulgated on May 6, 1868, and the comrades every where have ever since profited by his words:

"Let us, then, at the time appointed," said the order, referring to the dead soldiers, "gather around their sacred remains and garland the passionless mounds above them with the choicest flowers of spring; let us raise above them the dear old flag they saved from dishonor, and let us in this solemn presence renew our pledges to aid and assist those whom they have left among us, a sacred charge upon a nation's gratitude—the soldier's widow and orphan."

"If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack and other hearts cold, ours shall keep it warm as long as the light and warmth of life remains to us."

Promptly at 9 a. m., May 30th, the members of the S. S. Simmons Post assisted by Sunday school organizations and citizens proceeded to decorate the graves of their old comrades buried in the Sonestown cemetery. The Sonestown drum corps furnished music for the occasion. M. W. Stevens Esq. of Williamsport delivered the address; a copy of which was given for publication, but owing to its length, we were unable to give it space. The address was very good. Mr. Stevens is a Sullivan county boy and was reared in Davidson twp. The Sonestown choir was present and sustained their long won reputation as songsters. For a small village Sonestown has a right to boast of much musical talent.

At 2 p. m. the Post and a large delegation of citizens arrived at Laporte. Line of march was formed at the court house, from which the delegation proceeded to the Mountain Ash cemetery where the usual ceremonies of the G. A. R. boys were gone through with, after which the graves of the dead soldiers were strowed with flowers.

With this over the Post and friends marched to the court house where an able address was delivered by A. J. Bradley Esq., which was given marked attention. The singing by the choir was very good.

The business places and a few private dwellings were nicely decorated with flags and bunting. Landlord McKibbins of the Commercial Hotel gave this order of the day especial attention and was complimented by all for the neat and artistic display of red, white and blue thrown to the breeze at his place of business.

To Wed His Wife Again. ST JOSEPH, Mo., June 2.—George Davenport, of this city, will be married to his wife a second time at Columbia in a few days. It is another Enoch Arden story. When Davenport went into the army he lived on a small farm, ten miles south of Columbia. He was wounded at Shiloh and left on the field to die, but recovered after an illness of more than a year. Several years after his wife was married to John Smallwood, a friend of her youth, and lived with him until he died. Davenport wandered to California, where he lived nearly thirty years, and finally drifted into the Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth. After leaving the home he came to this city.

A few weeks ago he read something in a newspaper which convinced him that his son was alive. He went to Columbia and found that his wife, too, was alive. It was some time before he could convince her of his identity. They have decided to remarry at once.
