AKERSVILLE.

Mr. Clarence Stoner, of Clearfield county, but formerly of Brush Creek, was circulating in our midst last week. Clarence is well known and all like to see him. News has been working in the mines at Woodvale for quite a while. Mrs. H. H. Bridenstine and Mrs. H. C. McClean spent last Sunday in Cassville. They tell a doleful story of their home—how they got lost a few times and drove and drove and drove. Miss Honta McCoy gave a flower social last Tuesday night. Quite a number of our young folks attended, and they report a real good time. But the flower "it" didn't bloom. Uncle Billy Alloway has finished planting the stones in the foundation for Plummer's barn. Ham Rider is constructing the wood work. Some day soon we will get a call to help at the "risen." O, Gee! Did you see that racer that Dr. Campbell got? Why it fairly makes your head swim to ride behind it, and to ride it is something awful. Dr., put it on the race track, it is sure to be a winner.

Miss Ada E. Hill was the guest of Miss Blanche Mellott last Sunday. Some of the people were not up with their work and let the frost catch the corn. George R. Morgret was up along the creek Saturday evening looking for shellbarks. There will be a teachers' local institute at Jacob Lake's school house on Friday evening, October 13. Mr. H. H. HARRISONVILLE.

Mrs. Mary A. Valance, wife of William A. Valance, died Friday evening, of cancer of the breast, aged 63 years, and a few months. She was a faithful member of the M. E. church and was fully prepared for that home prepared for her. The remains were followed by sixty-two vehicles to the M. E. cemetery at Green Hill, Sunday morning, where a large number of friends and neighbors awaited their arrival. Her pastor, Rev. Hughes, preached a very appropriate sermon. She is survived by her husband, and a large family of grown children. George Betz wife and little son, of Curwensville, who had been visiting Mrs. Betz's father, John G. The question was, "Resolved, That the fear of punishment has a greater influence on human conduct than the hope of reward." Notwithstanding the early date in the season, and the very dark evening, a large number of persons were present. We are all sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Thompson Peck. She had been lingering for some time with typhoid fever and her death was not unexpected. October 9.—The rain last Sunday came very good in this vicinity, for some reason the southern portion of Thompson township has been very dry since harvest till last Sunday. Miss Rose Shives spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Weaver. Misses May Mason and Fanny Lashley, of Hancock, visited Mr. Benjamin Hollenshead last Wednesday. Miss Precious Correll, daughter of Rev. Garland and family, of Pursell, Bedford county, visited at the home of Mr. Isaac Culler's last Friday. They intended to visit other relatives in northern part of township, also in McConnellsburg. While Mr. and Mrs. John Eader were going home from Mr. Nycum's last Sunday evening, they had the misfortune to meet some vicious looking wild animal. Mr. Eader thinks it was a wildcat or a wolf. We are all glad to learn that it did them no further harm than to produce a lively scare, as we all might imagine. Preaching is still in progress at Rebooth.

BURNT CABINS.

[These items were intended for last week's issue, but reached us too late.] Isaac Waters lost a fine horse Tuesday night. George Doran is the busiest man in town. J. C. McGowan is a juror this week in your town. The Methodist preacher's mother, had been real ill for several days but is now much improved. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reese and Uncle Jake Miller spent Tuesday in Mc Connellsburg. Messrs. Doyle & Shiner, McConnellsburg painters, have just finished Samuel Reese's new barn. It looks all right. Miss Etta Polk, the teacher of our town school, spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Knobsville. Grandma Roof, of Chambersburg, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Oliver, at the lower end of town. Judging from the gun shot reports in the near-by wood, some one is violating the game law. This ought not to be. On Sabbath morning the mortal remains of Mrs. Hettie Long was laid to rest in our cemetery on the hill, by the side of her husband. Mrs. Long was formerly a resident of this place. At the time of her death she was residing with relatives near Tyrone, Pa. Goldsmith the Tailor. How much wiser we would be if we didn't let people see that we knew they disliked us. Miller Washing Machines at Malloy's. BRUBAKER & CO., have just completed a commodious photograph gallery in town, and are now prepared to do first class work in every branch of the art at reasonable prices. They guarantee perfect satisfaction. Ladies' coats altered, or anything in the line of tailoring neatly done by Goldsmith The Tailor. The man who thinks life isn't worth living is the first to send for the doctor when he feels sick. The odor of tar balls on the clear frosty air tells us that winter garments are making their annual debut. The frosts have turned the leaves to brown, yellow and crimson, which, mingled with the green make a rarely beautiful picture. All kinds of stoves at W. H. Nesbit's. Call, examine them, and get prices before you buy. When a man boasts that he would rather fight than eat, you can generally depend upon it that he would rather talk than do either. It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles—the less they have in them, the more noise they make in pouring it out. The man who hasn't the moral courage to say "no" on some important occasions, manages to cope with the situation when his wife asks him for money. It is one of the sad conditions of life that experience is not transmissible. No man will learn from the sufferings of another; he must suffer himself. Did you ever look over a book on human ailments that you could not make one of them at least fit your case even though you thought you were quite well when you began reading? The person who removes the window screens, thinking that the flies have gone into retirement for the winter, will realize a sad mistake that has been made when in the morning buzzing and meandering nomads of the fly tribe render sleep an impossibility. Messrs. Metz and Rotz, of Fort Loudon, have this year been buying up all the apples in their neighborhood that they were able to procure. Thus far they have secured about seven car loads or between three and four thousand bushels. Their purchases included nearly all the apples grown around Fort Loudon, as well as in Path Valley and Horse Valley.
