THE COLDEST SUMMER

All Weather Bureau Records Broken By Last Three Months. Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—Three months of the coldest summer weather within the memory of living men has ended. All weather bureau records are broken, and the pieces are scattered. But the weather bureau dates back only to 1871 and there are many people living who can remember the severe weather of 1857. It will be necessary to take up the books, however, and go back to 1816 to find anything to beat this summer for weather. In the year 1816 snow fell every month in the year except one, and there was frost in every month of the twelve. Wheat did not ripen, and people thought the end of the world was coming. Of course, we have had nothing like that this summer, but it has been a cold, wet season. Half crops were the rule for small fruits, and no crop at all for peaches and many vegetables to which we are accustomed.

Beginning with June, when warm weather may reasonably be expected, the warmest day was the last of the month, and the mercury only reached 84 in the hottest part of the day. There were 20 rainy days and 10 more which were cloudy. The coldest day was the first of the month, when the mercury went down to 5. July was not so bad, but the mean average temperature was exactly the normal, and this notwithstanding that on several days the mercury went up to 96. There were 17 rainy days in the month and 7 that were cloudy.

Beginning August the mercury ranged from 62 to 94 in a few days last week. The mean temperature of the month was only 70, or four degrees below the normal. When it comes to rain, August carries the banner with 21 rainy days to its credit and 10 cloudy.

Her View of It. "Bah!" she exclaimed, disgustedly, as she came to the most interesting part only to read, "to be continued." "I don't see why they call these things 'continued stories'."

Motivie in His Politeness. Little Theodore—Shall I take your hat, Miss Peake? Miss Peake—No, thank you; but you're a polite little man, all the same. Little Theodore—No; 'tain't that. I just wanted to get the hatpin to stick into Tommy. Me an' him's goin' to have a fight in the hall.—Tit-Bits.

Revised Version. There was an old lady named Hubboard, Who went one day to the cupboard To look for a bone. But she found none. And it made her at mad as a blueboard.—Chicago Daily News.

KITCHEN LITERATURE.

"You look like a wreck to-day, Anna! Have you been sitting up all night again reading a novel?" "Yes, madam. It was such a beautiful story, but they didn't get married till nearly five o'clock this morning!"—Ellegende Blaetter.

The Politician. Nobody truly understands Just how his fame extends. Some men succeed by shaking hands And some by shaking friends.—Washington Star.

Getting Acquainted. Mr. Stayout—Say, old boy they tell me you have given up all of your clubs and that you never go out at night any more. Mr. Stayin—Yes; getting so well acquainted at home that my wife is beginning to call me by my first name.—N. Y. Times.

Why It Was. Mrs. Grouse—What do you have an alarm clock in your chamber for if you don't have the alarm wound up? Mrs. Gray—If you could have heard the awful things my husband said when the alarm went off, you wouldn't ask me.—Boston Advertiser.

New Household Joke. Yeast—see they have electrical flat-irons now. Crumbs—Yes; I suppose when a man's wife throws one of them at him he feels as if he'd been struck by lightning.—Yonkers Statesman.

Rather Ambiguous. Softhead—Wasn't that—a beastly absurd rumor about me—aw—losing me mind? Miss Slasher—Yes; that certainly was the limit.—Chicago Daily News.

Even on the Alert. Mr. Speedy—Do you care for outdoor sports? Miss Seedy—Why, I never thought you are one, aren't you, Mr. Speedy? This is so sudden!—N. Y. Sun.

Lesson in the International Series for September 13, 1903—David Becomes King.

THE LESSON TEXT. (2 Sam. 21-24) 1 And it came to pass after this, that David enquired of the Lord, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the Lord said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go? And he said, Unto Hebron. 2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Abigail the Jerahmeel, and Abigail, Nabal's wife the Carmelite. 3 And his men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household; and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron. 4 And the men of Judah came, and there they appointed David king over the house of Judah. And there told David, saying, That the men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul. 5 And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the Lord, that ye have shewed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him. 6 And now the Lord avenge kindness and truth unto you; and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing. 7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant; for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them. 8 But Abner the son of Net, captain of Saul's host, took Ishbosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim. 9 And made him king over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel. 10 Ishbosheth Saul's son was 40 years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David. NOTES AND COMMENTS. GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!—Ps. 133:1. OUTLINE OF SUBJECT MATTER. A Bar rewarded. 2 Sam. 21:2-4 David's mourning. 2 Sam. 21:5-7 David anointed king. 2 Sam. 21:8-14 Commending the Jabesh-gileadites. 2 Sam. 21:15-17 Ishbosheth anointed king. 2 Sam. 21:18-22 TIME—About 1000 B. C. PLACE—Ziklag, Hebron and Mahanaim. We have seen how David, though he had come to know why Samuel had anointed him, would do nothing against Saul. After Saul's death he acted just as nobly as he had done while his enemy was living. He would not remember the evil that Saul had done, but only the good. He mourned Saul as he was at his best—the affable king, the brave warrior, the generous friend. From the fateful battlefield at Gibeon a messenger hastened southward to Ziklag, to announce to David the defeat and death of his rival, King Saul. If David had been less magnanimous he would have welcomed the news with rejoicing and rewarded the messenger. This was what the man expected, but he was doomed to disappointment. He misjudged David's character. Instead of rejoicing, David mourned for Saul and Jonathan. His lamentation, called "The Song of the Bow," is one of the most beautiful personal tributes in all literature. The Amalekite who brought the news presented David with Saul's crown and bracelet, claiming to have slain the king with his own hand, though at Saul's request. This was undoubtedly a lie, invented for anticipated reward. We learned in our last lesson that Saul committed suicide. David believed the lie, but rewarded the liar very unexpectedly by ordering him to be executed for slaying "Jehovah's anointed."

David, at the age of 30 years, after many bitter experiences and hardships, finally attains the kingship, promised him years before, when Samuel anointed him. He has proved his powers of leadership and his great military prowess; also his ability to win and keep friends. "David enquired of Jehovah:" Probably through his high priest, Abiathar, with the historic ephod and the "Urim and Thummim" (see Ex. 28:30). "Unto Hebron." The natural capital of southern Judah, the home of his ancestors Abraham and Isaac. The surrounding country was thoroughly familiar to David, and the inhabitants had become much attached to him. He had just increased his personal hold upon their leading men by giving them valuable presents (see 1 Sam. 30:26-31). "Abigail, the wife of Nabal;" Rather, his widow. "And his men;" Probably most of David's renowned 600 came from this district, so that now they merely returned to their former homes, hoping to dwell in peace. "The men of Judah..." anointed David king." This was his public inauguration, making him the people's choice as well as Samuel's. David showed himself at this crisis to be a wise conciliator. He had heard of the gallant act of the men of Jabesh in crossing the Jordan to rescue Saul's body, and it touched his own generous heart. But his message of thanks to them was not devoid of shrewd politics. The only surviving son of Saul was a weak character, entirely unfit for the kingship. Yet to retain his own position as head of the army Abner made Ishbosheth king and succeeded for some time in holding together the northern tribes under his leadership. Ishbosheth was, however, a mere puppet. Abner was virtually king. "To Mahanaim;" Abner was forced to move his capital from Gibeon to a place of safety across the Jordan. The Philistine victory at Gibeon was overwhelming and they probably kept that district under subjection. They left David unmolested at Hebron, for he was still nominally a vassal of Achish of Gath.

Innocence is negative; perfection positive. Fatherhood is an essential factor in fraternity. No man with a broad heart can lead a little life. The more noise a lamp makes the less light it gives. Humanity's debts to us make our credit with God. To be in tune with the good we must be at one with God. The home without religion will mean the family without righteousness.

Conspicuous. "You have been conspicuous in the halls of legislation, have you not?" said the young woman who asks all sorts of questions. "Yes, miss," answered Senator Sorghum, blandly; "I think I have participated in some of the richest banquets that legislation ever made.—Washington Star.

Hand Shearing Table. The shearing table shown in the illustration we have found indispensable at shearing, branding and at other times when it becomes necessary to hold the goat in a position where it cannot get away or bother one. In shearing we place it upon its back in the trough and close the stanchions around its neck. Commencing at the brisket, shear back on the underside of the belly; then take opposite foreleg and shear as far up as possible.

Hand Shearing Table. the shoulder and neck as possible, then from the brisket on neck to stanchion, then near fore leg and shear same as on other side. This cleans all the hair from underside of animal. Next throw left leg across animal's body, release stanchion and bend the neck across your knee. Shear all the neck and replace in stanchion. Then take the animal by the hind leg and stretch the flank muscles smooth and shear up leg and alongside to where you left off in fore leg. Drop one side of table, which will allow the back and sides to be sheared. When through almost the entire fleece should be on the table. Put this fleece all by itself and keep clean, and see if the manufacturers do not pay you more for your hair.—E. D. Ludlow in Breeders' Gazette.

Reliable Medical Treatment for a Number of Ailments That Are Quite Common. It is better to give medicine to swine in food. But if one wants to dress, fasten a piece of rubber hose securely in a bottle containing the medicine. Throw the pig, put a stick in the mouth, and allow the dung to slowly run down the throat.

Inflammation of nostrils, or cold in the head, is caused by exposure of some kind; a cold, wet pasture, want of shelter at night, sudden change from a warm nest to outside cold air, a cold warm wash, with ginger in it, will result in such cases, with good care. If possible, give a dose of epsom salts, followed with 10 to 15 grain doses of nitrate potassium.

If your pig's feet get sore, give a dose of epsom salts, and follow with ten grains of nitrate of potassium two or three times daily, in feed, which will kill the worms and afford relief to the feet. Spread feet between the toes should be touched once with bicarbonate of antimony, using a feather. If necessary, repeat the third day. To heal the sore use chloride of lime, one dram to one pint of water. Keep the pig warm and dry.

Swine are seriously constipated give castor oil direct and not to the sows, but continue to feed the sows oil-meal in their food. Feed to prevent constipation, which is easily done.—Midland.

WARTS ON SHOW CATTLE. Many breeders of show cattle are often troubled with warts growing in very conspicuous places on their prize animals. says Prof. L. A. Cottrell, formerly of the Agricultural experiment station in Kansas. "We had much trouble with the pure blood stock, and several successful methods were employed in their extermination. In order to experiment on making of warts a Red Pol bullifer was selected on which the warts were so thick that it was impossible to place one's hand on her warts out coming in contact with several large growths. We tried two different ways on different parts of the animal's body. On her head and shoulders we applied castor oil—well rubbed in—twice daily for a week. Shortly after each application a portion of the wart would peel off, and in two weeks the warts were entirely cured without any pain to the animal in any respect. On the back and hips of the same heifer we used concentrated acetic acid, applying it with a fountain pen filler, and cauterizing the wart up thoroughly after applying grease around the root to keep the acid from eating the flesh. About twelve hours after the operation the warts could be pulled out easily. This was the quickest way, but it caused considerable pain and irritation, and it is accompanied by some danger of the acid being dropped upon the skin and thus causing trouble."
