TRIED TO RUN DOWN COP—Edgar F. Biery, a widely known chauffeur, of Allentown, is a prisoner in the Allentown jail. Biery was making fast time down an Allentown street with his employer's automobile when he was given the "slow down" signal by Mounted Officer Fred Reno. It had no effect and Reno to be discreet, rode out of the auto's path onto the sidewalk. Then according to the charge Biery swerved his machine and quickly catching up, ran down the officer and his mount, sending them both flying into the street. Reno is in the hospital with serious injuries, and the horse, which is a valuable one, will probably have to be killed.

DRINK UNTIL THEY DIE—Acting on the report of Coroner L. T. Donaghue, of Pottsville, the county authorities are investigating three violent deaths from alcoholism, one in Gilberton borough lockup, which was supposed to have been coal gas poisoning; one in the Schuylkill county almshouse; one a woman, who, it was said, was a habitual drunkard, and consumed between one and two quarts a few hours prior to her death. This last case is being investigated to learn from what source she obtained the whiskey.

ALL DAY WEDDING—An Amish wedding, with all the quaint ceremonies of that sect, took place at the home of Elias Fisher, near Honeybrook, when his daughter became the bride of Daniel Kaufman, of Lancaster county. The celebration began at 9 o'clock and continued all day. The wedding dinner was a notable feature. Nine geese, ten chickens, fifty pounds of beefsteak and ten cakes were among the things provided.

LOW WATER INCREASES DISEASE—Dr. W. H. Robinson, of Pottsville, in his weekly review, just completed, states that there were 414 cases of contagious diseases in Pottsville the past year. This large increase and a corresponding increase in other anthracite mining towns, is ascribed to the droughts which have affected this region severely, where the sluggish streams convey many disease germs.

VIOLENT DEATH, AFTER ALL—Surviving three shots in the lungs and abdomen some years ago when severely wounded by Clement Neikam, whom he was trying to arrest and who is now serving time in the penitentiary, John Moore, formerly a leading member of the State Constabulary at Hazleton, died at Chicago from injuries received by being struck with a railroad train after he had his foot caught in a frog.

NEVR RODE ON TRAIN—Mrs. Enoch Rohrbach, aged 98 years, the oldest resident of Lehigh county, is dead from debility in her home on the Lehigh Mountain, near Macungie. Mrs. Rohrbach never rode on a stream or trolley car. She leaves six children, and her descendants number upward of 200.

THREE SHOT FOR A DOLLAR—In a dispute over a dollar, two men and a boy were seriously shot at South Sharon. The wounded are: Joe Paleodina, aged 15 years, who may die; Tony V. Bolo and Louis Palardi. Patsy Husky, who it is alleged, did the shooting, was surrounded by a mob of foreigners who threatened to lynch him, when the police arrived. It was with great difficulty that he was placed in jail.

DEFIES THE LAW—While hunting a short distance above Coalport, about two miles from Mauch Chunk Frank McNelis and M. J. Conway heard their dog yelp. They found him fast in a snare which was evidently set for rabbits and which is prohibited by the game laws. Upon further investigation they found fourteen traps within a radius of 100 feet. The hunters reported the matter to the game wardens.

YOUNGEST WATCHMAKER—John Vaucher, 15 years old, of Reading, who has traveled through Europe and all over the United States earning money at his trade, is claimed to be the youngest watchmaker in the world.

FATEFUL DAY—Three men were killed by Pennsylvania railroad trains within a mile of Latrobe, within 12 hours.

NEW COUGH MEDICINE—Early yesterday morning Mrs. Sydney Riker of Kenilworth, Chester county, got up in the darkness and by mistake got hold of a bottle of iodine instead of cough medicine. She took a good sized dose, but after hard work a physician saved her life.

FATAL PIN SCRATCH—A small pin scratch on the index finger of his left hand, neglected until blood poisoning developed, caused the death of Stanley Stalpin, of Mahanoy City.

CAUGHT AN OTTER—An otter was recently caught in Tingley lake, Susquehanna county. Such animals are very rare in Pennsylvania now.

THE PAVING OF BLOOM STREET

On motion it was ordered that the petition be accepted and marked filed to await further action of council.

The petitioners agree to pay their respective portions of two-thirds of the entire cost of such grading, paving and curbing in proportion to the feet front of their respective properties when and as computed according to what is called the "foot front" rule.

The signers are as follows: R. B. Parsel, W. J. Rogers, Theodore DeSteter, Jacob Doster, J. H. Cole, William Kase West, M. F. Shultz, A. Hiatt and A. J. Hiatt, George A. Stock, W. R. Paules, Anna Y. Youngman, W. A. Sechler, president; W. H. Orth, secretary, of the Danville school board.

The petition sets forth that the undersigned are at least a majority of the property owners in interest and number abutting on the line of that part of Bloom street between the eastern building line of Ferry street and the western building line of Church street.

On motion it was resolved that at least twelve days public notice by not less than twelve handbills posted on the line of the proposed improvement be given that council will meet on Friday, December 16, 1910, at 8 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of hearing objections from anyone to the proposition to thus grade, pave and curb said part of Bloom street and to also then and there consider the propriety of the enactment of the necessary ordinance, and at which place and time all persons may attend and be heard.

On motion of Mr. Curry it was ordered that the secretary notify W. H. Lyon, the contractor, that the paving on East Market street will not be accepted, as it is not up to specifications; also that inasmuch as the borough can not collect the assessments it will hold Mr. Lyon responsible for the amount of interest paid on the money council will have to borrow.

The ordinance prepared for the paving of East Front street between Ferry and Railroad streets was read before council and approved on its first reading.

The borough electrician presented his report for November. The total cost of operating the plant was $385.58. The plant was in operation 402 hours.

THE GRANT CASE

The case of Rev. William Grant, the Presbyterian minister of Northumberland, who is charged by the Northumberland Presbytery with heresy in denying the deity of Christ and the inspiration of the scriptures, in articles which were printed in Sunbury and Northumberland newspapers, took on added complications on Monday, when the commission appointed to try him, met at Northumberland and amended the charges and postponed the trial.

The trial was to have taken place on Monday the 5th. The commission met at that time, but only to amend the charges so as to include statements from Rev. Grant's sermons and from conversations.

Rev. Grant has been given until December 19th to answer the amended charges and the commission will meet again on January 9th to take up the case and try it.

DANVILLE NURSES IN REBELLION

Two young nurses of this city, Miss Edith Mitchell and Miss Nellie Griffin, both former employes of the Danville State hospital for the insane, and who more recently have been employed at the State hospital for the insane at Warren, Pa., are among six nurses of the latter institution who last week rebelled when ordered to administer the "soap treatment" to Miss Dorothy Rice, a 17 year old inmate of the Warren hospital.

Following the episode Miss Margaret McFarland, general nurse, and Miss Emma Long, charge nurse, at the Warren hospital were arrested, charged with assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery, and held for court. They will be tried this month and Miss Mitchell and Miss Griffin are remaining at Warren to act as witnesses for the prosecution.

At the hearing, when Miss McFarland and Miss Long were held in $500 and $300 bail respectively, the story of the trouble developed.

It was asserted that Miss Rice had been ordered to take a dose of Epsom salts, which she refused to do. She was then ordered to her room. Afterward a nurse went to the room and found Miss Rice with her clothing all removed and in the act of hanging herself with a window rope.

It is alleged by the rebelling nurses that Miss McFarland then choked the Rice girl until she was black in the face, after which it is said, she was removed to a ward, where the "soap treatment" was administered.

This treatment consists in lathering a towel and rubbing it over the victim. It is said the girl was severely strapped during the treatment.

Harry P. Rice, father of the girl, is one of Warren's wealthiest and most influential citizens. He and his daughter were at the hearing, the latter appearing normal. Mr. Rice intends to push the prosecution of Miss McFarland and Miss Long and the Danville nurses, Miss Mitchell and Miss Griffin, are being entertained at the Rice country home, Hickory Lane, until after December term of court.

The affair has caused considerable comment at Warren, and arrangements are being made for an investigation of the affairs at the institution, where there has been more or less trouble since the new superintendent, Doctor Hawks, took charge several months ago, displacing Dr. Morris S. Guth, who had been connected with the hospital since 1881.

Shortly after Dr. Hawks' installation a strike occurred and nearly fifty nurses left their posts, causing considerable trouble to the management.

Miss Mitchell and Miss Griffin are both well and favorable known here. The former is the daughter of Mrs. George Mitchell, Mowrey street, and the latter is the daughter of Patrick Griffin, Foust street.

VETTER GOT A YEAR

Andrew J. Vetter, the young companion of "Chick" Dawson, who raised a rumpus on a Danville & Bloomsburg trolley car, on Thanksgiving afternoon, plead guilty to assault and battery in court at Bloomsburg yesterday morning and was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, $200 fine and undergo an imprisonment in the Columbia county jail for a period of one year.

The defendant is a good looking young man of 23, single, and don't look like a criminal. He said he was from Philadelphia and had been working for the American Car and Foundry company at Bloomsburg as a steel worker. His excuse was drunkenness, when the court said only aggravated the case.

A Birthday Party

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of J. M. Ritter, Bloom road, in honor of their little grandson, Joseph Ford's 6th birthday. Those present were Edna Lohach, Florence Baylor, Martha Baylor, James Wilks, Joseph Ford, James Ritter, Clyde Ritter, Charles Ritter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ritter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lohach, Mrs. Lucy Walter and Miss Catherine Taylor.

"The Thief"

Probably the best proof of the value of "The Thief," the great dramatic sensation, lies in the fact that interest in it does not begin to pass the moment we turn our steps from the theatre. So many plays hold us during the performance and then are shaken off like a dream. There is more reality than that in "The Thief." It grips both the heart and the mind and at the end we are dismissed with thoughts active as to the significance of it all.

"The Thief" will be seen at the Danville opera house Tuesday evening, Dec. 13th.

TO BE OBSERVED ON MONDAY 26TH

Christmas falls on Sunday this year and there seems to be some uncertainty among people whether the great church festival shall be observed on that day or on the day following. Our business people, however, who set the pace in such matters unreservedly declare that so far as they are concerned their places of business will be closed on Monday. The banks and the post office will also be closed on that day, a course which will be general throughout the country.

All the calendars that indicate the holidays designate Monday as the regular Christmas holiday.

One of the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, who was at South Danville yesterday, stated that while no orders had as yet been issued to that effect he was of the opinion that following custom the Pennsy will authorize the observance of Monday as Christmas and that only such work as is absolutely necessary will be performed on that day.

It was learned that both the Reading and the D. L. & W. Railroad companies following custom will observe Monday.

It is not improbable that the manufacturing industries of town will follow the general example and close down their plants on Monday, Christmas, with its special church service, its feasting, its exchange of gifts and greetings possesses features that may or may not be compatible with the observance of Sunday, according as it is viewed by rigid Sabbatharians or otherwise. Besides all persons like to have a holiday at Christmas. All are looking forward, therefore, to a general suspension of business on Monday the 26th.

WORK SUSPENDED

Hope of completing the macadam road in the eastern part of the borough this fall has been practically abandoned. Notwithstanding the falling snow the workmen kept on the job during Monday. The bed of snow yesterday, of course, made it necessary to suspend all work, and there is no telling when the weather conditions will be such as to make it possible to resume.

The excavation is very nearly completed, and the course of crushed limestone is laid between the intersection of Wall street and the stretch of High way already macadamized by the State hospital for the insane. This will leave the road from Wall street eastward in fairly good condition for winter travel. Between Wall and Foust streets, where excavation is in progress, however, conditions are likely to become very bad during the winter.

From Wall street eastward the trolley track has been moved over toward the canal some twenty inches, which increases the width of the roadbed giving it sixteen feet.

Of course, there is a bare possibility that the work may go forward yet this fall, but there will have to be a marked and sudden change in the weather.

PAINFUL INJURY

Warren W. Welliver met with an accident about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. He was opening a box about six feet long. He pried one of the boards forming the top loose at one end and raised it nearly erect. He had his hand on the edge of the box when the board accidentally fell back into its place. The large nail by which it had been fastened still protruding struck Mr. Welliver's hand piercing the palm entirely through.

Mr. Welliver bore up as well as possible under the pain and hurried to the office of Dr. Paules, where the wound was dressed.

Young Life Closed

Ruth Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Douglas, Upper Mulberry street, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning aged 1 year, 1 month and 23 days.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. The services at the family residence will be public. Interment, which will take place at Odd Fellows' cemetery, will be private.

The funeral will proceed to the burial ground by trolley.

A GOOD SHOW

"The Time, the Place and the Girl" company gave a very pleasing performance last evening before a good sized audience at the Danville opera house.

The tuneful melodies and laughable situations of the play were well brought out by a capable cast and chorus, the latter doing their work particularly well. Thomas Cameron as Johnny Hicks, the gambler, made an especially happy hit, comparing very favorably with Arthur Deagon, who played the part in the original metropolitan production. The scenic effects and costuming were complete and elaborate.

A WEDDING IN SWITZERLAND

The details of the wedding of Miss Blanche Sherborne DeLong, niece of Frank E. DeLong, of Washingtonville, and Mr. Paul Alexander Chataulenco, which took place at Geneva, Switzerland, on November 16th, have been received in this country, and form an interesting climax to a pretty romance.

The bride is well known in Danville having spent much of her time at her uncle's country place, Blue Springs farm, near Washingtonville, before she went abroad in July 1909, in company with Miss Kate G. Rea, of this city. The groom is a Russian, whose home is in the city of St. Petersburg.

As is customary in many European countries there were two ceremonies—the civil and the religious. The civil ceremony was performed in the Hotel de Ville at Lausanne, Switzerland, on October 24th, where all marriage contracts have been signed for over 500 years; with the American consul, Mr. Dwight and Miss Rea as witnesses.

The religious ceremony, with its elaborate beauty, occurred on November 16th in the beautiful Russian church at Geneva at half past six in the evening.

The church is described as being very oriental and lighted with candles of every size and filled with the odor of incense. In the center is a high dome under which a small table, covered with gold cloth, was placed, and on which stood a large gold cross and a gold covered prayer book and candles. Before this, and facing the altar, stood the priest and the deacon, each in vestments of gold cloth heavily embroidered—just like the pictures of the priests in the temple in the old testament. Two boys then spread a square of yellow satin about six feet behind the priest and deacon, on which the bride and groom stood, their right hands bare and in their left lighted candles.

After singing by the priest and deacon and choir, the priest took off their wedding rings and placed the groom's on Miss DeLong's first finger and the bride's on the groom's first finger—as far as it would go. This he did alternating the rings three times, the choir singing and the priest chanting all the time.

Acolytes then brought two gold crowns. One the priest and the groom kissed alternately three times and then placed it on the groom's head. The other was kissed by the priest and placed on the bride's head. Then the dress was kissed three times alternately by the groom and the priest, and held up before them both, with more singing.

A small square of cloth of gold was then brought and the priest holding their right hands under it lead them around the table three times. Then the questions (all in French,) chanting and adoring the cross and the ceremony was finished.

The bride and groom made a fine appearance. Miss DeLong in a fine white dress and veil and carrying orange blossoms and the groom in the customary evening suit.

Following the religious ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chataulenco left to spend a month at Aroza, near St. Moritz, from where they expected to go to Cairo.

On the 17th of this month they will sail for America for a visit, arriving at New York on December 22nd. They will spend Christmas at Blue Springs farm.

GOT HIS BUNNY

A good joke is going the rounds on a well known iron worker of this city, Thomas James, a rougher at the Danville rolling mill.

It appears that rabbits are quite numerous in the vicinity of the old nail mill property, where Mr. James works. Some of his fellow workmen secured a rabbit skin and having stuffed it to represent a live bunny, placed it under one of the apple trees in the nail mill orchard.

One of the men then told James of the presence of the rabbit in the vicinity and the latter at once secured his gun and placing himself in position to shoot the rabbit in the face, he fired.

It is needless to say that his fellow workmen enjoyed a hearty laugh at his expense.

ELECTRICIAN LEAVES

John H. Todd, of Pottstown, who has been in charge of Kauffman's electrical store in this city, for the past year, will leave today for New York City, where he has accepted a position with the Edison Electric company.

Mr. Todd has become well known to a large number of Danville citizens during the year of his residence here. He has had charge of the wiring of a large number of the business places and private homes, and his work all bears the stamp of excellence. Mr. Todd also superintended the wiring of the State hospital four years ago, at which time he was foreman for Buchanan & company.

HALDERMAN GETS FIFTEEN YEARS

The question of who the guilty party were in at least one of the series of robberies in which safes were cracked that stirred up this section during last summer and fall was conclusively settled at Bloomsburg yesterday when Elmer Halderman and John Mayberry Earnest pleaded guilty to committing the robbery at S. R. Dyer's store at Numidia on the night of September 24th.

For participating in the robbery at Numidia Halderman was sentenced by Judge Evans to pay a fine of $200 and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than 7 1/2 years nor more than 15 years, at separate and solitary confinement and hard labor. On the charge of holding up Special Officer Carrigan at Berwick on the night of October 13th, of which he was found guilty on Tuesday, he received a similar sentence, making his total term of imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than 15 years nor more than thirty years.

John Earnest was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than 2 1/2 years nor more than 10 years. Mayberry Earnest was given 2 1/2 years as minimum and 8 years as a maximum sentence. Each of them was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $200. They are both to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary at separate and solitary confinement at hard labor.

A large number of witnesses were examined by the Commonwealth, among them being Prothonotary Thomas G. Vincent and S. J. Welliver, Jr., of this city. Immediately after the Commonwealth rested the defendants at the advice of their counsel withdrew the pleas of not guilty and entered the pleas of guilty.

In his statement John Earnest said that on the 23rd of September he left Danville to visit his mother, who lives near Numidia. At the corner of Mill and Bloom streets he met Elmer Halderman, who decided to accompany him. It was Halderman, according to Earnest's story, who suggested the robbery and who when it came to blowing the safe actually did the job. John Earnest was the first of the two brothers who decided to enter into the plot. Arriving at his mother's house John and Halderman went out into the field where Mayberry was cutting buckwheat. He consented to become a party to the robbery. The Earnest brothers declared that they have no knowledge of any of the other robberies. Mayberry Earnest said he had never seen Halderman before the day of the Dyer safe blowing.

Halderman refused to talk about the robbery. After the pleas of guilty had been entered William Chrisman and William H. Bhawn, counsel for the defendants, made an impassioned plea for clemency.

91ST BIRTHDAY

At the ninety-first mile stone of her life, which she reached a few days ago, Mrs. R. A. Hulihan, a former Danville resident who now resides with her son, Clark Hulihan, in Williamsport, and Mrs. Kate Mears, a daughter, is still in possession of her faculties including a wonderful memory for dates and places.

Mrs. Hulihan celebrated her ninety first anniversary by receiving communion at the hands of Rev. Evore Evans, pastor of the First Congregational church, which members of the family attend. The clergyman administered the sacrament to Mrs. Hulihan at her home. She has not been able to attend church for some time.

Mrs. Hulihan was born near Danville December 4, 1819, when the country in this vicinity wasn't much but a wilderness. She was Miss Mary A. Conant until her marriage, which occurred in 1840. Mr. Hulihan died in 1867. Since then she has been a widow. She has been the mother of nine children, six of whom survive. Three sons were in the Union army during the Civil war. Both returned home alive and well. She is mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother. Her great-great-grandchild is little Miss Eleanor Jacobs, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Jacobs.

The sons living in Danville are William and George Hulihan.

In Critical Condition

The condition of Mrs. Dallas Cotner, near Washingtonville, who sustained a stroke of paralysis about a month ago, took a turn for the worst yesterday and last evening she was in a very critical condition.

Even the weather is a satisfactory topic of conversation compared with your relatives.

MAY RAISE ANGORA GOATS

A novel industry promises to develop in this vicinity, which is nothing less than the rearing of Angora goats, which have a peculiar value owing to their long silky hair, which is highly prized for manufacture as well as for the quality of their milk, which is greatly in demand at the drug stores. The Angora goat thrives best on mountainous or rough and hilly land, on which it may wander and pasture. In common with the goat family the Angora is not choice in the matter of diet; the grass and natural products of the soil that grow even on unproductive land, if the range be large enough, will sustain a good-sized flock of goats.

The idea has occurred to some one that a good deal of land hereabout embraced by Montour or other ridges now partially or not at all farmed could be made to yield a good revenue, if fenced in and stocked with Angora goats. Already the owner of one or more farms that are considered in the unproductive class, have been approached. In at least one instance, although the parties desire their names withheld, negotiations are well under way.

The hair of the Angora goat is very valuable, while the milk is always in demand, although it may be necessary to ship the latter to the larger towns and cities. Considering that the goats browse over the hills and largely solve the question of their own keeping the proceeds from their hair and milk would be largely clear gain.

A gentleman in touch with the parties negotiating yesterday stated that he does not think the day is far distant when much of the land now lying idle or indifferently cultivated will be devoted to the raising of Angora goats. It is suggested that the ranges enclosed for the raising of goats might also be devoted to the raising of turkeys and chickens on a large scale.

DIED AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Mary Klingler, wife of Howard Klingler, of this city, died at the University maternity hospital, Philadelphia, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., yesterday, following an operation for appendicitis. A week-old child survives.

The case is a very pathetic one. On Thanksgiving Mrs. Klingler went to the hospital. On the day of last week she became the mother of a baby boy, who survives and is doing well. About the middle of last week reports received from the hospital began to be less encouraging than desirable. Appendicitis developed, and on Tuesday of this week an operation was performed, which, owing to the woman's frail condition resulted in death.

As soon as it was learned that her condition was serious Mr. Klingler and Mrs. Charles Mooly, husband and sister of the deceased, went to Philadelphia and were with her until the last.

Mrs. Klingler was a woman of exalted Christian character, honored and beloved as are few women. She was a member of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church and was an active worker in the cause of religion.

Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram H. Stetler; five brothers, Charles, Merrill, Clinton, Frank and Moses Stetler; also two sisters, Sara (Mrs. Charles Mooly) and Miss Effie Stetler, who resides with her parents. The deceased with her husband lived on Ash street.

The body will be brought to Danville for burial, arriving this evening. Due notice of the funeral will be given.

When some people talk we are reminded of a dictionary with the definitions missing.
