

Bowling Club Ball.

Was One of the Grandest Events of the Season.

The Armory Was Crowded.

Many Attend to Simply See the Maskers—People Didn't Recognize Their Friends.

If the masquerade ball given last year by the German-American bowling club was a success, the one given by the same organization at the Armory last evening was doubly so.

The Light Guard Armory was crowded with those who had come simply to admire the beautiful costumes or to enjoy a hearty laugh at the ludicrous ones.

The decorations were beautiful and showed marked taste and a sense of exquisite uniqueness, presenting a very attractive and inviting appearance.

The whole hall was one bower of evergreens and flags of all nations, the American red, white and blue predominating. At the north end of the hall was the band stand, decorated with golden lyres and stars, set off with a background of blue and having Chinese lanterns hung from the front and bunting draped in a way which gave a very pleasing effect. Here the Fifth Regiment band was stationed and played their very best.

In the middle of the west side of the hall was the throne of Prince Carnival. This was of the same style of decoration as the bandstand and was supported by a huge pedestal and four pillars of gilt with spangled stars in a red background. On either side were two gilt pillars, standing on red and golden pedestals and having flags of several European states, with the American emblem on top, extending on each side.

At exactly 9:30 the band struck up a stirring march and Prince Carnival, heralded by two knights in glistening armor and headed by two dignitaries and two pages, entered the hall and took his station on the throne, when the other maskers passed in procession before him and as they did so each lady was presented with a bouquet and then the fun grew fast and furious. The grand march was in charge of that prince of promoters, Riey, and was led by Prince Carnival and the Fisher Maiden, the effect of which, as the maskers in their handsome costumes passed and repassed, crossed and recrossed, was beautiful in the extreme, and the way it was carried out reflects much credit upon Mr. Riey.

The clowns from the various points of the country arrived by the (new) Lake Superior air line on time and dropped from the ceiling. Among the vast number were noted persons representing Italian, French, German, and Polish, soldiers, a farmer and his wife, a trapper, a girl, two brides, numerous flower girls, garden girls, queens of night, the little fisher maiden, one of the new mail carriers, a southern colonel and wife, and even old Nick himself. There were also imitations of Bosch's "St. George and the Dragon" and "A Midwinter Night's Dream."

In the middle of a quadrille the request to unmask was made and many were the surprises when people recognized their friends whom they before were unable to distinguish.

After this, dancing was indulged in by all and the light fantastic was tripped until a late hour. Shortly after midnight supper was served in the banquet hall. The bowling club certainly covered itself with glory last evening and sustained its well known reputation as entertainers of the highest class.

Much credit is due the various committees, but particularly to that of decoration. The design for the throne was a masterpiece of Mr. William Moore, from the ideas and sketches of President Engelhardt and Mr. Wilmes, of the Tamarack. Mr. Herman Bibber is also entitled to much credit for his work on decorating the hall.

Netted a Neat Sum.

The social and supper given at the Tamarack school house last Saturday evening for the benefit of Richard Little, the man who was so badly hurt at the Tamarack Junior mine last week, and his family, was very well attended, considering the fact that it was arranged on very short notice. The affair was in charge of the ladies of the Tamarack mine and they deserve great credit for the successful outcome of the affair. Supper was served, and a good one at that, and all who attended went away satisfied that their money had been spent in a very charitable and worthy way and that they had received the full value in return. Something like $40 was cleared by the supper.

Little was resting well at the Tamarack hospital yesterday afternoon, but his condition is still considered very serious by the physicians.

Turner Opera House Crowded Last Evening.

Judging by the frequent and hearty applause of last evening and the tremendous house packed to the doors, the James H. Browne dramatic company gave marked satisfaction. There never was a larger audience at one time in the Opera House.

The hits of the evening were made by Harry Sutherland and J. T. McEnery in comedy roles. They were especially good, although as a matter of fact there is not a "stick" in the company. Last evening's performance was the "Black Flag," tonight they produce the "Plunder," introducing song and dance specialties, and novel stage contrivances, one scene representing an incoming train on the elevated road. The play is comparatively new and up to date and will be a winner with this strong company.

The above is from the Evening Leader, of Menominee, and the company will open a week's engagement at the Opera House next Monday.

Another Cow Case.

Justice Curtis' court has been the scene of many interesting cow cases, but the one this afternoon promises to be more interesting. This is a case of a kicking cow and differs somewhat from the previous cases, as in this damages are claimed. It seems that Jacob Pykas, the plaintiff, had traded cows with the defendant, Caroline Hendrickson, John Torrinen and his wife, Margaret Torrinen and had given the said defendant $15 for the trade. He also claims that when the bargain was made the said defendant warranted the cow not to kick and that was part of the contract.

However, as soon as Pykas got his new cow and was in the act of milking it, the cow failed to keep the agreement of its former owner, and kicked so hard that it knocked the milk pail over and that the plaintiff was required to tie the cow's hind feet down when milking it afterward.

The plaintiff therefore does not want to pay the $15 and has brought action for breach of warranty. A jury has been summoned and the trial takes place this afternoon. Attorney A. W. Kerr represents the defendant and Larson & LeGendre will appear for the plaintiff.

For the Benefit of St. Louis Church.

A comic opera, rendered in the French language, was presented by a number of young people at the Opera House last evening to a crowded house and all were well pleased with the entertainment. The play was got up for the benefit of St. Louis church and something like $200 was cleared from the concert. It was a three act drama, entitled, "The Start for California," and eight characters were represented, all taking their parts very well. Between the acts the audience was entertained by Mr. Panauke in several very fine selections. Early in the evening supper was served by the ladies in the rooms below the hall and a great many took their evening meal there, thus helping along the good cause.

Last Friday afternoon a parcel was taken from the back of the express office. The loss ($18) will not be borne by either the express company or the owner, but by the express messenger in whose care it was, and therefore it is to be hoped the three boys (they are known) who took the parcel and were seen to run down the railroad track with it will send the contents to either the express office or the News office, otherwise they will get into trouble. The parcel was for a lady resident and therefore the boys may have turned the contents over to their mothers or some female relative and if such is the case such person should see it returned to the rightful owner and at once.

Masquerade Saturday Evening.

The masquerade ball given last Saturday evening by the Bachelor's club at the Italian Hall was largely attended and a thorough good time was had by all. The Christoforo Colombo band furnished music for dancing during the evening. A large number of those present were masked and some very comical costumes were worn. The judges awarded the prizes as follows: First, "Punch and Judy," $10; second, "The Butter Company," $5; third, "Soldiers Returning from the Abyssinian War," $3; fourth, "Roman Guards," $2; fifth, "Seasons of the Year," $1. The masquerade was a success in every way.

Fancy Masquerade Ball.

The "Suomi" society will give a fancy prize masquerade ball at the Light Guard Armory next Saturday evening, February 22, when the following prizes will be awarded: First best fancy costume, $7; second best, $4; third best, $2. First comic, $5; second, $3; third, $1. Music will be furnished by the Tamarack Corset band. Admission, 50 cents a person. Refreshments will be served; everybody welcome. In connection with the above, the Finnish Ladies' Relief society will hold a fancy bazaar.

The Chicago Rivals concert company appears at the Opera House this evening as the fourth number of the Y. M. C. A. star course of entertainments, and judging from press recommendations and other evidence the company will put up a first-class performance. A large number of reserved seats have already been taken and a large house is assured. Don't miss this treat.

The 16-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Peter O. Lahti, of Raymbaultown, died Sunday morning. The little girl had not been sick long and its death is a great blow to the parents. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Finnish Lutheran church on Pine street and the remains laid at rest in Lake View cemetery.

Extends Thanks.

The Fifth Regiment band wishes to extend its sincere thanks to all those who so kindly aided them in the annual concert given last Friday evening. The band fully appreciates the efforts of those who took part in the program and hopes for an opportunity to repay them.

Thomas Carlyle.

Carlyle certainly taught us to have a keen scent for cant and to abhor it, though his horror of cant certainly sometimes became a cant of his own. The habit of denouncing cant is very apt to blind us to the cant of denunciation. Until men leave off eloquent generalities and look quietly into their own hearts without blast of trumpets and glorification of themselves for stripping themselves of cant they will not strip themselves of the very habit which most endangers their truthfulness and sincerity. Carlyle taught us to despise cant, but hardly to detect it in ourselves.

His genius was as impatient as his industry was patient. There was no toll which he would not go through to make his books workmanlike, but a great many of his carefully compiled facts proved to be more or less adapted to spoil the effect of his impatient epigrams. A great part of Carlyle's genius was a genius for happy exaggeration, though it was a kind of exaggeration which brought out, as nothing else could have brought out, the real drift and significance of social and political facts. Never did any man preach the duty of submitting to wise authority more eloquently, but never was there a man of genius who was less inclined to subjugate his own mind to the authority for which he professed so Platonic an affection. He has flashed all manner of brilliant lights upon character and history, but he has not found for us any coherent code of wisdom or any valuable avenue to religious truth.—London Spectator.
