

The Harvest To Come.

A Few Suggestions to the President and Council.

"Reader" Writes to the Point

On the Appointment of Officers—Nightwatchmen Need Explicit Instructions.

Those who have the appointing of the persons whose business it will be to see the saloons closed up at the legal hour should not shirk their duty by refraining from giving the nightwatchmen explicit instructions on this point. The News today asked one of the applicants for the office if, in the event of his appointment, he would see the saloons were closed. His answer was "Yes, if I am ordered to." The ordering power is, in this case, the president and his advisers, so, as pointed out in the News of Saturday, if the saloons are not closed at the proper hour the fault will clearly rest on the president and council.

Our article of Saturday has brought out the following letter:

To the Editor:—Your article in Saturday's issue, "What Shall the Harvest Be," discloses what may be "news" to some of your readers, but to most of us, existing facts.

Your suggestions to those about to appoint officers, whose sworn duty it is to preserve the dignity of all our laws, are timely and expressed in terms none too firm and none too American.

The safety of our community lies in the preservation of law and order, but when those who are appointed by the people to administer law, openly yield to the wishes of law breakers, we are no longer safe.

As citizens we are responsible for the enforcement of all laws and until we make an effort in this direction we cannot lay rightful claim to good citizenship, pose as we may.

All who read your paper know your attitude toward law-breakers of every kind and the article in your last paper is full of evidence that we should make no compromise with or express ourselves in any uncertain way about those who persist in breaking the laws intended to regulate the sale of liquor.

Where the press is honest in its efforts to set a standard of good citizenship it is a power for good and is appreciated by all liberty-loving and law-abiding men and women.

In commending the stand taken by our local press one of our ministers yesterday voiced the sentiment of all his hearers.

Yours for the right,
READER.

This matter of closing up the saloons will not be allowed to go by default and the News, on behalf of the law-abiding citizens of this township and in the name of decency, calls upon the council to give the nightwatch explicit instructions upon this point.

Boys' Brigade Band.

At a meeting held in the parlors of the Calumet Congregational church, last week, the nucleus of what may prove a valuable addition to the organization of the Boys' Brigade in the way of a boys' band was formed. The meeting was well attended by boys who are interested in the formation of a band, and the plans for the organization were fully discussed. An even dozen boys, some of whom have considerable musical ability, signified their intention of becoming members of the band and are enthusiastic over the idea.

Another meeting will be held next Friday evening when the plan will be further discussed and some definite action taken in the matter. It is intended to get a competent leader and one who can teach the boys.

To Attend the Presbytery

Rev. M. M. Allen, of Ishpeming, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in that city, filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church here yesterday, in the absence of Rev. Daniel Stalker, who is in Ishpeming. He also addressed the men's meeting at the Opera House. His sermon at the church and his talk at the men's meeting are very highly spoken of by all who heard them. He returned to Ishpeming today to attend the meeting of the Presbytery which will open tomorrow for a two days' session.

Rev. Daniel Stalker will remain in Ishpeming to attend the meeting of the Presbytery in which he will take active part. The Rev. Stalker is on the program for an address on the "Home and Foreign Missionary Question" and is otherwise interested in the conference.

Marshall Ward taught some youngsters a good lesson last week which they will not forget for some time. At the matinee given at the Opera House in the afternoon these youngsters made a practice of getting on the stairs in the hall and making so much noise that they were obnoxious. The management of the entertainment could do nothing to stop them, as they made good their escape when they saw him coming. Finally the marshal caught half a dozen one after another and put them in the village jail until late in the evening. They went without supper and were a sorry and penitent lot of boys when the marshal let them out in the evening. It is needless to say that they haven't been seen at the Opera House since.

That Sad Case.

Mr. Fred Leingruber called at the News office this morning and stated that the case as represented to us had been greatly exaggerated. It was quite true that his mother, who died this morning, had not left her bed since she heard of her boy's fall, but that she was not properly attended to was far from true, as he had supplied all her wants and had engaged a person from Lake Linden to wait upon her. The father had not deserted his wife, but being a silk ribbon weaver, had gone to New York to obtain employment. The item was inserted for a good purpose and with no intention of stating anything but the facts.

The Epworth League of the Tamarack M. E. church gave a concert last Saturday evening which was well attended and enjoyed by all. The program as already published was carried out in full. The League desires, through the columns of the News, to thank those who took part in the concert and all who helped in any way to make it the success it was. All such assistance is appreciated by the League.

M. M. MORRISON, E. C.
E. G. BROWN, Recorder.

The annual meeting of the councils of Laurium and Red Jacket for the appointment of officers for the ensuing year, will be held this evening. It is probable, however, that the officers for Red Jacket will not be appointed at this evening's meeting as the councilmen are desirous of having all the members on hand when the appointments are made. Chairman Kemp is out of the city at present but is expected home soon.

How He Spelled It.

The colonel was a bluff old fellow, and all the officers liked him except for one thing, and that was his jealousy of the commanding officer of a neighboring post. He would grow irritable whenever this officer's name was mentioned, although he invariably brought the name up himself. One evening some of the mess determined to have some fun with the colonel and possibly put a stop to his pettishness. "Colonel," said one of the officers, "it's queer, but you'd think Major D— (the neighboring commander) had studied spelling. I got a letter from him today, and how do you think he spelled 'here'?"

"He doesn't know much," growled the colonel. "I suppose he spells it h-e-r-e."

"No."

"Well, h-e-r-e, as it should be."

"No, that's not it."

"H-e-r-e," ventured the colonel once more.

"Guess again."

"Well, I'd have to be as stupid as he is to guess any other way of spelling it. Wait a moment. Does he spell it h-u-e-r-e?"

"No, colonel."

"Well, then, how does the man spell it anyhow?"

"Why, h-e-r-e, as it should be."

The colonel rose with wrath in his eyes and snapped out, "Gentlemen, I'm too old for such joking," and then left the room and slammed the door after him.—Harper's Round Table.
