

Celebrate Tomorrow.

Odd Fellows From All Over the Copper Country.

Will Assemble at Calumet.

Preparations Are Being Made for a Big Turnout—How Visitors May Spend the Evening.

Tomorrow Calumet will be the scene of one of the biggest celebrations ever held in the copper country, when the Odd Fellows societies of several counties of the Upper Peninsula will hold their celebration and annual reunion here under the auspices of Hecla Lodge. Great preparations have been made for the event. The principal part of the day's doings will take place in the afternoon when the different delegations from out of town will be met at the depot and a big parade will take place, after which there will be speaking at the Opera House. In the evening the "Mikado" will be produced at the Opera House by local talent. There will also be a grand ball at the Armory to wind up the day's doings. A number of the business places will be decorated for the occasion.

The members of the lodges here will meet at their halls at 1:30 in the afternoon and the line of march will be formed so as to leave promptly at 2. The Hancock lodge will leave by special train over the Mineral Range which will start from Hancock at 1:30. The local lodges will march to the depot at Laurium, where they will meet the train and the members from Lake Linden who will come up in carriages. The mammoth parade will then be formed and the line of march taken up.

Card of Thanks.

On behalf of myself, brothers, sisters and all the members of the family, I wish to thank all those neighbors and friends who, by the kindness and acts of sympathy, made the last hours of my mother on this earth pass so peacefully. Also would I thank those who showed so much respect for the deceased after her death, and more particularly those who sang at the funeral services and sent the beautiful floral tributes.

THOMAS H. SODDY.

Mrs. Catherine Neimi wishes, through the columns of the Evening News, to thank publicly the members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen for the prompt and satisfactory payment of the insurance on the life of her deceased husband and also for the many kindnesses shown her during his illness and after his death. Their efforts were very heartily appreciated and will ever be remembered. Mrs. Neimi further commends the order as a good and noble organization and an order which can always be relied upon.

Arrested This Morning.

Dr. Fred Blankner and his wife, Mrs. May Blankner, were arrested this morning on complaint of Dr. W. S. Whisler charged with engaging in the practice of dentistry without having a certificate from the State board. The doctor and his wife were brought before Justice Curtis where they pleaded not guilty and asked for a change of venue. The case was adjourned until Friday. The doctor and his wife were taken to the village jail, in default of the necessary bonds. While waiting for an attorney the doctor and his wife were offered a seat in the clerk's office in the town hall which they refused and requested to be put in the lockup which was done and where they remained until their bondsmen were obtained.

The arrest of Dr. Blankner and his wife was almost the sole topic of conversation about town this morning. The doctor and wife have employed Mr. W. J. McDonald as their lawyer, who informs us the case will be fought to a finish.

High School Field Day.

The students of the Calumet high school have made arrangements for a field day to be held at the Athletic park Saturday, June 12, and a committee was appointed yesterday to complete the details.

The field day will be strictly a high school event and all the schools of the county will be asked to send representatives to contest in the different sports. A program including the usual track athletic events will be arranged and bicycle races will form a conspicuous part of the day's doings. The field day will be held with an object of increasing interest in athletics in the high school.

Think Rowett Won.

A telegram received this morning from John Rowett, the well-known Cornish wrestler, states that he won two falls from Jones, the champion of Montana, in their match at Butte City last evening. Local friends of Rowett are inclined to think that this morning where he won the match, which is very probable if the match was for the best two out of three falls, but if it was for the best three out of five the result would be exactly the opposite. Rowett's telegram does not give any particulars of the match. It was Cornish style in each fall.

Mrs. A. Javeen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctor for it nearly the whole of this time, trying various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physician, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Sodergren & Sodergren, Druggists.

Village Tax Roll.

Take notice that I have completed the assessment roll for the village of Red Jacket and that the board of review will attend at the council room in the Town Hall of said village on Monday, May 31, and Tuesday, June 1, for the purpose of reviewing said roll and of hearing any persons who may deem themselves aggrieved thereby. LEO KALTENBACH, Assessor.

Red Jacket, May 14, 1897.

There was a large crowd on hand this morning when the sale of seats for "The Twelve Temptations" opened at Ryan's store and a great number of good seats were taken. The company is a high-priced one and the local management of the Opera House is running a big risk in getting them here.

Mr. John A. Hunsberger, the well known traveling salesman, arrived here yesterday afternoon, called by the serious illness of his father, the Rev. Hunsberger, who is suffering from a stroke of paralysis. The reverend gentleman's condition is not at all encouraging and he is still very seriously ill.

A recent issue of Reveille, the State military paper, contains an excellent half tone page illustration of General Lyon and his staff and also a lengthy history of his life and military service. Major Merton's portrait also appears and an account of his service in the National Guard is also given.

The contract for the new Sacred Heart church will be let this evening and it is understood that Mr. Paul P. Roehm will secure the job, his bid being the lowest. It will be a big contract and the cost of the new church will probably reach $40,000 when completed.

Makes no difference how nervous you are, how hard your teeth are to extract, how sore they may be, you rejoice and laugh when having them taken out by Dr. Blankner's original method, at the Jewell House. By request they remain until Saturday, May 29.

$5 Reward.

Lost—From the Oceola, a medium-sized red cow with short horns turned in and branded on the hind quarters with No. 5. The above reward will be paid on the return of the cow to William Lux, No. 181 Back street, Oceola.

Albert Davey left at noon for Colorado Springs, where he has taken a position with the Colorado Springs real estate company, of which his cousin is business manager. Albert is quite a bicycle rider and may make a record in Colorado.

The contract for Mr. W. H. Hosking's new residence on Pine street has been let to Bajari & Ulseth and work will be commenced at once. The building will be a fine residence with all the modern improvements and conveniences.

A big real estate deal was recently made in Red Jacket when what is known as the Labine property, consisting of six dwellings and lots were transferred from Mr. Oliver Labine to Mr. Forest for a consideration of $6,000.

Fred W. S. Thayer, State manager of the Union Mutual life insurance company of Grand Rapids, is in town on business. Mr. Thayer is a brother of ex-Mayor Thayer, of Grand Rapids.

The funeral of the late Peter Roethe will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be held at St. Anthony's church and the remains interred at Hecla.

Telephone connections at the Calumet bedding company for the convenience of patrons. Orders receive prompt attention. No. 444 Pawabic street, Laurium.

Position Wanted.

By a young lady as stenographer and typewriter. Apply to Miss Sumner, Jewell House.

Ten carloads of heavy machinery to be used in the new engine house at No. 6 Oceola were received at the mine this morning.

T. C. Miller, traveling agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railway was in town yesterday on business.

Mr. Nathan Ruttenberg went to Ishpeming yesterday on a few days' visit with relatives.

Attorney O. J. Larson went to Marquette this morning where he is attorney in a divorce case.

Captain William Daniell's residence on Pine street is being considerably improved.

Supervisor Fred Smith, of Alouez, was a Houghton visitor yesterday afternoon.

BY PHILLIPS BROOKS.

[The following poem, never before published, was found in one of Phillips Brooks' early notebooks, in which he jotted down thoughts and memoranda.—Boston Transcript.]

Along the noisy city ways
And in this rattling city car,
On this the dreariest of days,
Perplexed with business fret and jar,

When suddenly a young, sweet face
I looked on my path and pain
And lent it something of its grace
And charmed it into peace again.

The day was just as bleak without,
My neighbors just as cold within,
And truth was just as full of doubt,
The world was just as full of sin.

But in the light of that young smile
The world grew pure, the heart grew warm,
And sunshine gleamed a little while
Across the darkness of the storm.

I did not care to seek her name,
I only said "God bless thy face."
Thy sweet young grace be still the same,
Or happy maid or happy wife." —P. B.

GRANDMOTHER.

She Does Not Keep Pace With the Advancement of Medical Science.

We all know just what adorable creatures all grandmothers are, and how they cannot do enough for the little ones belonging to their sons and daughters. Now, without wishing to appear ungrateful for these attentions, there are some mothers who think themselves quite capable of caring for their own babies, and the continual and persistent contrary opinion of grandma becomes after a time vexatious rather than helpful.

Even though grandma has brought up a dozen children, and this is her daughter's very first experience in that line, it is just as well not to give overliberal doses of advice, nor is it good policy to empty out the medicine the doctor prescribes for baby's cough and substitute sirup of squills, because sirup of squills was all that the youngsters of another generation were dosed with.

The latter medicine may be regarded by grandma as the most perfect cough remedy in existence, but the prescribed drops or pellets may be quite as effective, and it is but natural that the young mother and the physician in charge should feel a bit annoyed at the assumption of superior knowledge, however well founded it may be.

Babies need as varied treatment as plants do. What may have answered splendidly for grandma's dozen might prove quite the reverse of beneficial for the fin de siècle youngster, and even though a baby is a novelty to the young mother nature will be her best teacher as to its wants and cares. Grandma must remember that she had to be initiated in her superior baby training before she could pose as an oracle, and would she have been pleased to have had her authority wrenched from her by a wiser somebody who scorned her methods and ridiculed her lack of wisdom?

When the young mother asks for advice, it is time enough to give it to her. She is certain to do so and will appreciate most kindly the valuable hints the more experienced mother can give her, but her feelings will be quite the reverse if advice is thrust upon her and the care of her own precious baby taken peremptorily out of her hands.—Louisville Post.

How the Money Goes.

It is unsafe to allow any ordinary woman to enter a store with money. She has such a craving for luxuries, such a contempt for mere necessities, that she almost invariably purchases the former and is constantly in need of the latter. She goes forth to purchase an opera bonnet because she is going to the opera that very night, but her eye is caught by a tea gown, a bargain tea gown, and she buys it. That night some man seated behind a Gainesborough with many plumes swears. She goes out to buy a jacket, needing one sorely, but her erratic fancy is caught by lace trimmed underwear, and before she realizes it she is reveling in new nightgowns and corset covers. She has even been known to go out to buy writing paper and to return with nothing but a blue and white cup and saucer.—Philadelphia Times.

Smoked Cigarettes Thirty Years. "People talk about cigarettes being unhealthy, but the fact that I am still alive is proof to the contrary," said a middle aged man. "I began smoking them 30 years ago, before they were made in this part of the country and when few were imported. It is a far cry to the time when there were no American cigarettes, and I feel old when I look back to it. I ought to add that I have never inhaled the smoke of cigarettes, which perhaps accounts for their not killing me long ago. I may also add, in strict confidence, that the reason I have smoked cigarettes is that cigars and pipes make me sick."—New York Sun.

So He Did.

Lord Salisbury, while on a visit to his nephew, Mr. A. J. Balfour, M. P., in Haddingtonshire, amused himself by playing golf. One day the noble lord struck too low with his iron and asked his caddie:

"What have I hit?"

The youngster, who was without reverence, gruffly made answer: "Scotland."—London Globe.

He—So is money, so far as I am concerned.—Detroit Free Press.

When the armada appeared off the coast of England, notice of that fact was sent all over the country in a few hours by the use of beacon fires.

AFTERMATH.

The herald redoubt slugs his winter lays,
The fieldfares drift in flocks adown the woad,
The turbulent rooks gather on every field,
And clamorous starlings dare our garden ways.

Oh, beautiful garden ways, not grown less dear
Because the roses gone and briars wave
Where lily and purple iris have their graves,
Or that where violets were tall asters rear.

Lo, what a sheen of color lingers still,
Though the autumnal rains and frosts be come!
The tall, overhanging sunflowers seem to spill
Lost rays of sunshine o'er the tangled mold,
While everywhere, touched with a glory of gold,
Flaunts the imperial chrysanthemum.

SWITCHING LOCOMOTIVES.

The Superiority of Electricity Over Steam as a Motor.

The most striking thing about the behavior of the electric locomotive is the certainty with which it may be moved over short distances, varying from a few inches to a few feet. The obedience of the motors to the controller is practically instantaneous, thus doing away at one stroke with one of the chief drawbacks to steam switching engines, with which there is a noticeable delay between the time when the throttle valve is opened and the pistons begin to move, in this way often causing the engineer, no matter how careful he may be, to overshoot his mark.

This delay in action, while generally only a few seconds in each case, amounts up seriously in the course of a whole day's work and is the chief cause of the proverbial lateness of freight trains which have much switching to do at intermediate stations. From the fact that the movement of the electric locomotive can be graduated so nicely a full third of the time usually occupied by steam locomotives can be saved, particularly as single empty cars unprovided with automatic couplings need never be bunted off by too rapid an approach of the engine, as frequently happens under switching conditions as they now are.

Again, the acceleration of the electric locomotive is so even that the freight cars of a comparatively long train are started, one after another, without jerking and without apparent strain. A weak draw bar is thus protected against sudden fracture, and no "creeching off," with consequent reduction in speed and delay in getting under way, is necessary, as in the case of the steam locomotive. The electric locomotive, further, is fitted with a quick acting air brake, the pressure for which is kept at its maximum by an automatic electric air pump, instead of the comparatively slow acting steam brake which is usually attached to steam switching engines. The highest rate of speed permissible in such cases may, therefore, be indulged in with the certainty of a quick stop, should occasion require it.

The handiness with which an electric locomotive may be operated is another point in its favor. There is neither the internal pressure of the steam against the throttle valve nor the stiffness and weight of the link reversing gear to overcome. A dainty controller handle, which could be moved by a child, and a reversing handle almost equally light and movable open and arrange the paths for the current.—E. H. Mullin in Cassier's Magazine.

Greasing the Elephants.

Twice a year the elephants and the rhinoceros in the Central park menagerie get a coating of neatfoot oil, which is thoroughly rubbed in with the palm of the hand. The oiling and the manipulation cleanse the skin, remove the dead skin and open the pores, freshen the animals up and improve their health, and they seem to like the process. The oiling is done only in the spring and summer. If done in the winter, the animals would be likely to take cold from it.

The rhinoceros at the park is in good condition and lively and rather frisky for so big a brute. Sometimes it steps about with a step that is very much like a dancing step and likely to surprise one who sees it for the first time and has been accustomed to regard the rhinoceros as an animal always slow and lumbering in its movements. When the rhinoceros' cage is closed out, which is done daily, the keeper first attracts the great creature to one side with a tempting mess of food. Then he slips a noose of rope over the animal's horn and settles it down around a bar or two of the elephants' cage, adjoining. This is done to keep the rhinoceros from pitching into the keeper if it should take a notion.

The same precaution is taken when the rhinoceros is oiled. The elephants, however, kneel at the word of command. It is not necessary to plant a ladder against them in order to reach the upper part of their sides in rubbing in the oil.—New York Sun.
