JUDSON FAVORS SOCCER FOOTBALL FOR COLLEGES

President of Chicago University Thinks Larger Number of Students Could Benefit from Sport—Is Also Safer.

President Harry Pratt Judson of the University of Chicago, a leader in the national demand for safer football, is on record as favoring the current popularity of soccer football for western colleges and its boom for next season. He will stand firm with Coach Stagg for placing the association game on a plane with other intercollegiate sports.

President Judson favors the game because it will give more students a chance to compete in athletics and give a higher tone to student competition. He believes that it will serve a healthy purpose in furnishing recreation for a large body of students that is not reached by the American gridiron game, and will give it the advantage of his influence.

"I believe in the possibilities of soccer as a college game," said President Judson. "It gives many more students a chance to play. Soccer will add much interest to next season's game, and I am sure the spectators will be glad to see it as a curtain-raiser to other games."

"Coach Stagg is in favor of soccer, and it is my opinion that his enthusiasm will result in its increased popularity. I understand that he will arrange several contests for Marshall field next fall."

Maroon rooters have received broad hints that soccer will get a place on the schedule far in advance of what many of the fans have hoped. Instead of being merely curtain-raiser, the soccer games in several instances will stand alone as single attractions, like the Chicago-Illinois contest scheduled for next November.

The most rabid of the soccer rooters seem likely to get a still greater satisfaction. At least one of the "big nine" football games is to be dropped and a soccer contest between that school and the maroons listed in its place, it was said at the maroon headquarters.

Coach Stagg has outlined to his intimates a soccer program that reaches over to the season of 1940, when it is thought the maroon schedule will have soccer as one of its strong points. In case "big eight" relations cannot be settled to the satisfaction of all the colleges, Chicago will meet some of its old rivals in the association game in 1941 also, according to the Midway fans.

Coach Stagg is expected to do some successful still-hunting for a big gridiron game while in the East this week. The question whether Cornell or the Navy is to be the opponent of the maroons in 1940 will be settled. The postponement of the Chicago-Cornell schedule was made necessary by the failure of the maroon board of athletics to sanction any games at present, and it is possible that this will result in the canceling of the 1940 engagement. It is feared at the Midway. Stagg was forced to put his schedule in the background, and unless Cornell has saved a date for him he will have to look elsewhere. The Navy is next on the list.

JUNEAU IS MENTIONED.

Sentiment at Madison is crystallizing in favor of the appointment of a Wisconsin man to the vacant physical directorship at Wisconsin. Among the Wisconsin graduates whose names have been mentioned are former graduate managers John L. Fisher of Janesville and George P. Downey of Battleground. Harvey Holmes, director of athletics at the University of Southern California, also has been mentioned.

Bill Juneau, the old Wisconsin end, who has had great success with the Marquette university football team for the last two years, is another whose friends are pushing him for the position.

If the regents decide to go outside the alumni list, Howard Jones of Yale is the choice of a number of students.

JENNINGS CHANCES LOOK BRIGHT FOR FOURTH FLAG

Detroit Team Composed of Fine Array of Talent This Year—Play-ers to Be Taken to San Antonio for Spring Training.

Detroit, Dec. 29.—The three-cornered scrap between Tom Jones, Ness and Pete Lister for first base, the feuding of the catching of Heine Beckendorf, and the seven or eight berths which will be permanent on the club, form obviously the three points of interest for Detroit fandom in the training season which is ahead. Already the bugs are beginning to exchange views on all three of the contests.

There seems absolutely no chance for any of the Tiger regulars to be pried loose from their jobs, with the exception of the veteran first-sacker. Furthermore, he is sure to be a strong favorite in the battle which he is to wage at San Antonio, beginning two months hence.

Manager Jennings and the whole baseball world know what Tom can do. He is a fine fielding first baseman, an accurate thrower, a quick thinker and by no means the slowest man on his feet of guardians of the infield back in Ban Johnson's league, can hit fairly well and sacrifices unerringly. To beat him out Ness or Lister will have to do it in sheer batting ability. Both of them hit better in the minors than Tom did in the big league, but there is a great gulf between the quality of the pitching encountered there and here. Lister is left-handed and, of course, is therefore dubbed a second Chase. Ness is right-handed and hits 'em a mile.

But Tom has had a battle for his job every year he entered the league and has won so many of them that past performance leads to the belief that he will do so again.

Maybe "Beck" Will Suit 'Em. Beckendorf, according to Hughie Jennings after the close of the 1939 world's series, will get a real chance to make good in the season that is ahead. Last year was his first in fast company and he was used virtually only on the occasions when Stange was out of it and left-handed pitchers were offloading for the opposition.

Although Detroit is pretty well satisfied with his catching staff, in the main, other critics insist—and the world's series returns have borne them out in the assertion—that the champions are most in need of a high-class batsman. Perhaps Beckendorf will suit them better.

But the battle royal among the pitchers—there is the one that will prove a corker.

The Detroit club has, by common consent, corralled a finer bunch of budding star artists than has fallen to the lot of any other club. The list has simmered down to 14 men, of whom eight were members of last year's staff. Browning, Hardin, Pernoll, Savidge, Stroud and Vance still remain of whom Pernoll is the sole southpaw.

Weights 125 and Then Some. Of this bunch Browning comes probably the best touted. According to conclusive information from the coast, TEW ??? TEW one story regarding this youngster is erroneous in the extreme. That is the one that has him weighing but 125 pounds. Browning is a little fellow, all right. But he's a lot bigger than a watch chain. He pitched at 145 pounds last year for San Francisco and he has undertaken a special course of training this winter to build himself up. In all probability he will report weighing 150 pounds or more. He is a corking pitcher, beyond question. Whether he will be able to beat out Lelivert or Works remains, however, to be seen.

If the regents decide to go outside the alumni list, Howard Jones of Yale is the choice of a number of students.

STUDENTS FEAR ANOTHER PLAYER MAY BE BANISHED

Michigan Athletic Searchlight Has Been Directed Towards Smith, Giant Center—May Be Professional Wrestler.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 29.—Athletic followers of the University of Michigan went into another paroxysm of excitement this week when they heard the story that Smith, center on the football team, was under fire of investigation, on the possibility that, like ex-Captain Miller, he was ineligible to play the past season. Everybody in authority has professed profound ignorance and disbelief that anything is wrong with Smith's record, but this has not as yet served to quiet the students.

Despite the fact that the authorities appear to know nothing of the matter, it is thought about the school that they are looking into it, and all who are interested are waiting anxiously for something sensational to break. Many students are loath to believe that Smith is a professional in any way, and express the opinion that some one has "tipped off" a "phony" story, but there are many who are withholding judgment pending anything that might be done by the board of control.

There had never been any hint openly that Smith was other than an amateur, and the announcement that an investigation was on took the entire body by surprise. Director Fitzpatrick said he was certain Smith was eligible last year and should be for two years longer, and also said he had never noticed anything sensational in the big center's wrestling ability. Assistant Director Richie gave out a statement along the same lines and "Shorty" Longman, former Michigan star, who was instrumental in having Smith take up studies at the Michigan school, said so far as he knew there was nothing wrong in the past history of the gridiron man's athletic life.

The story has succeeded in creating almost as much stir here as did the announcement of Miller's ineligibility, and the excitement was accelerated by coming so closely upon the heels of the latter announcement. It is certain that no open inquiries have been made, but it is the feeling of a large number of the students that the board of control is taking more than passing interest in the case.

"POP" ANSON NAMES STARS.

Captain Anson in discussing players just and present said the other day: "It makes me smile when I read in the papers that Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner and John Kling never had equals on the diamond. Let me say that Cobb never saw the day he could run bases, hit and field like Mike Kelly and Bill Lange. Wagner is a star, but he is no better than Ed Williamson when the latter played shortstop for my Chicago team. As far as Kling is concerned, I'll admit he's a splendid catcher, but Buck Ewing had him beaten every way. You can't tell me that there are better players now than 20 years ago or that the game is any faster. The younger generation of fans, of course, never had a chance to see the old stars, but they can take it from me that the great players of the past have never been equalled."

WANTS MORE MONEY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29.—The date for the Wolgast-Nelson fight has been definitely fixed at February 22. However, Nelson has wired McCarver that he wanted $15,000 to meet Wolgast, win, lose or draw. The original offer to him was $10,000, win, lose or draw. Wolgast's forfeit of $1,000 has already been posted.

OTHER RUMORS NAILED.

Watkins and Casey Both Said to Have Qualified for Game.

The scandal unearthed in Michigan's athletic affairs gained fresh material this week, when it was charged that Watkins and Casey, both of whom played against Minnesota, were ineligible to play in that game under conference rules. The story was quickly nailed, however, by Prof. Patterson, who said the athletic board had made a careful investigation of these two cases before that game.

Watkins is a graduate of the literary department and it has been contended that under the conference rule preventing the use of students who have received a degree, he should have been barred from the Minnesota game. In defense of the action of the board in control Prof. Patterson cited a resolution of the conference, introduced by Prof. Smith of Iowa at a meeting in November, 1907, and passed unanimously.

Jap Athlete Wins Laurels

MASUDA, HARVARD SOCCER STAR

Cambridge, Mass.—For years the sons of Japan have been making American students hustle to hold their own in the classroom, but not until recently have the Japs played any important part in athletics. This year there are three of the orientals on the Harvard varsity soccer team. The star of the list is Masuda, one of the best all around athletes that ever entered the school. His work has been attracting notice ever since he came to Cambridge and he is becoming one of the popular idols of the university. Masuda's chief claim to greatness is his quickness and accuracy in his kicking. He is a little fellow, but a veritable bundle of muscles and nerves.

IOWA GOVERNOR WILL NOT PERMIT FIGHT PICTURES

Council Bluffs, Ia., Dec. 29.—The action of Governor Carroll in holding that it is illegal to exhibit moving or other pictures of a prize fight has caused a decided sensation in sporting and theatrical circles in Iowa.

Parties who were operating a moving picture theater had made arrangements to secure the films of the Johnson-Ketchel prize fight, but before putting them into action, concluded that they had better secure an opinion from the executive for the reason that in this state prize fighting is not only prohibited, but participating in, promoting or even attending a fight is made a felony.

The decision was reported by Governor Carroll and in reply he has stated that under the provisions of the state law the exhibition of such pictures is positively prohibited. He goes beyond this point and adds that the Iowa laws specifically forbid showing any moving picture of anything illegal, continuing: "If the films would not have been allowed in Iowa, the pictures of it certainly could not be shown here."

That the decision on the prize-fight pictures is more far-reaching is what is worrying the show people. They contend that more than half of the plays that are put on at the theaters, especially at those of the cheaper class, portray the commission of acts that are prohibited by the state laws. For instance, in tragedy the commission of murder is frequently shown. It is nothing unusual to show upon the stage or even the high class theaters all over the state the commission of burglary, robbery and arson.

Organizes World Wide Good Cheer Clubs

THEODORA CARTER.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Dreary days of convalescence in hospitals, hotels and boarding houses in Chicago are to be brightened by the Good Cheer society. Miss Theodora Carter, daughter of T. W. Carter, retired millionaire of Seattle, Wash., who says she is a cousin of W. J. Calhoun, minister to China, came to Chicago last night with news of her plan. After the holidays she is coming back, she says, to organize the society.

Out of her illness at the Great Northern hotel a year ago and the loneliness she felt then sprang the idea which she has already put into effect in New York, Boston and Seattle. A 25-story building, she says, is to be erected in New York, and it is part of the plan to erect a building in Chicago.

JOHNNY HAYES REDUCES RECORD FOR MARATHON

They do come back, once in a while, Johnny Hayes, winner of the Olympic marathon, who was beaten time and again by Dorando, St. Yves, Longboat and others after his return to this country, is showing the form he displayed in London.

Hayes ran a marathon in San Francisco and won in the remarkable time of 2:26:54 2-5, which, unless the track was short, is a new American record for the distance.

Hayes has continued to plug along in race after race; he has never shown the form he displayed at Shepherd's Bush when Dorando collapsed, but his work in San Francisco seems to indicate that he is in splendid shape. At any rate, his time is a vindication for the little New Yorker, and makes up for much of the chagrin he experienced when he could not cop in New York.

WORLD'S SERIES AS USUAL.

President Herrmann of the Cincinnati Reds says that "nothing will be allowed to interfere with the usual world's championship series—not even the desire to experiment with the schedule comprising 168 games." He says that personally he does not think the longer schedule will interfere with the playing of the world's series and that the American league can drop their 154 games out to make the endings of both leagues about the same.

KETCHEL PICKS JOHNSON.

Stanley Has Considerable Respect for the Big Black Bow.

Ketchel occupies a unique place in the ring just now. None but Sam Langford is a logical opponent for him, says Ketchel: "I think that Johnson will win from Jeffries. He is a great fighter and I would rather have my money on a fair live one than a great dead one. Johnson is a careful, defensive fighter and a fighter who never has been fully extended. My only chance with him was in landing one good solid wallop, but I couldn't hit him right."

"Say, don't let anyone tell you that colored fellow can't fight. He is a holy terror and can hit some as well as box. Really, I never had a chance with him outside of landing a stray punch. He is one of the greatest defensive boxers the game has known and I am banking on him to take the measure of Jeffries."

"I have been accused of lending the gay life out in San Francisco and hurting my chance as a fighter. I have not been doing anything but dancing a great deal, as any young fellow will do, and you can believe me I have more than one good fight left in me and I think I can use one of them up on Tommy Burns and another on Billy Papke."

JAPANESE LEARN THINGS.

This Country's Wealth and Waste-fulness Astonish Foreigners.

The members of the Japanese commission who have been visiting the great cities of this country, were profoundly impressed by many things; among others, the great resources of the country, the wonderful manner in which they are utilized; the evidence of incalculable wealth, extraordinary use of machinery and splendid development. Another was the wastefulness of Americans as a class, in the home, as well as elsewhere. It was said that the waste of an American family would support two Japanese families in comfort; which is but a paraphrase of remarks made many times about the superior economy with which household affairs are conducted in the other countries, particularly in continental Europe.

This may be very true; but it is to be noted, also, that this peculiar wastefulness is not a racial trait. It is one of the habits of American life which the European adopts after he has been domiciled in this country long enough to become Americanized in other respects, and to grasp the American point of view.

The things of which Americans are economical and other countries are wasteful are time and physical exertion. The greater percentage of American waste is due to the refusal of Americans to waste time, especially the well-paid time of others whom they are paying. Raw material is often wasted, because, as a matter of dollars and cents, it is more economical to permit it to go to waste than it is to use high-priced labor to save it. As a minor, and, possibly, a pretty illustration, tion, an employer may figure that it is cheaper, when a highly paid mechanic drops a nail, for example, for him to let it lie, rather than to take his time to pick it up, when his time may be worth 75 cents an hour, or some such sum.

BEER, BEER, GLORIOUS BEER.

An American manufacturer will throw away perfectly good machinery, for which he has paid thousands, when better machinery comes in, which will do more work with a smaller labor cost. The American housewife will use the expensive cuts of meat because they can be cooked in a palatable manner at a fraction of the time and trouble that it would take to make an appetizing dish out of the cheaper cuts.

The American does not waste labor, whatever else he wastes; indeed, most of his other wastefulness is due to that one fact. Labor is rated at a higher rate here than anywhere else in the world in every conceivable way. A foreigner visiting the United States is always inclined to hold up his hands in horror at American wastefulness of material. On the other hand, when an American goes abroad, one thing which tends to arouse a feeling of irritation in him, especially if he has been in the industrial classes or if he is an employer of labor, is to witness the extraordinary waste of labor which passes unnoted in all countries save this.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.
