"I'm in good health. Why should I retire?" asks Senator Depew. But it isn't on account of his health they want him to retire.

Dr. W. F. James of Marysville, who announced himself as a candidate for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor, has withdrawn from the race. In a letter to the press, he gives as a reason for his withdrawal the fact that his candidacy would make three seventh district candidates for places on the state ticket. State Treasurer Albert Steyer being a candidate to succeed himself, and Judge Franz A. Kuhn of Mt. Clemens being a candidate to succeed himself as attorney general.

Announcement that Mr. Thomas Edison is in receipt of an income of $6,200 a week in royalties from the moving picture manufacturers brings to light the further interesting fact that he is making more than $2,000,000 a year from his interest in various patents and inventions. From this princely revenue he maintains a laboratory over in New Jersey which gives employment to at least 1,000 men. Mr. Edison was very fortunate in getting in with honest men during the early stages of his marvelous career—men who were willing to see him make money while they were making some for themselves out of his discoveries.

The eulogies of Chris Person the Duluth newspapers are printing these days make us real weary. Mr. Person would have people believe that he was entirely blameless in the recent wrestling fiasco in Calumet and that Letto and Letto's manager were alone to blame. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Person was a party to the "frame-up," a fact he admits. His intention not to abide by this agreement, but to double-cross Letto's manager, does not excuse Mr. Person's unfair tactics in securing a match with the copper country wrestler nor does it make a hero out of him. Here in Calumet he is criticized fully as much as is Dr. Brounava, who represented Letto in the negotiations, and local people find it very difficult to swallow that "hero talk" of his in Duluth.

It would seem even this early in the republican primary campaign for the nomination of governor that the contest has practically settled down to a choice between the present Lieutenant Governor Kelley and Chase R. Osborn, with the long odds in favor of Mr. Osborn. Mr. Osborn has gained much strength in the past few weeks by the frankness of his utterances and the outline of his position on state issues. Pat has been exceedingly busy at all the prominent gatherings where he has been heard, defending and approving the present state administration of which he is a part. Mr. Kelley seemingly desires to go to the primaries on the record of the past four years and if he is able to convince the republican voters of Michigan that the Warner regime has been highly satisfactory he should win. But we question even the ability of the genial Pat to persuade the voters of this state that they desire a continuation of existing affairs in state government.—Alma Journal.

At a conference of Michigan Republican leaders in Washington yesterday it was decided that Senator Burrows would be a candidate to succeed himself. Congressman Townsend will be his opponent and a lively campaign, one which will be over-shadowed only by the gubernatorial contest, may be expected.

Most people have been of the opinion all along that Burrows intended to run, but it seems there was considerable doubt of it previous to yesterday's contest of the "powers that be." The whole question it appears, hinged on the support of Senator Smith. The junior member was said to be lukewarm in his interest in Burrows' political affairs and it was common gossip that Burrows and his friends were ready to make certain concessions, among them the Marquette collectorship, if Senator Smith's aid could be enlisted. Now that it has been decided that Senator Burrows will remain in the race and abide by the wishes of the people at the September primaries are we to understand that choice political patronage has been surrendered to Senator Smith, and that Charles J. Byrne will be named collector of the port at Marquette?

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, who was John D. Rockefeller's pastor in Cleveland, gives anything but a complimentary picture of the imperial City of New York. Evidently he regards it as the lobster palace city described in Everybody's and he is repelled by its extravagance, its coarseness and its vulgar parade of wealth.

There is, however, another side to the life of the city that should make its critics pause before they enter upon a general indictment, and if the excesses of which complaint is made appear on a smaller scale in other places perhaps it is simply because they are smaller, comments the Record-Herald. The little city begins with an imitation lobster palace of which its inhabitants are duly proud. As it grows a more splendid establishment appears, and the greater the growth the more the palaces multiply and the more common become the celebrations therein. We might say that New Year's eve festivities with lobster and champagne accompaniments are by no means peculiar to New York.

But that city has the population, the visitors, the accumulation of money from all quarters that combine to make it the biggest show in the country, and naturally the massing of those elements in its life would repel a man like Dr. Eaton cannot be equalled elsewhere. It undoubtedly does give a large exhibition of the brutality of wealth and of disgusting devotion to the joys of the palaces.

For one who hates the show there are compensations, however, in noble religious and philanthropic movements. In the museums and libraries, the great institutions of learning, the magnificent buildings that stand as monuments to the city's progress, the opportunities of many kinds for self-culture and self-improvement.

Though the lobster palace sticks out like a sore thumb and is very offensive, it really falls very far short of being the sum total of what is meant by New York.

Mrs. Hetty Green, celebrated for years as the richest and shrewdest business woman in the world, will soon retire from active business life. It is understood and will turn over the handling of her immense fortune, estimated at $50,000,000 to her daughter Sylvia, now Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks.

For months it has been rumored that Mrs. Green's health is failing, and these rumors have been partially substantiated during the last few weeks by the irregularity of the aged woman's visits to her office in the Chemical National Bank, and her feeble appearance when she does materialize there.

Among the few persons in close touch with Mrs. Green it is understood that for years she has been quietly training her daughter to successfully manage her immense fortune, and that since her daughter's marriage to Mr. Wilks, with its accompanying possibilities of an heir, this training has been increased.

It is reported now that the transfer of the active control of Mrs. Green's millions to her daughter for management is only a question of a few weeks at most.

Hetty Green is 72 years old. Her age, coupled with her monotonous business routine, has begun to tell upon her. She no longer is able to put the snap and dash into the handling of her affairs that characterized her in the past, although her shrewdness, it is said, is as keen as ever. One of Mrs. Green's greatest disappointments in life, it is said, has been the non-inclination of her son, Edward H. R. Green, who lives in Texas, to become as famous as a financier as herself. At one time she put $20,000,000 into southwestern railroads for her son so that he might become a railroad magnate. The accumulation of wealth is not a fad with Edward H. R. Green, however, who is content to live well and carry on sufficient business at the same time to keep his mind occupied. Sylvia, the daughter, takes more after her mother, and it is on this account that the control of her mother's enormous fortune will soon be turned over to her.

The movement to observe the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day promises to become world-wide. On that day every man is asked to wear a white flower in his button-hole and to visit his mother if he can, or write her a letter send her a gift or do some act of kindness in her memory. The idea has "taken" and notably in the West. The street railway company and department stores of Lincoln, Neb., took up the idea and the Mayor of the city issued a proclamation. Lodges, orders and societies advocated the movement among their thousands of members. Pastors preached sermons on a mother's influence and on home training; in the Young Men's Christian Associations mass meetings were held, to which every man living in a boarding house or hotel was specially invited. Crowds attended. Some men endowed beds in hospitals under the influence of the day, others sent flowers to the sick and suffering. It was

AT THE THEATRES VICIOUS POLICE METHODS. Are Dealt With in "The Third Degree," Here Thursday. Confessed to the crime, which the innocent man had paid with his life. From a social and psychological point of view, "The Third Degree" commands close attention. It unfolds a romance of a poor and virtuous girl with the son of an old and well-to-do Knickerbocker family. The son of this family married the girl while he was a student at Yale, and was consequently disinherited by his proud and aristocratic father. A MERRY MUSICAL COMEDY. There are reasons why you should wear MUNSING UNDERWEAR. Because of the great variety of shapes, no trouble to get the exact shape you desire, which is so often found difficult in most other makes. Then too, fabrics are non-irritating and will wear longest, also launder best. It comes in the most delightful weights. Because the fabrics are in every popular style; consequently they are adopted to all occasions, all tastes, all sizes. Button-holes are nicely finished, buttons are sewn so securely as to defy destructive laundries. All bands are firmly adjusted and of fine material. Because no other underwear wears longer, washes better, fits and covers the form more perfectly or gives more real solid comfort and satisfaction. An examination will reveal the nicety of finish apparent in every detail, nothing being crude, unsightly or uncomfortable. And because prices are no higher than for inferior grades. Price range is 50c and up to $3.50 a garment.

divides honors with Teddy as far as comedy goes. The song hits are numerous: "A Lesson in Etiquette," "It is the Girl and Not the Horse that Wins," "Drop in on Me at Luncheon," "Darby and Jean," "Hail Celestial Potentate," "In My Riksha of Bamboo," "The Sun Shines in Dixie," and "Don't go in the Lion's Cage Tonight" are some of the principal numbers. The piece is staged and costumed with care and attention to detail and it is doubtful if a more pleasing production has visited the city in some time.
