CORNELL AND PENNSY OUT

Michigan Opponents Eliminated From Eastern Title

Boston, Oct. 24.—From the showing made this far it appears that the eastern football championship this year will be fought out between Yale, Princeton, Harvard and Dartmouth.

The army and navy have both been defeated and the Carlisle Indians were tied by Washington and Jefferson.

At least four of the minor teams—Swarthmore, Wesleyan, Pennsylvania State and Brown—stand out this year as quite strong and versatile enough to be considered in the same class with Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—The real test of the Princeton football team will come Saturday against Dartmouth.

Who Will Be Hero? During the last ten years there has been one player each season who has played so well that he has stood out more prominently than all his contemporaries in the great college sport.

During the past few years the gradiron team from coast to coast have read about Willie Heston, Tom Shevlin, Harold Weeks, John DeWitt, Walter Eckersall, Ted Coy, John Kilpatrick, Earl Sprackling and Sam White.

captained the Brown eleven, became famous through his ability to run a team well and to execute the forward pass. Sam White made a name for himself by defeating Yale and Harvard last year. Now the question arises who will be the hero of 1912?

Wendell of Harvard has an excellent chance to carry off the honor this year. Following is a list of stars of respective years:

- 1902—Harold Weeks, Columbia, half-back. 1903—Willie Heston, Michigan, half-back. 1904—John DeWitt, Princeton, guard. 1905—Tom Shevlin, Yale, end. 1906—Walter Eckersall, Chicago, quarterback. 1907—Sam White, Princeton, end. 1908—Ted Coy, Yale, full-back. 1909—John Kilpatrick, Yale, end. 1910—Earl Sprackling Brown, quarterback. 1911—Sam White, Princeton, end. 1912—?

ONCE "MYSTERIOUS MURRAY"

Bedient Under an Alias—Helped Buffalo Semi-Pro Nine.

Much money was won and lost this year as a result of the great ball pitched by Hugh Bedient in the world's series. Many thought the "kid" could never deliver, but he did, and the skeptics have another guess coming—perhaps along about world's series time a year hence.

There is another group of fans, however, whose spare change shifted from pocket to pocket as far back as 1905—and this same Bedient was the cause, although the bettors did not know it, and perhaps are still in the dark.

About every second or third game which meant almost every Saturday during the long summer, when the Dry Dock's most important games were played, a pitcher from "out of town," who came to be known as "The Mysterious Murray," would walk on the field in a Dry Dock suit, warm up pitch—and win—his game, and slip away. None knew his identity.

DETROIT GIRL CHAMPION ATHLETE AT WELLESLEY.

Boston, Oct. 24.—The best athlete in the three upper classes at Wellesley college were named this morning and the list includes one Detroit girl, Miss Charlotte Henze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Henze, of 269 Field avenue.

The girls named are those who have qualified in preliminary contests for the honor of competing for the college athletic championship which will be held Nov. 2 under the direction of the undergraduate athletic association.

Miss Henze made her hit with hockey and is a member of the senior class. The events of the championship tourney will be hockey, tennis, running, racing, archery and golf, and only those directly connected with the college will be permitted to witness the sports.

"BILLY" PAPKE VICTOR.

French Champion Quits in the Seventeenth Round.

Paris, Oct. 24.—Billy Papke, the middleweight fighter of Illinois, last night defeated the French champion, George Carpentier. The Frenchman quit after the seventeenth round.

$2,100 FOR RED SOX MASCOT

Jerry McCarthy Is Presented With Purse by Admirers

Boston, Oct. 24.—After the season of 1912 Jerry McCarthy, the Red Sox mascot, will ask for his unconditional release from the Red Sox club.

However, Jerry does not intend that the mascot job shall pass out of the family of McCarthy. Jerry has a younger brother, Nellie, who is the leading candidate for the job, and if Jerry's recommendation counts for anything the younger McCarthy will hold down the position in 1914.

Nellie, the 9-year-old brother, is not like Jerry. He prefers to be alone, and when he is in company with boys of his own age he is generally mixed up in some prank. He is keen after the position, as are about 2,000 or more boys around Boston, but when Jerry is ready to drop the Red Sox uniform for good he will find his brother in line to do it for baseball duty.

The job of mascot has been a most profitable one for Jerry this past season. A month ago he was engaged to sing at two theaters, where he earned a nice sum of money. The players did not forget the little fellow when they were handed their checks for the world's series money. It is said that each of the twenty-two players who figured in the receipts of the big series contributed $50, which brought the total to $1,100. In addition to this sum a Red Sox official made a present to Jerry of $1,000. All this money was placed in the bank and Jerry will come into it when he has reached his 21st birthday. Jerry also received as a present from the players two fine suits of clothes.

Jerry Takes Up the Manly Art.

The mascot has another present of which he is proud. He sang a song at the Pilgrim A. A. the night of the Baldwin-O'Keefe bout, and after the show he was given a set of boxing gloves by the club. Little Jerry is now taking lessons from Billy Lewis, the crack little 165-pound amateur boxer, who says the mascot should make a great boxer some day.

MCGRAW TO DEVELOP A NEW SQUAD OF PITCHERS

Manager McCraw of the Giants realizes that he must have a better pitching staff in 1912, and will take a big squad of boxmen South with him next spring. His new men include Goulet, Kirby, Perryman, Hanley, Fader and Dennerre, and from those and his veterans he will endeavor to get together an adequate staff.

Regarding the outfield situation, where more strength is needed, McCraw has hopes of Burns, who has been on the bench a season and a half, and who is likely to find a regular berth next year.

It is McCraw's custom to keep youngsters on the bench one or two seasons, let them absorb knowledge and make, when he thinks they are ripe, major regulars of them. Robertson is another outfield prospect. He was secured as a pitcher, but gives promise of being a hitter.

With Groh, Shafer and Hartley in reserve, the infield and catching departments are well provided for in the way of future material.

Topeka is experiencing a building boom.

KICKS ON PAYING LEAGUE

Brush's Refusal Will Lead to a Merry Row.

New York, Oct. 24.—An unexpected sequel to the world's series and the meeting of the National league managers here developed when it was learned that John T. Brush, owner of the Giants, is talking on paying 25 per cent of his club's share in the series receipts to the National league.

Brush's share is $147,028.55, and he objects strenuously to handing over $36,757.21 to the league.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—Barney Dreyfuss is angry over the refusal of John T. Brush to turn over to the National league 25 per cent of the New York club's receipts from the world's series games.

Brush contends the resolution adopted at the meeting of club owners last winter was passed illegally.

MILLER SHOWS SKILL

He Gave Adamson No Rest in Their Recent Match.

During the first thirty minutes of the battle, and battle it truly was, there was little to choose between the two men. Adamson's speed is the deciding kind, yet he escaped the leads of Miller and warily refused to be foisted into any opening.
