TWO STABBED; ONE HIT ON HEAD

Affray Occurs On Sreets Hancock Late Saturday Night

Two men are undergoing treatment, and another is in the county jail, as a result of an alleged stabbing affair in Hancock late Saturday night. John Clarke and William Hosking are the two most seriously hurt, while Lauri Mustonen is in jail with a bandaged head, having been hit with a neck yoke, it is said.

The details are still somewhat meager and the stories told by the principals and witnesses are somewhat confused and contradictory. It is said, however, that Mustonen, Matti Kukkonen, Victor Maria and John Huntari and other men were in the Assembly hall, a place conducted by Ralph Clatsari.

Hosking and Clarke were standing near and Hosking is reported volunteered an offensive remark, Mustonen and his friends were displeased and it is said Clarke and Mustonen clashed. They were separated and Mustonen and his companions went out, while Hosking and Clarke were kept inside for a time and then let out through the Assembly cafe, conducted in connection with the buffet.

As Clarke and Hosking were standing on the corner, the men who had taken offense at Hosking's remark passed, going east, Clarke and Hosking, it is stated, followed them, trying to get them to stop and fight. When opposite the Scott hotel, Mustonen drew a knife, according to the story, with the hope that the sight of the weapon would frighten the men out of their desire to fight. The display of the knife had an exactly opposite effect, according to the witnesses, Hosking and Clarke jumping on Mustonen, in the scuffle it seems both Clarke and Hosking received an additional wound on the leg. Mustonen turned and ran and was chased by someone as yet unidentified, who hit him over the head with a neck yoke when near O'Neill's barn on Tezucos street.

Officer Naaska was near the scene and he arrested Mustonen and procured Dr. Dodge for the two wounded men.

Mustonen was arraigned this morning and will have his examination on Dec. 20. He is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

LINDER WILL NOT GO.

Hancock Hockey Star Will Remain in Copper Country.

The tempting Duluth offer recently made to Joe Linder, the Hancock hockey star, will not be accepted, according to Mr. Linder, who does not desire to make his home at the head of the lakes.

Just what offer was made to him the Hancock man refused to say, but it is understood to have been most attractive. Linder's action in refusing the offer has come as a surprise to many of his friends. Hancock and Houghton friends of the great point are hoping that he will consent to get into the game this season, playing with the Portage Lakes. Hogan at cover point, Linder at point and Carlos Haug in the net would make a defense comparable to Holden, Taylor and Regan, the three professionals who stopped everything neat at them when Houghton had its last taste of professional hockey.

PLAYERS TO FORM CLUB.

Hancock Elks Plan to Have Dramatic Organization.

The members of the Hancock Elks who took part in the recent production of "Because She Loved Him So," will meet this evening at the Elks' Temple for the purpose of forming a permanent dramatic club. The Hancock Elks have been in the habit of putting on a number of plays each year but have never had a permanent organization to assist in the production.

Members of the recent company are strongly in favor of turning the troupe into such a club and the movement likely will have a good measure of support when it comes up for discussion.

FIRE TEAM IS SOLD.

City Disposes of Unbroken Team—New One to be Secured.

The city officials have secured a purchaser for the black team that on trial proved to be unsuited to the uses of the city fire department. Nissala and Makela being the purchasers. This team, while a magnificent one for ordinary uses, and one of the finest appearing teams ever brought to the copper country, proved too nervous and excitable for ordinary fire uses and when sent to a fire would often become unmanageable.

The council at its last meeting voted to send Nicholas Minzgor after another team and he left Saturday night on his mission. The only effect of selling the team will be to leave the city somewhat short of horses for the time being. Mr. Stockly stated that selling two teams in such a short time would somewhat disarrange the collection of ashes and garbage and would make it necessary to suspend this work for a few days. Other arrangements will be made inside of a day or two whereby this work can be resumed, however.

CHURCH ERECTED AT COST $80,000

Lake Linden's New Catholic Edifice Is Dedicated

The new St. Joseph's church, Lake Linden, was solemnly dedicated yesterday morning by Rt. Rev. Frederick Els, bishop of Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette, assisted by a number of the leading priests of a large congregation. The ceremonies were long and imposing.

Following the consecration of the church by the bishop, a solemn pontifical high mass was celebrated by Monsignor Joseph Pinton of Marquette, with Rev. Henry Buchholz of Negaunee and Rev. Father Willbrod, O. F. M., of Calumet as deacon and sub-deacon. Fathers Glazer of Hancock and Richter of Atlantic as assistants to the bishop and Rev. Father Rele of Lake Linden as master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. F. X. Barth of Escanaba.

Last night the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was conducted by Rev. Father Buchholz assisted by a majority of the copper country priests. Rev. Father Barth preached the sermon on this occasion in French, the language of St. Joseph's congregation. Monsignor Pinton blessed the new stations of the cross, the donation of Joseph Bosch of Lake Linden.

The new St. Joseph's church is an imposing edifice of Portage Entry sandstone, erected at a cost of $80,000, its erection extending over a period of ten years intermittently. The pastor of the church, Rev. N. J. Raymond, started the final construction work last May. The principal decorative feature is a beautiful white marble main altar, presented by St. Anne's society, which altar was erected at a cost of $4,000.

TO WINTER IN MIAMI.

Col. Bryan and Wife Like Climate of Florida City.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 8.—With the second Regimental band playing "Dixie," the national air of the southland, and amid flying colors and the plaudits of the populace, Honorable William Jennings Bryan, premier statesman of the nation, and Mrs. Bryan to whose untiring efforts more than those of any other, her husband has risen to that pinnacle of fame which is now accorded this city, arrived in Miami to make this their future home, thereby becoming Florida's most distinguished citizen and conferring upon the city of Miami and the state of Florida an honor which could not be equalled by the arrival of any other American citizens with the intent of making this their home.

Some little time before the train pulled in, the station grounds were thronged with a vast concourse of people estimated at being close to 1,000. When the whistle was heard the band struck up and as the train backed into the station there arose one mighty cheer of welcome to the Commoner and Mrs. Bryan, Mr. Bryan acknowledged the cheers of the people with a smiling nod, shaking hands with several who pushed their way forward.

Judge Worley Delivers the Keys.

The crowd was so dense that several minutes elapsed before the members of the reception committee could elbow their way to the distinguished arrivals, but with Judge George A. Worley interposing himself between Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and the struggling crowd, they were finally escorted to the automobile of Mr. H. G. Ralston, which had been profusely decorated with the national colors. The original plan was to have all the speaking at the residence, but as it was quite evident that the people at the train expected Mr. Bryan to make a few remarks, Judge Worley arose and in a brief address welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Bryan to the city.

Judge Worley closed his remarks by introducing Mr. Bryan who spoke briefly, in part as follows: "We certainly appreciate the cordiality of this reception, and we are glad to be here as you are to have us here—possibly more so."

"We haven't needed to come south this year as much as after most presidential campaigns, as it generally snows up north and the democrats find it so cold that they seek a warmer climate. But this year all climates are congenial."

"I have tested this country as far as my eyes have been able to do, and have found it good. We are here to test it for a winter, and if it suits us as well as we expect it will we will come every winter. There are all kinds of climates for all kinds of people and we are going to find out if this is the kind of climate for us."

DISCOVERY OF MOHAWKITE MAY PROVE ANOTHER SOURCE OF REVENUE FOR THE AHMEEK MINING CO.

Ore Lies in Two Fissure Veins and Test Shipment to Dollar Bay Plant Will Be Made—Sheet of Practically Solid Copper Is Being Developed Contiguous to No. 2 Shaft—News of Other Copper Properties by Minnear

We understand that a sheet of practically solid copper is being developed at this property in territory contiguous to No. 2 shaft. This sheet of copper is in a fissure vein and has been partially proven up on the 10th and 12th levels, and drifted on for a distance of over 100 feet. It shows an average width of 12 inches. Assuming that it continues of an average width of 12 inches from the 10th to the 12th levels with a length of 100 feet, this sheet of solid copper means practically 5000 tons. Allowing for a cost of nine cents to get this out, the net returns to the company would be in round numbers $17 per share on the 50,000 shares outstanding.

It is usually found that any rich fissure such as this will rob the main lodes of their value, but in this particular instance it is the contrary, as the ground being taken from the main vein, the Kearsarge lode, holds up its average mineral content.

Another contemplated source of revenue to the company is from the two fissure veins traversing the property that contain Mohawkite. Arrangements are being made at the plant of the Lake Superior Smelting and Refining Company at Dollar Bay to handle a test shipment of a carload of this Mohawkite. If this test proves satisfactory, further shipments will be made as considerable of this mineral is on surface as well as stored underground. It is a highly arsenical ore and hence requires special treatment. Heretofore, it has been handled at a smelter in New Jersey which was constructed especially for this ore. The freight cost made it prohibitive to ship this distance, though Mohawk, the company from which this ore is named, received $118,990 from the sale of its Mohawkite taken from a fissure on their own property.

The announcement of a $7 quarterly dividend, payable January 10th to stock of record December 21st, is the sixth dividend declared by this company, each disbursement being one dollar greater than the previous one and making a total of $22 paid this year. This is an enviable record, and it would further indicate the confidence of the management in the property as well as the metal market.

The production for the year 1912 will be about 18,000,000 pounds of refined copper, which, it is estimated, will have been produced at a cost of less than 3c including construction. The construction account for the year is a potent factor and is expected to be about 1 1/2 cents of the total cost.

At the present time, No. 3 and No. 4 shafts are receiving their surface equipment and when in commission their capacity will be 50% greater than No. 1 and No. 2 shafts as 7 1/2 ton, actual capacity, skips will be used as compared with the present 5 ton skips at the other shafts. While the construction costs this year look rather large, they will probably be exceeded next year as plans for increased milling facilities have, we understand, been decided upon as well as paying for the balance of the equipment at No. 3 and No. 4 shafts.

HANCOCK CONSOLIDATED.

In a crosscut on the 18th level of No. 1 shaft, Hancock cut a very good looking argandite lode about a month ago. The showing at the point where crosscutting warranted further development and a drift was run to the south, which has been extended over 100 feet, and which has been in very good copper ground all the way. The drifting north was started this week. It is an argandite lode vein and is 8 to 10 feet wide and lies between No. 3 and No. 4 veins. No. 3 vein lies about 350 feet west of No. 1 shaft, and No. 4 vein a like distance to the east of the shaft. This new vein was picked up in crosscutting from the point where the vein was put down in No. 3 vein, and the crosscut will be continued to No. 4 vein as originally planned. Indications are that this new strike will add greatly to the assets of the property.

The work of cutting stations at No. 2 shaft will be pushed as vigorously as possible, and undoubtedly everyting will be ready early in the spring to fetch rock to one head at the Allouez-Centennial mill as has been arranged for.

The management has been successful in working out a scheme to allow for the setting of stations and crosscutting on the levels above at the same time. This will greatly shorten the time of opening up the hole and getting ready for production. No. 2 shaft is bottomed at a depth of 999 feet. In No. 2 shaft, the Pessabio lode which was the objective point encountered at a depth of 3,520 feet.
