MARINE SAFETY WON'T RE-STOCK IS PROVIDED FOR PILGRIM RIVER

Vessel Owners on Lakes Exceed J. C. Mann Does Not Believe Conditions Warrant Plan

Tomorrow it will be a year since the steamer Timucua, at that time the largest vessel in the world, was lost on the Atlantic ocean with 1,000 souls. As a result of the loss many changes have been made in the rules pertaining to lake going vessels. The revised rule that had the most effect on vessel owners of the great lakes is that pertaining to fire-extinguishing equipment. As a result of the change in this law, which change is rightly opposed by the inspecting officers acting on the great lakes has come from 50 to 100 percent more lifeboats and lifebelts than they did at this time last year. At this date last year the life-saving equipment of passenger steamers was regulated by tonnage.

In this way a number of large tonnage vessels required to carry more life-saving equipment than a smaller steamer of the same class. The revised rules say that a passenger vessel operating on the lakes, boat or sounds, must be provided with lifeboats of sufficient capacity to accommodate at one time all persons on board, including passengers and crew. This rule applies to all steamers carrying passengers between Sept. 15 and May 15. Passenger steamers navigating a lake or sound during the period between May 15 and Sept. 15 in any one year is required to carry lifebelts of sufficient capacity to carry at least 50 per cent of all persons on board, including passengers and crew.

As an example, previous to the change in the laws governing lake-going equipment of passenger steamers, the Eastern States carried only lifeboats and lifebelts which had a total capacity for 20 persons while the boats were certified to carry 25 passengers. Since the change, the capacity of the lifeboats and lifebelts in the eastern states has been increased to 100 percent and is greater.

This law however does not affect passenger steamers operating on both lakes at all points within a distance of five miles from banks of over water where the depth is not sufficient to negotiate a passage in case of disaster. Steamers operating on such routes are required to carry lifebelts of sufficient capacity to accommodate all persons on board, including passengers and crew.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS TO BE HELD HERE TOMORROW

FARM BUREAU AND SUPERVISORS WILL HOLD SESSIONS IN HOUGHTON.

Two very important meetings will be held in Houghton tomorrow, one being the meeting of the directors of the Houghton county farm bureau and the other the regular monthly meeting of the county board of supervisors.

The meeting of the farm bureau directors will be the first regular held since the organization of the bureau. The most important business of the meeting probably will be the announcement of the appointment of the county farm expert, the engaging of whom was the chief object of the organization.

The county has now about 16 members. The county has appropriated $1,200. Laird and Chassell combine have voted to aid the bureau and the other townships have for the most part agreed to aid in the work. Others have agreed to put up the money if the county, township and federal aid is not enough. This is a contingent affair.

Meeting of the Supervisors.

The Houghton county board of supervisors will meet tomorrow morning. An attempt was made to call a special meeting a week ago but this would have been illegal and so the meeting tomorrow will have to discuss whatever would have come before the special meeting.

Just what business prompted the attempt to call the extra session is not known but it was probably something of considerable importance. The bonds of the incoming treasurer, Andrew Brant, likely will be approved and it is probable at this time communicate to the board the name of his deputy.

Four new supervisors will be seated at this meeting, these being Andrew Jeannette, Durbin, who takes Dr. Carl E. Moore's place; Gus Hartman, Portage, who succeeds J. T. McNamara and C. S. Mason and John Parkey Sr. who will represent the second and third wards of the city of Hancock in place of Mr. Matthee and Fred Pennington, neither of whom again ran for the office.

Houghton Council Meeting.

The Houghton village council is meeting this afternoon in a statutory session to consider the liquor license question. This meeting is also expected to take up the village appointments but as President Hawley is still in Europe it is doubtful if this will be done. The village appointments are not numerous and there has not been shown a disposition to make any changes so that it is likely that the council will pass on this question until a later meeting.

FORM CONCERT TRIO.

Campbell-Jackson-Haire Trio To Give Entertainment Through County.

Miss Alice B. Campbell, soprano; Mrs. Blanche Jackson, violinist, and Miss Linda Haire, pianist, three of the best known musicians in the county, have joined together for the purpose of giving the copper country a series of high-class concerts during the coming months, the first being announced for the Grace M. E. church under the auspices of the Knights League on the evening of May 6. YANTIC IN BIG NAVAL REVIEW CITY COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Annual Maneuvers in Connection With Perry Centennial

Will Consider Liquor Licenses at First Meeting

The new Hancock city council will hold a statutory meeting tonight to consider applications for liquor licenses and other special business.

The session of the council to consider the putting into effect of some of the reforms promised, will not be held until Wednesday evening. The old council had complete charge of things until Sunday and the statutory meeting is tonight there was no chance for the administration to try to put these reforms into effect until tomorrow night at least, but as there will be a regular meeting Wednesday evening will be deferred until then.

The importance of the meeting tonight is augmented by the fact that the saloonists have been considering asking the council to reduce the fee from $750 to $500 and that lately they have been circulating a petition to this effect.

Mayor of Wilson Type.

No one who was at all acquainted with Mayor Ojala before election had any suspicion that they were electing a man of the Woodrow Wilson type to office when they elected the head of the United City party ticket. So it seems, however, as all who have approached the mayor with a view of getting advance information of his appointments have been disappointed as a radical change has been made in the administration of the city, it is only fair to expect some changes in the personnel of the city government.

On only one point is he at all certain. The office of general manager must be abolished in accordance with the promise in the parties platform but just what substitute will be offered is still unannounced. The plan of having the street commissioner's powers extended so that he can handle this work has been suggested and has met with serious consideration. This plan was endorsed by the Progressives before election but it also was mentioned by the now dominant party in its campaign.

The most important appointment in the power of the mayor to bestow is that of chief of police. This position is now held by Chief Blodgett and many of the members of the United City party favor his retention in office in spite of his sympathy with the other side. There have been but two other names mentioned by the party.

Following the ceremony a reception breakfast and dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Longpre.

The bride was dressed in brown serge, carrying a bouquet of white and pink carnations and was attended by Miss Ethel Moimaini who wore brown serge and carried white and pink roses. Louis Longpre, brother of the groom acted as best man. Rev. Mr. Frost officiated.
