LOW RATES TO VALLEY

Commerce Commission Renders Sweeping Decision in Favor of Pecos Valley Towns

Special to Daily Panhandle.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The shippers of the Panhandle of Texas and of the Pecos valley of New Mexico have won one of the most sweeping victories in the history of the interstate commerce commission after a protracted hearing, the members deciding that the Santa Fe, as the principal defendant and key to the rate situation, had bottled up the Pecos valley and was retarding its development by out of sight as exorbitant a system of freight rates as the commission has had to deal with in many a day.

Wholesale Reduction.
As a result a sweeping order has been entered by the commission requiring wholesale reduction in the rates on almost every commodity required by human being to sustain life and to promote the welfare of communities and to forward progress. Not in recent years, at any rate, has the board found such a wholesale policy of taxing the traffic all that it will bear, and the case is declared to be a shining example of what a community may expect when dependent on one railroad, unless federal authorities interfere.

The entire valley interests combined in making the appeal, the complaints before the commission being the Roswell Commercial club, Carlsbad Commercial club, Artesia Commercial club, the Merchants' Association of Hagerman and the Chaves County Wool Growers' association.

The commission held in general that "the present class rates from Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo.; Galveston and Denver to said points in New Mexico, viz., Roswell, Carlsbad, Hagerman and Artesia, are unjust and unreasonable, and that commodity rates on grain and grain products from points in Kansas and Oklahoma and on lumber from points in Texas and Louisiana, on salt in sacks from Hutchinson, Kan., to said points in New Mexico; on apples, alfalfa and alfalfa meal from said points in New Mexico to Fort Worth, Texas, are excessive, and reductions are ordered."

Warning to the Santa Fe.
The commission, however, also feels that the Santa Fe is entitled to confine the movement of coal to this valley to its own lines if it chooses to make reasonable rates. Accordingly, no order is made in the matter, but if the Santa Fe does not grant relief the commission assures the people of the valley that it will consider the advisability of ordering a joint freight rate on coal from the Walsenburg district to the points in question.

In connection with the Pecos valley case, the commission makes the following significant statement regarding the freight rates to what are known as the Texas common points, which were quoted by the roads in justification of the valley rates:

"We do not, however, regard the Texas common point rates under which most of the tonnage into the state of Texas moves low. On the contrary, they are distinctly high. They are higher today than they were when the act to regulate commerce took effect, twenty years ago, and when the tonnage of lines leading into Texas was probably in most cases, if not in all less than that of the lines serving Roswell and the other complaining towns today."

Texas Commercial Congress
Special to Daily Panhandle.
Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 27.—The Texas Commercial Congress, composed of delegates representing all the commercial bodies of the state met here this morning in annual session. President J. A. Arnold, of Beaumont, delivered his annual address at the opening session. The program this afternoon provided an extensive discussion on the best methods of advertising the resources of Texas by means of newspaper and magazine advertising and pamphlets. These matters to be considered by the convention include immigration, good roads, industrial legislation, the anti-pass law and transportation facilities and rates. The meeting will extend through tomorrow.

Ad Writers in Session.
Special to Daily Panhandle.
Cincinnati, Aug. 27.—Several hundred of the leading advertising managers and agents of the country, who control the expenditure of millions of dollars used annually in promoting publicity, are in attendance at the third annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The sessions began today and will extend through four days. Addresses will be made by many advertising authorities and publishers. The Advertisers' Club of Cincinnati will entertain the delegates in a lavish manner during their stay. Louisville is a prominent candidate for the next year's convention.

New England Picture Takers.
Boston, Aug. 27.—An unsurpassed exhibition of the photographic work of some of the leading artists of the country is a feature of the New England Photographer's convention, which opened in the Mechanics' build three days. A national gold medal was awarded for the best portrait exhibited.

Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except that chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by L. O. Thompson & Co.

NAMES FOR BIG GUNS.

Two Significant Ones That Were Selected and Rejected.

At the Fort Pitt foundry, Fort Pitt, Pa., were cast in 1867 for the monitor Puritan two twenty-inch guns, which Captain W. C. Wise, then chief of the naval bureau of ordnance, proposed to call Satan and Lucifer. This proposition called forth a protest from the pastor of a Presbyterian church at Pittsburgh, who characterized it as "most unseemly, if not impious." His letter was referred by the member of congress to whom it was addressed to the department and finally came into the hands of Captain Wise for reply. In answer he called attention to the foreign custom of giving to vessels such names as Jupiter, Juno, Vulcan, Venus, Juggernaut, Inferno and Lucifer and Satan to convey an idea of the power of the destructive agent used in battle. These guns, argued the learned captain, were not intended for peace and the utterance of good will toward men, but to inflict as much mischief and destruction on human beings in time of war as their namesake, the devil, tries to do at all times. He further reminded his clerical critic that a number of clergymen had witnessed without protest his act of "christening" in presence of a large assembly of ladies and gentlemen the first twenty inch gun cast for the navy at Beelzebub. However, the argument did not prevail, for religious sentiment was effective in preventing this use of Biblical nomenclature.—Army and Navy Journal.

TOUGHS OF PARIS.

They Are Known as "Apaches" and Work in Gangs.

Les Apaches.
They work in gangs. In the underworld their associations are complete and distinct. Fame has come to them—to the gang of Robert of Montparnasse, of Georges of the Courtille, the Green Cravats, the Costardes of the Villette, the Mont-en-lair of the Battignolles. Against these bands the police war is vain. They wage their battles in open day—for some "moments" that Robert has stolen from Georges. A hand comes down from the heights of Belleville or of Charonne and rabs a peaceful quarter—a home going cab is surrounded, the passenger stabbed through the window and robbed. They prey on the public. Band wars upon band. There are nightly duels on the fortifications or under the bridges—when the Beau Totor meets Polignac d'Acier, knife to knife, in a savage and not unloyal way. Young all, from sixteen to twenty-two, rarely older. Where do they come from? Everywhere. They grow on the pavements of Paris, along the gutters—foundlings or deserted children, sons perhaps of that laboring class which is on the edge of crime and beggary. The life of the Apache is short, but for every one sent to the jail or the guillotine two stand ready at the door of the slums. They used to haunt the den of the Pere Luette.—From "The Slums of Paris," by Vance Thompson, in Outing Magazine.

Nurses and Cancer.
"I find the trained nurses brave enough in most cases of contagious disease," said a Brooklyn doctor, "but there is one thing at which they balk." "What's that," asked a friend—"smallpox?" "No, cancer. They have all the untrained woman's horror of that disease. The most faithful of them will go without an engagement for weeks rather than take a cancer case. Yet the peril is slight compared with what they face almost without thought." "Isn't it contagious?" "A malignant case is if a scratched hand is brought into contact with the cancer. These cancers out of four, however, are not malignant and can be dressed without gloves safely. The trained nurses balk at all of them."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Substitute.
"Anna, you wished to buy a dictionary?" "I have married a professor instead."—Meggendorfer Matter.

A Fresh Clerk.
Customer—What have you got that is strictly fresh?
Clerk—One moment, please. Here, please, wait on the lady.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
