OLD NEWSPAPER MAN IS FOUND AMONG THE DELEGATES AT THE FARMERS CONVENTION HERE

W. D. Lewis, of Coryell County, one of the oldest exponents of the Farmers' Union doctrine, is here this week in attendance upon the State Farmers' Union Convention, and aside from being a practical farmer he is also a newspaper man of considerable experience. He stated to an Avalanche representative that he, for a number of years published a newspaper and run a farm both at the same time. Different from the usual way of doing this, he did not live in the city and go out to the farm in his automobile and see after things out there, as is the style now, but he lived on the farm several miles out from town, looking after the affairs of the farm, and then drove to town and got out his paper. This was his experience in the newspaper business, and while he has been out of that work for many years, he still has the greatest sympathy possibly for the newspaper folks, and can have an idea about what they have to contend with, and the difficulties they often encounter in the publication of newspapers.

He is one of the oldest members of the Farmers' Union in the State and is still very active. He was made chairman of the committee on crop reports, by President Lyday, because of his wide experience in the Farmers' Union work, and his familiarity with the crop conditions and the general run of the Farmers' Union work.
