Took Strychnine By Mistake. W. J. Whatley, a citizen of Alvin, Brazoria county, swallowed a large dose of stryclinine by mistake recently. His wife had dissolved some strychnine to poison minks, and left it in a tin vessel. Mr. Whatley came in from work tired and thirsty, and drank from the same vessel. A doctor was immediately summoned and soon had him out of danger.

No Rain Since the Middle of June.

The dry weather in Bell county con-tinues. No rain since the middle of June to make anything like a season. The grass is all eaten up and the stock is yet poor and in bad condition to pull through the approaching winter. Many farmers have sold their cotton seed at a high figure and will let the good old family cow suffer this winter for the want of the cotton seed.

Fire at the Dallas Fair Grounds.

There was no little excitement in the machinery hall at the grounds of the Dallas fair early Wednesday afternoon, caused by a fire breaking out in the exhibit of the Engle cotton gin company. The fire department was promptly on hand and the blaze extinguished before much damage had been done by the use of the patent extinguishers from the exhibit adjoining Burglarized a Puttman Siceper. On Thursday night last the Pullman sleeper on the Texas and Pacific west bound train, which reached Dallas at 7.30, was raided by thieves. They took a value belonging to J. T. Dargan of Dallas, which contained $16,000 of ne-gotiable papers. Other passengers lost their clothing and tollets. Superintendent Judge at Fort Worth was notitified and is at work on the case.

Fires from passing trains have caused a large amount of damage to farmers in the vicinity of Spring, burning all the grass, and in many instances the crops, fencing and other property. The loss will reach into the thousands. On Monday a train passed through Spring with a car of burning cotton. Efforts made to save it did not succeed, and it was left at Aldine where it was soon consumed

Picked tp In An Unconscious Condition. A young man named Webb, who had been cutting cotton at High, was found near the railroad track in Brookston a ago in an unconscious condition and badly bruised about the face and head. He was taken to a hotel and restored to consciousness, but could give no definite account of the accident, but claimed that he had been knocked from the train and robbed of considerable money. A few dollars were still on his person. It is supposed he undertook to jump from a freight train and fell.

Held Up By Loot Pads.

Late in the evening a few days ago while on their way home from Shiner. John Mulleker and W. Hagendorf were held up by four men and robbed. Mr. Mulleker lost $145 and Mr. Hagendorf 70 cents, all he had in his possession. The robbers, who are supposed to be negroes, as they were black or had their faces blackened approached the two men and asked for whisky, when all at once they drew pistols and told them to hold up their hands. Mr. Mulleker called for help, but one of the robbers choked him into silence. The money stolen consisted of a $100 bank note, issued by a bank at West Point, Va., name and number of bank not remembered, and $45 in small bills. The robbery was most daring, as it took place inside of two miles from town in a lane. No trace of the robbers yet.

Would be cheap, provided the goods were well bought stylish and fresh, but when goods are really sold at tost our experience is it invariably means one of two things; either they are old styles and shop worn, or it is simply an honest confession on the part of the merchant or merchants that they paid too much for their goods, and can at a profit meet the prices of wide awake keen buyers
