TEXAS GERMAN AND ENGLISH ACADEMY.

A Day and Boarding School for Boys and Young Men. J. H. Bishop, A. M., principal, successor to Jacob Bickler. General plans of school unchanged.

To My Friends and Patrons:

I take pleasure in introducing to you Prof. J. H. Bishop, who intends continuing the Texas German and English academy. He comes highly recommended as an experienced teacher, gentleman and scholar, and he will no doubt prove worthy in every respect of your confidence and patronage.

Sam Johnson's "At Home." Sam Johnson, an Austin colored man, who keeps the sheriff busy hunting him up, is once more an inmate of the Travis county bastille. Jim Webster, a chum of the accused, called at the jail to console his friend.

Brokers in the Household. She—How's the chocolate this morning, dear? He (absent minded)—It'm; crude cocoa is quoted at 17 1/2; quarter of a point of yesterday's list.—Tid Bits.

Quite a Crooked Log, Indeed. We hear that Luman Woodward's log for the old settler's cabin is quite a marvel in its way. H. Crossley says he stretched a tape line along it from end to end. There is a sag or curvature of the spine in the middle that makes a divergence of six feet two inches from a straight line.

Philadelphia Regularity. Indignant Citizen—Sir, I wish to call your attention to the fact that the street in front of my house has been torn up three times since May 1. It's perfectly disgraceful.

Another Veteran's Experience. "Were you in the army?" "Yes." "Were you in a battle?" "No." "You never smelled powder, then?" "You bet I smelled powder! Why, I used to spark your sister every Sunday night, and my shoulder was covered with powder on Monday morning. Smelled powder? Ah! didn't I? It smelled good, too."—Newman Independent.

Letting in Light on Merit. "Your daughter writes the most beautiful letters I ever read," said Merritt, trying to make himself solid with the old lady.

What a Railway Conductor Has Observed. A railway conductor combats the cruel hallucination that the coming generation of his countrymen will be puny, sickly and played out.

Go Off Cheap, Too. A junior member of the wealthy Rothschild family, who had heard about the price of land out west, visited this country some years ago.

A Stupid Clerk. Dealer to clerk—What did that young lady want, James? Clerk—She asked for anatomical Brussels carpets, and I told her we hadn't such a thing.

Bare Forbearance. "They say that Tom Hartworth is very sick." "Is that so? I'm sorry to hear that. I always liked Tom. When I was troubled with dyspepsia, several years ago, he was the only one among my acquaintances who didn't tell me just what would cure me."—Boston Transcript.

Done Before His Time. "And now," concluded the clergyman, after a long discourse, "we have seen that millions on millions of people have been benefited by following this Scriptural injunction." Just then Lawyer Stubbs woke up long enough to say in a sleepy manner, "Move that the injunction be made permanent."—Judge.

The Best Place to Stem. Enthusiastic Daughter—Oh, the bathing at Atlantic City is splendid just now. How I would like to breast the wild waves! How I could stem the currents.—

Spelling Reform Is Necessary. "I am troubled with phlegm." Said a speaker pro tem. "And you greet my remarks with loud laughter." "Because I've a cough. And you make me a cough? But I'll have my revenge sure, hereafter!"

Faith Cure Fairly Beaten.

Chaplain Hall Writes the Following Remarkable Letter.

From the Albany, N. Y., Express. For many years my wife had been the victim of nervous dyspepsia, of the chronic, distressing and apparently incurable type from which so many of her sex suffer, languish and die. It was all the worse because the tendency to it was inherited. She had been under the systematic treatment of many of the best physicians in New York and Brooklyn and elsewhere for twenty years with only temporary relief.

Intermittent malarial fever set in, complicating the case and making every symptom more pronounced and intense. By this time the pneumo-gastric nerves had become very seriously involved, and she had chronic Gastritis, and also what I may be allowed to call chronic intermittent malarial fever all at once. For the latter the physicians prescribed the good, old fashioned, sheet-anchor remedy, quinine, gradually increasing the doses, until—incredible as it may seem—she actually took thirty grains a day for days in succession.

Unfortunately Situated. A big newsboy was insulting a small boot-black in the alley back of the postoffice yesterday, when a letter carrier said to the little chap: "I wouldn't stand it if I were you."

Another Veteran's Experience. "Were you in the army?" "Yes." "Were you in a battle?" "No." "You never smelled powder, then?" "You bet I smelled powder! Why, I used to spark your sister every Sunday night, and my shoulder was covered with powder on Monday morning. Smelled powder? Ah! didn't I? It smelled good, too."—Newman Independent.

Now recall what I have already said as to her then condition, and then read what follows: Under the Kaskine treatment all the dyspeptic symptoms showed instant improvement, and the daily fever grew less and soon ceased altogether. Side by side these diseases vanished, as side by side they had tortured their victim for ten years—the dyspepsia alone having, as I have said, existed for twenty years. Her appetite improved from week to week until she could eat and digest the average food that any well person takes, without any suffering or inconvenience.

She still takes Kaskine occasionally, but with no real need of it, for she is well. I consider this result a scientific miracle, and the "New Quinine" is entitled to the credit of it, for from the time she began with Kaskine she used no other medicine whatever.

(Rev.) JAS. L. HALL, Chaplain Albany, N. Y., Penitentiary.

Chaplain Albany, N. Y., Penitentiary. P. S.—Sometimes letters of this kind are published without authority, and in case any one is inclined to question the genuineness of the above statement I will cheerfully reply to any communications addressed to me at the penitentiary.

Other letters of a similar character from prominent individuals, which stamp Kaskine as a remedy of undoubted merit, will be sent on application. Price $1.00, or six bottles, $5.00. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price.

Chicago lets her boodlers escape from custody, and has a jail full of condemned anarchists she is afraid to hang. O! for one single Friday of St. Louis determination, firmness and justice.

The death has been recorded of Mr. E. C. Bertrand. He was the author of "Grandfather's Clock," and he died in a London hospital. He should have been a very old man to be author of the clock.

BASEBALL.

Weikman, the Detroit's pitcher, is for sale. Betting in Brooklyn is now even that Chicago wins the pennant.

Fields is developing rapidly as a good catcher for the Pittsburgs. Manager O. P. Caylor, of the "Mets," is traveling around with a bad case of malaria.

Esterbrook has received several offers since his release, one of which came from Chicago. Roseman has been presented with a gold badge by some of his friends in Philadelphia.

In a recent game Carsey, of the Eccentrics, beat his previous records by striking out nineteen men.

Dan Brouters, Detroit's first baseman, is the third League player to cross the century line in base hits.

That excellent team of colored players, the Cuban Giants, has so far played 100 games and lost but twenty-six of them.

Sunday is now with the Chicago team once more, but will not play for several weeks until his sprained ankle is in perfect condition.

For long hits Thompson leads the Detroit team. He has in seventy-one games made twenty-two doubles, fifteen triples and six home runs.

Hendershot, having played all over the country this season, has finally gone back to his old team, the Aces, the club he made his reputation with. He will cover third base.

When Horace Phillips, on behalf of the Pittsburg club, in the winter of 1885, paid somewhere about $8,000 for the whole Columbus team, the price was thought to be enormous.

How much would Detroit give for Anson? President Stearns was asked in Detroit. "I'd give him half the club," was the reply.

Harry Wright, the veteran manager of the Phillies, has expressed the opinion that the Detroit will eventually win the championship this season. He says he prefers that it should be won by an eastern club, but he fears that neither Boston nor New York will be able to get there.

Caruthers, of the St. Louis Browns, seldom mixes with his associates of the diamond while off the field. He arrives at the grounds frequently unaccompanied and immediately dons his uniform and goes out for practice.

The Boston Courier's choice for the best three general players of the League is Morrill, Williamson, Richardson. Each of these three men can fill any position in the line, even to pitching. For the best three base runners, M. J. Kelly, J. M. Ward, William Sunday. For the best batsman, Anson, Thompson, Kelly.

Beatin, who is to pitch for the Wolverines, is a smooth faced, rugged looking young fellow, 21 years of age, five feet nine in height and weighs 163 pounds. He is a native of Baltimore, first playing professionally with the Fredericktown (Md.) club in 1886, and with the Allentown, Pa., team this season, where he made his reputation.

Kinslow, the Detroit's new catcher, is 22 years of age, weighs 160 pounds and stands five feet ten. He sports a blonde mustache, and is a pleasant looking individual. He began his professional career with the Fredericktown club and went to Allentown this season. In July last season he caught for the Washington league team, being put behind "Bob" Barr.

Philadelphia is now closely pressing the New Yorks in the team batting. In seventy-four games the latter sent 3,066 men to the bat, who made 1,054 base hits, with a percentage of .350, while but seventy-three games the Quakers were only at the bat 2,820 times, and made 961 hits, with a percentage of .339. Detroit and Chicago are closely following these two clubs.

A regular hornet's nest has been stirred up in the Chicago camp by the recent reports that Silver Flint had broken his temperance pledge. Flint, as well as the management, emphatically denies the report and swears that he has not touched a drop of any intoxicants since the season opened. Anson says that no man in the team has touched a drop of liquor since their contracts were signed, and if they do $100 fine will be inflicted for the first offense and $200 for the second.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Young Wing, of Hartford, Conn., is said to be again contemplating matrimony. He has been a widower for some years. His wife was an American lady.

Ernest Renan will soon publish a new volume under the title "Discours et Conférences," consisting of occasional discourses delivered by him since 1879.

Robert Lewis Stevenson will soon reach this country. He will go to California and spend a year or more in the southern portion of that State for the benefit of his health.

Professor Carl Vogt, of Geneva, and Professor Alexander Agassiz, of Boston, were elected corresponding members of the Paris Academy of Sciences at a recent meeting.

John Russell Young is collecting material for a history of the civil life of Gen. Grant. He has lost considerable flesh, but his health is better than it has been for several years.

William M. Stark, recently appointed collector of customs at New London, Conn., is a descendant of Gen. Stark, of Revolutionary fame. Mr. Stark is a lawyer and a college graduate.

RATES OF SPEED.

Swallows fly at a rate of 150 to 200 miles an hour. An ice yacht will skim along at seventy miles an hour.

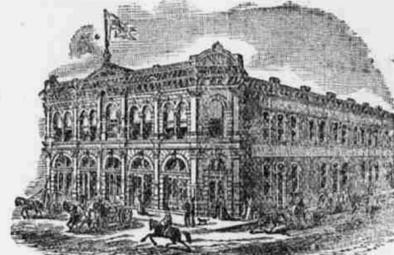

The Connecticut cyclone of 1883 did 200 miles an hour. The big comet of 1843 reached a speed of 325 miles a second.

The earth travels around the sun at the rate of eighteen miles a second. The electric current in an overheated wire travels 22,500 miles in a second.

Carrier pigeons have flown at the rate of 114 miles an hour for seven hours. The shock of the Granada earthquake in 1884 traveled at the rate of 1,800 miles an hour.

On the Great Northern, an English railway, one train makes 105 miles in 108 minutes, but trains have been driven 100 miles an hour. The greatest velocity ever measured by man was that of the electric discharge of a Leyden bottle through a slender copper wire, which is commuted to be 280,000 miles a second.

VITIATED BLOOD.

About a year and a half ago I had blood poison. I was treated for the first three months by a doctor in the regular profession, and instead of getting well I grew worse all the time. The eruption, the sore mouth and throat, and the falling hair progressed right along.

MALARIAL POISON.

For many long months I was a sufferer from malaria, and could get no relief. I eked out an existence in utter despair, having vertigo and numerous unpleasant symptoms of that insidious poison. I began taking S. S. S., and improved at once. My appetite returned and my strength came again.
