Camped on Brazos River Last Night for Practice and Field Instructions.

College Station, Tex., Mar. 31.

The following order was published last night at retreat:

Headquarters Corps of Cadets,

College Station, Tex. Mar. 30

General Orders

No. 27.

The corps of cadets will leave College at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for a practice march and field instruction.

The regiment will bivouac near the iron bridge on the Brazos and will return to College late Thursday afternoon.

Cadets will take with them one double blanket and necessary toilet articles in the blanket roll.

Uniform No. 2 without white collars will be worn.

All cadets will attend except those excused by the surgeon and those excused by permit from this office.

First Call 2:20 p. m.

Assembly 2:30 p. m.

By order of Captain Andrew Moses, Commandant.

M. H. WEINERT,

Cadet Captain and Adjutant.

While some of the cadets expected that a practice march would be taken April 1, they were not sure about it, and there was anticipation in all sources that the program for April 1 would be. While the practice march has probably interfered with some of the pranks proposed for All Fools Day, yet the order to go on a hike was not altogether displeasing. The more active young men welcomed it as a picnic occasion, and a chance for a big jubilee. While lessons were attended during this morning, still during the periods when presence was not required in the recitation room, the boys were busy getting ready for the march. Blankets were dragged out, and each boy spent some time making his roll into the proper size and shape, and by the time dinner was over every fellow was ready for the six mile hike to the Brazos river.

The full band organization attended, but the heavier instruments were carried in the commissary wagons and the music will be had while on the river. The bugle corps also attended with their horns, and there was music on the road.

The start of the hike was just before 3 o'clock this afternoon, the ambulance, commissary wagons, etc., accompanying. The commissary was in charge of Steward B. Shisa of the College mess hall. The cadet regiment went fully accoutered for field practice and when stop is made for camp tonight there will be instructions in camping, outpost duty, advance and rear guard and extended order work.

The following are the officers of the regiment:

Field and Staff—D. M. Shearer, lieutenant colonel; M. H. Weinert, captain and adjutant; C. L. Wignall, captain and quartermaster.

Regimental Non-Commissioned Staff—E. R. Smith, sergeant major; C. W. Leggett, quartermaster sergeant; C. M. Crockett, color sergeant; Charles DeWare, trophy sergeant.

First Battalion—A. J. Rife, major; R. O. Bass, first lieutenant and battalion adjutant; W. D. Roseborough, second lieutenant and battalion quartermaster; N. R. Rushmore, battalion sergeant major.

Second Battalion—W. H. Fureaux, major; A. T. Cole, first lieutenant and battalion adjutant; H. R. Voelker, second lieutenant and battalion quartermaster; R. G. Sherrard, battalion sergeant major.

Capt. Andrew Moses, coast artillery service, commandant of cadets, accompanied the corps on the march and directed the practice.
