BRYAN, TEXAS, JULY 10, 1909.

Fortune telling is unlawful but fortune hunting is still permitted in Texas.

The Coleman-Texico cutoff incident has demonstrated that State Senator William John Bryan of Abilene has a pull with Governor Campbell.

No wonder the loss of Panama rankles in the hearts of Columbians. The manner in which this country acquired the canal zone was little better than highway robbery.

A large number of the most prominent educators have taken a decided stand against rough house sports in the schools. The impression is growing that school athletics have gone to seed.

Probably never before was the corn crop so spotted as it is this year. Here and there all over the state we hear of forty or fifty bushels per acre, while in other nearby localities nothing will be harvested.

The campaign for a safe and sane Fourth of July resulted in cutting down the casualties to less than one-half what they were last year. Let's keep up the agitation and cut out the other half next year.

Standard Oil has many sins to answer for but none deserving of more severe condemnation than its effort to put the cow out of business by making mineral butter as a by-product of petroleum.

There isn't the least probability that when Attorney General Davison becomes governor he will issue an executive order requiring the Houston Post and the Fort Worth Record to suspend publication.

An Amarillo girl after attending the Fourth of July ball dreamed she was two-stepping with the devil, and while he danced elegantly his forked tail got in her way and tripped her. This is why she has sworn off dancing.

Roosevelt turned the office of chief executive of the United States into a Harvard-Yale advertising bureau and Taft is continuing the business. As a relief to this surfeit of the university in government it is refreshing that three of the greatest presidents, Washington, Jackson and Lincoln, never attended college a day in their lives.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

Mrs. M. W. Sims, who will leave tonight for Colorado Springs, where she will spend the next three months enjoying the cool climate, was tendered a beautiful courtesy on Tuesday morning when Mrs. J. Webb Howell entertained in her honor. Mrs. Sims has many admirers in Bryan, she is always so good, friendly and nice to everyone, consequently she is never forgotten when a time offers itself for her friends to show their friendship. The honoree was pleasantly surprised when she arrived at this elegant home to find such a prettily planned party in her honor as she was only asked over to spend the morning to chat with the hostess. The merry widow crowd, having been asked to bid goodbye to Mrs. Sims, was present. The hostess had provided books, magazines, toilet articles and pieces of lingerie, and as each guest arrived she was given an article with the request that it must be presented to Mrs. Sims with an original verse, to be used while on her trip. Mrs. Howell presented a dainty matinee to Mrs. Sims with the following words: "You are about to leave for a cooler climate. The Lord bless us who are left behind. You are a lucky bird and wherever you fly, you meet those who are loathe to tell you goodbye. Now when you grow tired and no longer can roam, don't this matinee and stay in your room."

Hospitality, that great embracing principle of social will, is always delightful when dispensed by those who know its secret, and certainly Mrs. Howell knows its art, as she was many times assured of the exceptionally enjoyable moments spent by her guests. At twelve o'clock an elaborate luncheon with hot rolls and iced tea was served.

Mrs. Guy Pitzer, nee Miss Paddock of Fort Worth, after a delightful visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Waldrop left Tuesday for Galveston, where she sailed on the Denver for New York.

Among the very enjoyable events of the week was the party given by Miss Allie Rohde on Thursday evening. The hostess took the guests to the moving picture show and a merrier crowd of girls and boys could scarcely be found. They were chaperoned by Mrs. H. Rohde, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Maloney. Just after the picture show was over, the guests returned to Mrs. Rohde's where they were refreshed by delicious sherbet and cake. Music and games were the other diversions of the evening. Those that enjoyed these pleasures were, Misses, Nellie Cole, Frances Chance, Lucie DeMaret, Helen Peverley, Blanch Cooper, Lorraine Reynolds, and Allie Rohde, Messrs, Ed Martin, Clarence Vick, William Banks, Jim James, Harry Peverley, Johnny Collins and Henry Rohde.

Mrs. J. Webb Howell entertained the members of the Week End club on Friday morning at ten o'clock. A profusion of flowers lent an additional air of attractiveness to the already elegantly furnished rooms. Pretty score cards were passed for the popular game of forty-two, five tables being provided to accommodate the guests. There was nothing notable at this weekly reunion of the club, further than the charming finish given the enjoyment of the game by Mrs. Howell's graciousness as hostess. The enjoyably spent hours were brought to a close by the serving of peach cream and cake.

Mrs. J. H. Allen will entertain the club next Friday afternoon at five o'clock.

It was the pleasure of the members of the J. U. G. club at its meeting on Thursday afternoon to have as the gracious hostess of the occasion Miss Mary Shelburn. The hours were spent very enjoyably with games and contests, mingled with happy conversation and passed swiftly. Miss Fanny Allen received the prize, a pretty fan, which was quite appropriate for this weather. The enjoyment of the afternoon terminated with the serving of a dainty course of cream and cake.

Oh, what is so rare as a day in June. Then if ever came perfect days, doubly perfect is it when a number of congenial girls meet in pleasant conversation under such a delightful circumstance as this morning when the Bachelor Girls met in social session with Mrs. Perkins as hostess. The guests were entertained with forty-two and five hundred, the trophies, handsome silk hose going to Misses Ethel Cavitt and Jessie Garth. The score cards were hand painted heads of June brides.
