WOMEN'S BEAUTY.
It Can Never Be Perfect Without Luxuriant Hair.
 A head of luxuriant hair is sure to be attractive. But nature has not crowned every woman with glorious hair. Some very lovable women she has treated rather scantily in this respect.
 For instance there are tens of thousands of women in America to-day, who have harsh, faded and lusterless hair, who are unattractive simply because they do not know that nowadays even the whims of nature can be overruled by the genius of science.
 If you are a woman without beautiful hair, do not permit your attractions to be hidden because of this slight misfortune. Just make up your mind now, that you can have just as luxuriant and beautiful a head of hair as any other woman, and quickly too.
 It's such a simple matter to just go to E. J. Jenkins and buy a large bottle of Parisian Sage for 50 cents. The best tonic and the largest bottle for the money. Use it each night for a few days and you will notice the harsh, repulsive hair disappear, and in its place will come soft, silky, bright and luxuriant hair that irresistibly attracts.
 Parisian Sage is guaranteed by E.
 J. Jenkins to cure dandruff, itching of the scalp, falling hair in two weeks or money back. Sold by leading druggists everywhere; the girl with the Auburn hair on every bottle.
 Ask E. J. Jenkins about it today.

Private Hospital Guests.
 "Hello, old man! Didn't know you were in New York? Where are you stopping?"
 "Glad to see you. I'm at a private hospital uptown."
 "Private hospital! Why, I'm sorry.
 What's the trouble?"
 "No trouble at all myself. My sister went there for an operation, and I'm staying with her. There are plenty of patients there with relatives or friends. We pay high prices, of course, but the rooms are light, comfortable and clean, and we can order anything on earth we want for meals and get it. Things are served to us as though we were invalids, and there's no kick coming. I'll tell you that. And we can have as much company as we wish for meals at a dollar and a half a head."

Vulture and Rattlesnake An odd battle between a California vulture and a rattlesnake was witnessed in the Cocopa mountains of Lower California. It was in the early morning. The big bird had seized the snake behind the head and was struggling upward with its writhing, deadly burden. The snake's captor appeared aware that its victim was dangerous.
 The burden was heavy, as the reptile was nearly five feet long.

The grip of the bird on the snake's body was not of the best. The snake seemed to be squirming from its captor's talons, at least sufficiently to enable it to strike. Its triangular head was seen to recoil and dart at the mass of feathers.

It did this once or twice, and then with a shriek the vulture dropped its prey. The bird was probably 500 feet or so above the observers. The astonished men were then treated to a spectacle seldom seen. Few birds but a vulture could accomplish such a feat.

The instant the snake escaped from the bird's clutches it dropped earth-ward like a shot, and like a shot the bird dropped after it, catching it in midair with a grip that caused death.
 At any rate, the snake ceased to wrig-gle, and the vulture soared away to a mountain peak to devour its hard earned meal.

The Distinguished Guest.
 Captain Raabe was a man whose name had weight in the French cavalry. He was a tall man, belonging to the middle aged trooper type. With military qualities of the highest kind, he had a singular bearing, a savage sort of misanthropy and a cynical tongue, which stood in the way of promotion. When he was in the Sixth lancers, on garrison duty at Commery, one of his comrades brought his father to dine with him at the officers' mess, a man of humble position and unpretentiously dressed. Captain Raabe, considering that this guest had not been fitly received, gave expression to his opinion, saying that if the executioner of Commercy had come in evening dress he would have had a better reception. The officers demurring, he made no rejoinder, but shortly afterward came to mess with a guest whose dress was irreproch-able. Every one lavished attentions on the unknown. When dinner was over Captain Raabe, raising his glass, proposed the health of "the executioner of Commercy."

A Clever Acrobat.
 A diverting anecdote is told in "An nals of the Liverpool Stage" of an unhearsaid episode that occurred at the Hop, a cheap but popular place of entertainment. A troupe of acrobats were engaged, and one of their number gave a "single turn" in which he displayed his skill as a champion weight lifter. Somebody, however, on mischief bent, changed one of the fifty-six pound weights for one made of cardboard. The strong man's vision was impaired by the loss of one eye, but in this instance not unfortunately so. He took the first and second weights, and after having manipulated them he took the third, the one made of cardboard. Realizing in an instant what had been done, he as quickly decided to turn it to his own advantage by throwing three "flipflaps" while holding the dummy weight. He was greeted with a perfect round of applause, and the audience declared it to be the greatest feat they had ever witnessed.

Not Boiled That Way.
 For the first time the old lady was about to make a railway journey, and when she arrived at the station she did not know what to do.
 "Young man," she said to a porter, who looked about as old as Methulah, "can you tell me where I can get my ticket?"
 "Why, mum," he replied, "you get it at the booking office through the pa-geonhole."
 Being very stout, she looked at the hole in amaze, and then she burst out in a rage:
 "Go away with you, you old idiot!
 How can I get through there? I ain't no blessed pigeon!"—London Answers.

An Arrangement Approved.
 "So they have reduced the number of trains that stop at your station?"
 "Yes," answered Mr. Crosslous.
 "There are only two a day at present—one to take us to town in the morning and one to bring us back at night."
 "It must be a great disappointment."
 "Not at all. When we got a servant now she's obliged to stay at least one day."—Exchange

Hard to Choose.
 "Why can't she make a choice between her suitors?"
 "Well, one of them is a press agent his language is very attractive. But the other is a traveling salesman, and he treats her as if she were a bit buyer."—Kansas City Journal.

Badly Expressed.
 Mabel—I don't believe you really meant it when you said you were anxious to hear me sing. Sam—Oh, I assure you I did! You see, I had never heard you sing before.—London Pick-Me-Up.

A Good Example.
 Father (in a lecturing mood)—You never heard of a man getting into trouble by following a good example.
 Son (incorrigible)—Yes, sir, I have—the counterfeiter.—Boston Transcript.

Perambulation.
 "I should think Mr. Beetem's debts would keep him walking the floor."
 "They don't. But they keep a lot of bill collectors walking the streets."
 —Washington Star.

Mr. Merchant:

Did you ever visit
 New York, Chicago,
 St. Louis or any of the Great Cities? If so you thoroughly posted yourself on hotels before you got there, didn't you? Wanted to know right where it was located and just what it was going to cost you, didn't you?

That's the secret of advertising. Let the buyer know right now what you have to sell and what it will cost him, and when he gets ready he will know where to go. He will have his hotel located.
