FOUNDER OF WHITE
RIBBON ORPHANAGE

Capt. and Mrs. J. T. Lynn of Fort Worth Visit Bryan in Their Work.

MRS. J. T. LYNN AND ORPHANS.

Capt. J. T. Lynn and wife, founders of the White Ribbon Orphanage of Fort Worth, formerly of Decatur, are touring the State in the furtherance of their work and were in Bryan yesterday. Capt. Lynn says, "Our mission is to help homeless orphans into private Christian homes without charge to parties concerned. We are never to make a charge for our services. Only Christian homes, financially prepared to give a child advantages, will be considered. Our work is non-sectarian. We now have many open homes wanting children. We place them direct from where we find them into private homes. We will go to any part of the State for a child, or to take one to a home. We are thankful to the press for all the free space we need, which greatly helps us. We go to the county judges in our route and offer to place any orphans they may have dependent on their county. Now, to those who merely want servants, we will suggest that you go and hire you a servant. Don't take advantage of some dead mother's girl by offering a good home to a stout, healthy girl, not under twelve years old. When you know you have a few invalids in your family, five cows to milk and a lot of field hands to cook for, surely you'll give her a good lively home."

Parties interested, address with stamp, White Ribbon Orphanage, Box 164, Fort Worth, Texas.

Nautical Terms.

Terms used aboard ship are interesting and might, in collision, be useful. Toward the ship's head is forward (pronounced for'ard). The opposite direction is aft.

Looking forward and to the right is starboard; to the left is port. The quarter from which the wind blows is windward; its opposite is to leeward (pronounced loo'ard).

A scuttle is a window on board ship; a stairway is a companion ladder; a bed is a bunk; a kitchen range is a galley. This term is also applied to the captain's own boat. The forecabin (pronounced fo'e'e'le) is any covered in place in the bows. A knot is a speed of one sea mile per hour, 6,080 feet. The ship wears a flag; that is the correct term. Passages are gangways.

Bollards are stout pillars round which run the hawsers—steel wire ropes. The bridge is sacred to the captain and officers.—London Tit-Bits.

Perpetual Motion Cranks.

Judging from the applications for patents, one a week, all Great Britain apparently is trying to invent a perpetual motion machine. Only Great Britain calls it a "self moving engine." The wires and bones of models may be found bleaching in hundreds on the shelves of the patent office. It goes without saying that not one shows the slightest inclination to move itself.

Varied and often pathetic are the histories of the inventors. Not a few of them have spent the years of their prime in the chase of this unattainable will o' the wisp; others have dropped thousands of pounds in the quest; still others have trailed the quarry into the insane asylums. If all the wasted energy spent in seeking the solution of this problem had been converted into the beaten channels of endeavor the patent office officials believe there would be few problems of mechanics left today unsolved.—New York Sun.

A Railway Across the Open Sea.

The Florida Keys railway runs from the mainland for a distance of 124 miles over what is practically open sea. Imagine a string of tiny islets stretching like the broken off pliers of some Titanic bridge right out into the great salt ocean and you have the Florida keys. Most of them are only a few rods in extent. Here and there is one that reckons its area in acres, while four or five among them are islands rather than islets, covering several square miles. Big or little, however, they serve merely as stations for the railway, which runs over and upon them with the open sea on either side of it. Moreover, the viaducts and embankments that carry the trains, although immensely strong, are so narrow and steep that the passengers look out upon ocean only. There is no land whatever in sight during the greater part of the trip.—Exchange.

What Happened.

"Are you the man who writes all this joyous advice about scattering sunshine and giving everybody that seems worried a glad hand and a word of encouragement?"

"Yes," said the man with scarce hair and ink fingers. "I am one of the professional optimists who do that sort of thing."

"Well, I'm not going to sue you for damages or false pretenses or anything of that kind. I just want to let you know that I tried to heed your lesson. I went to one of our great cities and tried to speak words of cheer and comfort to the overburdened souls that I saw rushing past me."

"What happened?"

"Before I had cheered up four people I got arrested for being a confidence man."—Washington Star.

The Flying Frog of Java.

The Javanese frog is a creature measuring between fifteen and twenty-five inches. The skin of its back is pale blue and by night looks dark green or olive brown. The frog remains motionless during the day, with eyes sheltered from the light and with belly up, clinging to its support by adhesive cushions and by its belly, which is provided with a sticky covering, and it is hardly distinguishable from the objects that surround it. At nightfall it begins its hunt for the mammoth crickets on which it feeds, making leaps covering seven feet of ground. During the leap the play of lungs filled with air swells its body. To descend from a height it spreads wide its claws and, dropping, rests upon its feet.—Exchange.

Benefits of Olive Oil.

Not every one realizes the medicinal properties of olive oil. It is quite true that the machinery of the body needs oiling occasionally, like any mechanical machine which is constantly in use, and olive oil taken internally is exceedingly beneficial. A tablespoonful will aid digestion and ease liver trouble. Olive oil should be served frequently as a dressing. Taken either with salads or alone it is beneficial for catarrh either of the stomach or throat.

Making It Easy.

Man (on dock)—What, in the mischief are you rowing with that trunk in the bow of the boat for, Pat? Pat—Sure, an' if it was in the stern of the boat wouldn't I be rowin' uphill all the time? An' this way I'm rowin' downhill all the time.—Yale Record.

Getting On.

"How's that young son-in-law of yours getting on?"

"Great! Last week he made within $150 of my daughter's actual expenses."—Detroit Free Press.

The youth who does not look up will look down, and the spirit that does not soar is destined perhaps to grovel.—Disraeli.

The Pole Star.

Any clear night look at the dipper or Great Bear and in a direct line from the two first stars in the quadrilateral of this constellation measure with the eye about five times the distance between them in a straight line and you will locate a luminary a little brighter than its neighbors. This is the pole star. Astronomically speaking, there are no fixed stars. So called fixed stars are supposed to be the suns of other systems of worlds, themselves performing immense revolutions through the fields of space. However, of all the bodies which scintillate in the starry night the only one that remains motionless or seems motionless is the pole star. At any moment of the year, day or night, its station remains unchanged. All other stars, on the contrary, turn in twenty-four hours around it, taken as the center of the mighty vortex. For this reason it is the most important star to navigators in determining their course.—Christian Herald.

Prepare!

Never write on a subject without first having read yourself full of it, and never read on a subject till you have thought yourself hungry on it.—Richter.

It is no use to make hay while the sun shines unless you get it under cover before it rains.—Exchange.

His Prize Garden.

Somebody asked old Doc Quigley why he didn't trim off his scraggly beard.

"Not on your life," he replied. "Them whiskers is th' only thing I ever had any luck in raisin'—an' it took me seven days a week an' twenty-four hours a day for twenty-three years to bring 'em to their present state of perfection!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Taking All the Blame.

"I was a fool ever to marry you," sobbed Mrs. Winks.

"Now, my dear," said Winks nobly. "I cannot permit you to take the blame for that. It was I who was the fool for ever asking you. The mistake was not yours, but mine."—Harper's Weekly.

The Compliment.

"Oh, ma, I passed, and th' teacher spoke about me partic'larly. It made my face red to hear her."

"That was fine! What did she say about you, dear?"

"She said she never expected I'd pass at all."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Judge and Justice.

Her Witness—You know that justice is blind. Fair Defendant (adding the finishing touches to her toilet)—I know that justice is blind; but, thank goodness, the judge is not.—Exchange.

What Becomes of Your Money?

It goes toward the easy living of your landlord; it buys him nice vacations and automobiles, while YOU continue to pay for a mere existence in his house. You are afraid to make it homelike for fear that you will have to move the next week.

HERE ARE FIGURES OF INTEREST TO YOU

Here is a little table that shows you how you can make your rent pay for your home. This table shows how much your rent amounts to in from 10 to 40 years, with compound interest at 6 per cent:

Rent goes on forever, but when you buy your home you pay for it in time. Then you are not depriving your family by paying rent.	Per Month	10 Years	15 Years	20 Years	25 Years	30 Years	35 Years	40 Years	The landlord builds a rent house to make money on. Does he do it? He certainly does. Look at the table again.
