

Rich Red Blood
MEANS PERFECT HEALTH

People who are in a run-down condition can usually trace the trouble to impure blood. In minor cases of debility—especially with women and children—a good reliable tonic, such as our should be taken in time. It is a food tonic. It stimulates and strengthens the body and the iron in it builds up and enriches the blood. It is very pleasant to take and is prompt in its effects.

ROUND BALE COTTON

The new press now in operation at Dunlap's gin promises to solve the cotton baling problem. This machine makes a perfect bale of the required density for all purposes and does not injure the fiber of the cotton. It is of convenient size and weight to handle and for this reason the steamship lines carry it at 25 per cent less freight. It is entirely covered with burlap and the insurance companies insure it at 25 per cent less premium. There is no waste, no storage, no warehouse charges and no selling charges. For these and other reasons I can pay you one-half cent per pound, or $2.50 per bale, more for your cotton than you can get for it from any other buyer. In addition to this premium, you save warehouse charges and selling charges, and you sell your cotton yourself and save the time and labor of carrying the cotton to the warehouse and waiting on your merchant to sell the cotton. There is no danger of claims for "heads out," "bands off," and the many other rules applied to the square bale way of putting up cotton.

I guarantee to everyone who gins on the round bale to give you $1.50 more than you can get out of your cotton when it is put up in the square bale. You have worked for that crop, why not get the most money possible out of it? Try your next bale on the round press and be convinced. S. H. DUNLAP.

Weight Dead and Alive.

It is a very popular idea that a person when dead weighs heavier than when living. One reason that a dead body is thought to be heavier than a living one is probably this: In carrying a living person we have the center of gravity adapted by the person carried to suit the convenience of the carrier and maintained in a position as far as possible to fall within the base of his body. Again, the elasticity of the structure of the body, especially the cartilages, though not in reality diminishing the weight, gives an appearance of lightness, as we see in the beautiful movements of the stag, and this would seem to corroborate the notion that living creatures are lighter than dead ones. It has also been asserted that the breath makes the living body lighter than the dead. But we need hardly say that a man when dead weighs no more than when living.
