HELLESPOINT AND DARDANELLES

The terms Hellespont and Dardanelles mean the same; Hellespont being the ancient and Dardanelles the more modern term applied to the long, narrow strait that connects the Sea of Marmora with the Aegean Sea, separating Europe from Asia.

The name Hellespont, or sea of Helle, was derived from a mythical story about Helle, a Grecian princess, falling into the strait, during an aerial flight which she was making, and being drowned in it; hence, Hellespontus.

The name Dardanelles relates to an ancient city called Dardania, situated near the Hellespont. The ancient fort of this city, built by Dardanus, was called of the Dardanelles, and finally this name was applied to the entire strait.—Exchange.

JITNEY PROPHECY.

It may interest municipalities which are going to extremes in attempts to suppress the jitney to learn that it made its appearance on earth that the following prophecy might be fulfilled:

"The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings."—Nahum 11:4.

That Nahum had the name and the number of the jitney nineteen centuries prior to its appearance on earth is evident in the surprising accuracy of his description of its general appearance and well known habits.—Dallas Democrat.

The interscholastic track meet, in which a large number of leading high schools and academies of the State will participate, is to be held at the A. & M. College on Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24. These annual events are highly interesting affairs and are worthy the liberal patronage of the people of Bryan. They bring here the flower of the youth and young manhood of Texas and cannot fail to result in much favorable publicity for both Bryan and the A. & M. College. It costs a large sum of money to bring these young men here, all their expenses being paid by A. & M., and The Eagle hopes the people of Bryan will share the expense by exceptional turnouts on both days. Aside from this feature of the meet, the various athletic events are worth every cent of the admission price. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder with the A. & M. College.

Efficiency comes first, of course, in the public service of both State and Nation, but at present our governments are officially waterlogged. There is not the least doubt in the world but that we have an army of needless officials and a multitude of useless commissions, entailing a constant drain and grievous tax burden upon the people to support. The Eagle does not doubt for a moment but what thousands of tax eaters, State and National, could be lopped off without crippling the public service in the slightest degree. If this position is correct, then they should be lopped off. The people should not be asked to support one single official whose services can be dispensed with. It is unjust, and great popularity will come to the party that will come before the people with a well defined, clear-cut party pledge to inaugurate the most sweeping reform the country has ever known in wading out every man from the payrolls whose services are not absolutely needed.

A ride over Brazos County will show that this is to be the "Land of Goshen" when harvest time comes. The greatest feed crop the county has ever known has been planted.

These showers that are gently falling, set higher and brighter the bow of promise in the heavens.

FOR very smartly dressed young men the new Varsity models we're showing from are making a decided sensation. Some of these coats have patch pockets, some haven't; some are lined, some not; some are without padding or surplus material of any kind—what we call "just-enough" coat.

Let us show you young men the new Varsity Fifty Five, one of the best styles you've seen. We offer special values in these suits for $20.

What will the outside newspapers think when we tell them that J. Allen Myers of Bryan visited Houston yesterday? And what will they think when we tell them that Mr. Myers is a Republican who held office for more than twenty years in this State?—Houston Post.

They'll think he must have been a distinguished good man and made a distinguished good officer to hold it that long, and they'll think right, too.

The millions in trade balances every week in favor of the United States, show beyond all question that by or before the close of the war the United States will be a leading Nation instead of a borrowing Nation. With the return of easy money, and with a good crop this year, conditions will not only be normal, but we will have the greatest prosperity the South has ever known.

Brazos County has not even made a start in silo building as yet. The county should have five hundred. The silo insures the farmers of a feed crop regardless of drouth. A corn crop is always certain to go to the roasting ear stage and it is then ready for the silo. Drouth gets in its work after the roasting ear stage. Silos will solve the problem.

A red-hot fight is being conducted against the permanent warehouse law, led by Dabags White of Tyler. It is also being equally as warmly defended by those holding fat jobs under it.

Prospects rarely ever were brighter for good crops.

We've got the creamery; now for the cannery.

A VINDICATION OF THE KAISER.

At the outbreak of the present war people who were unacquainted with Germany thought that it was the work of the Emperor and those about him. They believed that the Nation was less eager for war than the court, and that the scholars and men of science at the universities might be trusted to moderate the feelings of the Nation. It soon appeared that this was a mistaken conception. The Nation was apparently much more eager for war than the Emperor. The universities acted as exponents of the National feeling. Instead of trying to moderate the zeal for war, they championed it as their own.

It is characteristic of modern Germany that the universities should be exponents rather than critics of public sentiment. For the universities are probably in closer touch with public opinion in Germany than in any other country, and do more to make that public opinion. The contact of professors and students with the National problems is more direct, and their influence on National feeling as a whole much stronger than is the case either in England or in America.

The German universities do more than prepare the great body of office holders for their work. They do much in preparing the public sentiment that is behind these office holders. In America and in England the organization of public opinion is largely in the hands of the newspapers, and particularly of the daily newspapers. In Germany the case is quite different. A position as editor of a daily paper in Germany does not carry social and political influence with it. The editor is generally expected to be the mouthpiece of somebody else. The political news that he gives is limited. The political opinions that he utters carry very little weight. The magazines have more independence and more influence than the newspapers; but the real places where facts are proclaimed and opinions formed are the lecture rooms of the universities.

The German public looks to professors for its opinions in a good deal the same way that the American public looks to the journalists for its opinions. The great movements of German political thought have originated in lecture rooms. It was there that State Socialism started. It was there that the idea of German unity was most effectively championed. It was there that the doctrines now called by the name of Pan-Germanism first took strong hold on the thoughts and hearts of men.—President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. PARADOVSKI

Very beautiful and impressive services were held in St. Joseph's Church in this city for the soul repose of Mrs. Paradovski, who died Friday morning at 10:40 at her home in the Leonard school community. Rev. Peter Litwora was the celebrant of the requiem high mass, assisted by Rev. J. B. Gleissner. The church was crowded by the friends of the deceased, who came from far and near to pay the last tribute in silent prayer for the soul repose of their dear friend. Rev. Peter Litwora delivered a very beautiful and impressive sermon, in which he outlined her life as a Christian mother and wife. Father Gleissner delivered an English sermon, which paid high tribute to the deceased member of his flock.

Mrs. Paradovski was 46 years of age and was born in German Poland. When she was 11 years of age she came to this country and settled here in Brazos County some thirty-five years ago. In 1892 she was married to Mr. Joe Paradovski, by whom she had eleven children, among whom are Mrs. W. F. Wisniewski of Steco Hollow and Mrs. Tom Konecny of this city. Mrs. Paradovski was well known throughout Brazos County and was a devout Christian and a friend to all. The father and children of the deceased have the heartfelt sympathy of all their friends. May her soul rest in peace.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

Occupants of Wagon Thrown Out and Miss Bertha Luther Badly Hurt.

A mule team hitched to a wagon containing Misses Bertha and Emma Luther and brother, Will Luther, Jim Welch and a negro boy of the Leonard school community, ran away on Bryan street Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, and every member of the party was hurled from the wagon to the ground when the wagon ran into a tree in the front yard of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Myers. Miss Bertha Luther was knocked unconscious by the fall and her sister was badly bruised and scratched. Will Luther suffered several bruises and a deep gash in one arm. The negro boy had several teeth knocked out and was considerably bruised, but Mr. Welch escaped practically unharmed. Miss Bertha Luther was carried into the house and a physician summoned, and at last reports was resting as well as could be expected, but the attending physician fears she is hurt internally. The Misses Luther and their brother are children of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Luther of the Leonard school community and are well known in Bryan, having a number of friends who will regret to learn of the unfortunate accident.

United States Supreme Court Knocked Out Last Hope—Only Governor of Georgia Can Save Him.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, April 19.—The Supreme Court of the United States today decided against Leo M. Frank, the convicted murderer of Mary Phagan, an Atlanta factory girl. Frank sought a writ of habeas corpus which the Federal district court of Georgia had denied him.
