Entertained in Honor of Miss Boatwright—

The entertainment given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davis in compliment to Miss Ruth Boatwright was lovely in every detail, the decorations and appointments reflecting the hostess' characteristic attention to artistic detail.

The first form of diversion was a trip to the Dixie Theatre, where the company enjoyed a thoroughly interesting program of pictures, after which waiting autos conveyed the party to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Boatwright, where they were served a luncheon of eighteen covers.

Roses and sweet peas, exclusively, were utilized with ferns and foliage plants, and, in the hall and music room, the blossoms were in pink petaling, the handsome home having its attractiveness intensified by the floral adornment.

The A. & M. colors, red and white, were featured in the dining room embellishment, and were especially appropriate and pleasing for the occasion, as most of the gentlemen guests consisted of instructors of that institution. An exquisite luncheon set of hand-work overlaid the table, the central position being assigned a Tiffany basket filled with red sweet peas and ferns and tied with red bows of maline, and, in silver and crystal dishes finished with red maline, were the mints and confections in the chosen colors. Crystal candle holders were marked by cards featuring military emblems. The luncheon was achieved along elegant and exceedingly beautiful lines.

After luncheon the guests enjoyed a musical program. The personnel of the party included Misses Annie Belle Batte, Belle Ferguson, Mary James, Deolice Hickman, Helen I. Marcet, Irene Board, Louise Batte, Ruth Boatwright; Messrs. I. C. Ashburn, Cassidy, Gunter, Driver, Sullivan, Miller, S. Boatwright and Dr. Hutchinson.

Miss Caldwell's Recital—

The Sherman Daily Democrat contains an account of the following recital of decided interest in Bryan, Miss Caldwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Caldwell and has a host of friends who are glad of the progress she has made in a musical way. She also assisted in a musical recital given May 6.

A large and select audience greeted Miss Louise Caldwell of Bryan as she appeared in her graduating recital in Kidd-Key auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 3. Miss Caldwell is a pupil of Mrs. Holt Versel, who is without doubt one of the leading voice teachers of America, and it must have been a source of gratification to this eminent teacher to present so gifted a singer as Miss Caldwell showed herself to be on this occasion. In her recital she rendered her program like a real professional concert singer. Her splendid stage presence and her charming personality were especially noteworthy.

Her clarity of diction is far above that of many professional vocalists of wide reputation. Her technique is remarkably accurate, and her rhythm very gratifying. To speak of each number separately would be superfluous. This modest young artist undoubtedly has a brilliant future.

Miss Caldwell was assisted by Miss Leona Kimberley at the pipe organ, and Miss Ferrell Cooper at the piano, and they added much pleasure to this charming program.

The program follows:

1. Pilgrim Chorus, Tanhauser—Leona Kimberley.
2. There is a Green Hill, Gounod—Louise Caldwell.
3. (a) Down in the Forest, Roland; (b) The Asra, Rubenstein; (c) Memories, Cadman; (d) Ich Lieb Dich, Grieg—Louise Caldwell.
4. Etude en forme dune Valse, Saint Saens—Ferrell Cooper.
5. Indian Bell Song (from the opera Lakme) by Delibes—Louise Caldwell.
6. (a) Robin Adair (folk songs); (b) Comin' Thro' the Rye—Louise Caldwell.
7. (a) Shanson Russe, Reger; (b)

Canzonetta, d'Evry—Leona Wimberley.

8. My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice, Saint Saens—Louise Caldwell.

9. (a) Oh, My Garden, Turner Salter; (b) Come to the Garden, Turner Salter—Louise Caldwell.

Cello Obligato—Miss Nina Kohler Mr. Rogers at the piano.

Embroidery Club With Mrs. M. B. Parker—

The Embroidery Club assembled on Tuesday afternoon in pleasant session with Mrs. M. B. Parker as hostess. This lovely cottage home, with its setting of verdure and blossoms, was made fragrant with spring flowers and furnished an ideal place for entertaining and an air of cheerful hospitality pervaded the home.

The rich red tones of roses and zenias tastefully arranged in artistic receptacles were utilized in the entrance hall, while in the music room and dining room the pink and white shades were dominant, the loveliest of pink Dorothy Perkins roses and bride roses in white finding clustering in every available position.

Upon the arrival of the participants they were refreshed by a glass of delicious fruit punch, passed by the two charming and winning little daughters of the home, Misses Kate and Margaret Parker.

Excellent selections of a high order from a Victrola were furnished during the afternoon and gave added pleasure. The hours devoted to the exchange of pleasantries and the execution of pretty hand-work that forms the diversion of this popular club was concluded by the serving of pressed chicken, crackers, sandwiches, olives, strawberry ice cream with whipped cream and individual cake. Accompanying each plate was a Dorothy Perkins rose.

High School Seniors Entertained—

Among the affairs of the week distinguished for its charm of arrangement and sincere enjoyment was the party given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Dansby, where their daughter, Miss Fernie Dansby, extended a charming social courtesy to the members of the graduating class of the high school, of which she is a member. Additional guests included the high school teachers.

The handsome home was radiantly beautiful in floral dress for the event. Roses in the different colorings with ferns were in charming evidence throughout the spacious rooms.

A Shakespearean contest furnished pleasing diversion, followed by several musical numbers. The hospitality was purely informal and was much appreciated by the favored friends. At a prettily appointed table in the dining room, whose floral decorations were given by roses, a delicious beverage was served, and the evening pleasures were brought to a close by the serving of brick cream and angel cake.

Methodist Church Social—

Social intercourse marked by good fellowship and pleasurable interchange of conversation, and other means of enjoyment, which tend to make us better acquainted, is that which none of us fail to appreciate; but in the assemblage of a body of Christian workers to pay honor to those who have recently formed a church relation, and by the recognition of the importance of sociability as bearing on Christian fellowship, there is that which makes us feel that more is inculcated in the spirit and motive of a commingling than at any time.

The reception tendered to the members of the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening proved to be without question the most successful and most largely attended affair of its kind ever given in the church.

The first half of the conference year, which began last November, has closed with fifty-one new members added to the church roll, and, in honor of these members, this lovely reception was given.

Loveliest blooms of the season graced the occasion. Easter lilies and white roses filled receptacles, and with them potted ferns were utilized in beautifying the auditorium, while nasturtiums massed in wicker baskets and suited to their placing in the Sunday School room. An impromptu program was rendered and was highly enjoyable. Professor Reed and Miss Frances Mike rendered several pipe organ selections, Miss Sarah Williams gave a piano number, and Miss Dorothy Tally delighted everyone with a childish reading. Mr. Ed Hall gave an address of welcome from the board of stewards and Mr. Poteet also gave a splendid talk on the subject, My Church. Mrs. T. A. Adams, in her pleasing manner, welcomed the new members in behalf of the Woman's Missionary Society.

It was a source of great pleasure to the members to have present four who have been members for the longest time, Mesdames W. B. Baker, Mary Cole, Fannie Chatham and J. N. Cole, these ladies efforts have been have been untiring in the work and advancement of the cause which they represent.

A game which proved a novel manner in which to mix the crowd was inaugurated and caused much fun. Distinctly social was the gathering of this Christian body and a delightful feeling of good fellowship existed during the entire evening.

Refreshments of cream and wafers were served.

At the departure of the guests the pastor, Rev. C. T. Tally and his committee, were given assurance that their efforts expended to provide such pleasure for them had prompted the utmost appreciation, and every expression was termed to signify that the evening had been one of pleasurable enjoyment.

Called Meeting Woman's Club—

On Friday, May 5, the Woman's Club met at the call of the recently elected president, Mrs. A. M. Waldrop. Instead of convening in the club rooms, Mrs. Waldrop issued the invitation for an informal meeting at her home, for the purpose of hearing the reports of the Federation, which was held in Brenham last month.

Roses from the hostess' own garden gave the already attractive interior of the home the touch of summer.

Mrs. Waldrop, presiding with ease and dignity, called the meeting to order, and a large per cent of the 61 members answered roll call. Mrs. Buchanan read the report of the club for the past year, which was one of the best reports made at the Brenham meeting, and caused favorable comment on all sides. Mrs. Sims, who represented the Woman's Club at the Federation, was called on to give some of the inspiration which always can be taken home from these meetings.

Mrs. Hanway, first vice president of the district; Mrs. Cline, chairman of a district committee, and Mrs. John E. Astin, a visitor to the meeting, all told interesting facts that other clubs have accomplished throughout South Texas. Mrs. Felows, a visitor from far away Illinois, compared the Texas clubs with her home club. Mrs. McInnis and Mrs. R. O. Allen also gave their impression of the Brenham Federation.

When these reports had been given, selections from grand operas were rendered on an Edison machine, and the guests were invited into the dining room. In this room vases and bowls of the old-fashioned flower which we love so well, the larkspur, were artistically placed on sideboard and table. The vice president, Mrs. Bart Sims, served refreshing punch from the bowl in the center of the table, and delicious chicken sandwiches were passed by the officers of the club.

The weeks have that intervened since the last meeting of the club made this coming together all the more pleasant. The guests lingered chatting and exchanging views on club work for the next session until, with good wishes from the members for a successful administration, the club was adjourned until October.

Mrs. L. B. Burk Entertained—

A beautifully appointed hospitality of Thursday afternoon, planned on most delightful and attractive lines, was the literary tea given by Mrs. L. B. Burk at her home on the A. & M. campus in compliment to the Woman's Club of Bryan and the Campus Study Club.

The reception hours from 3 to 5 were enjoyably spent on the spacious green lawn, which was most attractive in its floral embellishment, that throughout maintained a simplicity and charm truly restful. With the full benefit of the delightful breezes, and with easy chairs and cushions, there was nothing lacking to make the guests comfortable. Adornment was contributed by foliage plants in generous clustering and masses of lovely garden and field blossoms tastefully arranged in receptacles. The weather was ideal, and the bright spring frocks worn by the guests added beauty to the picture.

A literary program was an appreciative diversion, and adding to the enjoyment of all was the rendition of a musical program from a Victrola.

Two tea tables were conveniently placed on the lawn. A large punch bowl in a mound of flowers, and filled with ice tea, occupied the central placing on each. The Woman's Club colors were featured on one table with green ferns and white roses, while the Campus Study Club colors, blue and green, were dominant on the other, the blue bonnet being the chosen blossom. Mesdames Bizzell, Sr., M. Frances, Harper and Fellows presided at the tables, passing the tea served with the refreshment delicacies.

As the ladies gathered around the tea tables appropriate toasts proved a pleasurable feature of the party. Mrs. A. M. Waldrop, president of the Woman's Club, gave a toast in honor of the Bryan and College clubs. Mrs. A. J. Buchanan gave greetings from the Woman's Club, and Mrs. M. Frances responded in behalf of the College ladies.

Mrs. W. C. Davis will be hostess to the Embroidery Club next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Friends in Bryan have received invitations to the commencement exercises at Gunston Hall, Washington, D. C., May 20 to 23. Miss Dorcas Parker, the charming daughter of Mrs. G. S. Parker of this city, is a member of the graduating class of this session, and will receive her diploma from that splendid institution on Class Day, May 22. Miss Parker has made a brilliant record as a student this year, and her many friends in this city offer sincere congratulations upon her success.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Washington, D. C. May 13.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent May 13 to 17, warm wave 12 to 14, cool wave 15 to 19. Temperature of that period are expected to average in the States east of the Rockies near and south of latitude 40. Very low temperatures and frost are expected farther south than usual during the five days centering May 15. Storm forces will be greater than usual or average. West of meridian 90 storms will be severe during the week centering on May 15.

The storms continue their circuits around the north magnetic pole which is located near 70 north and 93 west of Greenwich, or 2 degrees west and 45 north of St. Louis. The storm or low barometer causes nearly all our weather changes. Next warm wave will come south along Alaska coast, reaching Vancouver near May 18, turn eastward cross Pacific slope and Rocky Ridge by close of 19, planes section 20, meridian 90 about 21, great lakes and Ohio valleys 22, eastern section 23, mouth of St. Lawrence river 24.

Storm wave will reach Vancouver and effect the whole Pacific slope about May 19, cross Pacific slope and Rocky ridge by close of 20, planes sections 21, meridian 90 about 22, great lakes and Ohio valleys 23, eastern section 24, mouth of the St. Lawrence 25.

Storm wave will reach Vancouver and affect whole Pacific slope about Rocky ridge by close of 21, planes sections 22, meridian 90, about 23, great lakes and Ohio valleys 24, eastern sections 25, mouth of St. Lawrence 26.

These storms are 1000 to 2000 miles in diameter and our efforts are to locate their central parts. This storm will effect the whole continent and reach into the Mexican Gulf.

Another storm will cross the continent May 24 to 28, warm wave 23 to 27, cool wave 26 to 30. Usually cool weather and general, though not heavy rains will accompany it. More about it in next bulletin.

Crop weather May 13 to 28 will be generally good. More than usual rain. Danger of frosts going farther south than usual during last week of May.

Storms will be of greater than usual force but not very dangerous. High temperature wave will cross continent during five days centering on May 21.

We are expecting disastrous storms in July and severe storms in June. These great storms are expected to include destructive hail storms and farmers should insure against hail. It is not necessary to insure for the whole season. We believe we can approximate the danger periods close enough to save considerable expense to the farmers. As we see it this is one of the great hail storm years. These hail storms are close kin to tornadoes and thunder storms.
