Be a booster for Bryan. If you can't do something, say something.

The increase of the payrolls in the city caused by the public improvements, is making all the merchants feel better.

With the improvements that are now going on in Bryan and the building of good roads into Bryan, it makes us know that we are living in the land of activities.

Now that the sidewalk builders are here and out in earnest about building sidewalks, The Eagle sincerely hopes that when you are approached on the subject that you will be ready to sign up a contract without delay.
The one fact alone that this is the only possible way to get Bryan a free mail delivery is sufficient to cause every wide-awake and progressive citizen in the city to get a walk down immediately.

The government crop report, issued yesterday, shows the estimates on all grain and feed crops to be less last year and the cotton crop to be larger.

The saloons of Texas will be dealt another blow next month. Comptroller H. B. Terrell is scheduled to prune out a number of those now running.
He says he will not renew the license of the saloon keepers where they have in any way violated the liquor laws. His idea in doing this is to rid the State of many undesirables who are in the saloon business.

Our good friend, Judge J. W. Doremus, has gone for a short vacation in the mountains of Arkansas. The judge will enjoy a much needed and deserved rest. He is a staunch believer in everything that makes Bryan a better town and when he returns will lose no time in jumping back into the harness and pulling his level best for our thriving little city.

GIVE FUNSTON A CHANCE.

Give Funston a chance. He is not much of a man when judged from a physical point of view, but give him a chance. Let the country see what he can do.

The Mexican situation has nearly every one puzzled. The administration at Washington undoubtedly knows more about the real conditions than the average citizen knows, but at the same time a little light might help to clear the murky skies.

General Funston was sent into Mexico, but with limited power. He is being held back by the authorities in Washington. It is only natural that this trained fighter, who has seen the rough side of war and is possessed of the strategic genius that tells him what is best to be done, should express himself in a manly way.

In a recent interview given to the staff correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle, General Funston spit out the truth. It was an interview entirely dictated by his indignation. He said:
"Mark my words, this diplomatic gab will result in nothing. While Obregon is up here killing time through impossible conferences his army and Carranza's are sneaking northward into Chihuahua, where they will be held ready to attack us if we declare war. Carranza has twice as many troops in Northern Mexico as we have in all the country west of the Mississippi River. It is shameful."

General Funston is honest, but not very diplomatic. Like General Hugh Scott, he is a soldier at heart, and soldiers do not like diplomatic gab.
They want action.

The other day a bunch of Texas cowboys, becoming resentful over the Mexican atrocities, took the law into their own hands, and as a result 12 Mexican marauders paid the death penalty for their petty depredations.
If President Wilson finds it necessary to declare war, all that he will have to do is to turn Funston loose and he will do with Villa and his fellow pirates just what he did with Aguinaldo in the Philippines.

Funston has repeatedly asked for 50,000 men. He has only a small army. He is handicapped because of a lack of field fighting forces.

It looks to the unprejudiced as though General Funston is right.
There has been entirely too much diplomatic gab. There may be reason for it, but the American people are like General Funston—they would rather hear less talk and see more action.—Memphis Commercial-Appal.

FOR NAVIGATION OF THE BRAZOS

The Brazos River was provided for in the senate upon the rivers and harbors bill. This was a great victory for Senator Sheppard, who stood faithfully by his guns and successfully resisted the efforts of Senator Kenyon to cut the Brazos appropriation out of the bill. This telegram to Col.
J. B. Baker from Senator Sheppard shows that the item had a close call:

"Next day after I wired you, the senate, by one vote, made the Brazos appropriation dependent on present survey. Today I prevailed on Kenyon to move reconsideration so as to have another chance. Reconsideration prevailed. A short debate followed, and roll call resulted, 34 for Brazos, 28 against; so we are in the bill again, without qualification.

"MORRIS SHEPPARD."

The appropriation thus assured for Brazos improvement will carry the work forward to such a point that there will be no going backward. The pioneer in this enterprise, Col. Jas.
B. Baker, is to be congratulated, with all the people of Waco that their hopes are so near fulfillment. Colonel Baker writes the News:

"Editor Morning News:
"All the people should rightly appreciate the assistance given to Congressman R. L. Henry by Senator Morris Sheppard in Henry's absence.
In fact, Senator Sheppard began from the start to work with Henry for the Brazos. The last telegram from Sheppard settles the feature of the Brazos River, regardless of all the filibustering done and caused by ex-Senator Burton. I will assure the public that this is a great relief to me.

"JAS. B. BAKER."

The home merchant is looking out after your interests. He is helping the home institutions, paying taxes, and working for the interest of the community. Give him your patronage. You will find he can sell you merchandise as cheap as the other fellow.—Kerens Tribune.

This is the truth, every word of it.
The Texas people are beginning to learn and the demand for Texas products is daily increasing but there is room for much more work along this line to get them all in the habit.— Austin American.

We should all hang together, however, and the home merchant should not send out of town for stationery.
That old country printer who year in and year out is pleading with the people to stand by the home merchant, should be given the home merchant's printing.

QUEEN TONIGHT, "THE DRIFTER"

"The Drifter," the five-act masterpiece photoplay, affords rare histrionic opportunities to Alexander Gaden in the dual characterization of a minister who becomes a race-track habitué. Two men, not related, bear a striking resemblance to each other.
Early in the story both are divinity students. One, played by Mr. Gaden, gambles and is expelled from the school he is attending, and his departure brings to an end his romance with a lovely young girl. Several years later the girl meets the other man, an ordained minister of the gospel. She marries him. He is killed in a train wreck, and on that same train is the gambler just giving up his race track career. The latter takes this opportunity to start anew in life. How the wife recognizes the man as her former sweetheart and not her husband, and her course in their lives after her discovery, mark the climax in one of the most unusual, widely appealing screen stories offered in some time. Lucille Taft and Iva Shepard are the two leading feminine members of the cast.

"The Drifter" will be shown at the Queen this afternoon and tonight, with special pipe organ music by Mrs.
Cleo Craig.

Luke McLuke Says.

The reason why a well-built girl never uses the buttons at the top of her waist is because she knows the buttons are put there for the benefit of girls who are not well-built.

One good feature about the Straight and Narrow Path is that you never get jostled and trampled by the surging crowds.

Some men spend their whole lives Seconding the Motion.

It is all very well to sigh for the Good Old Days, but there sure would be a lot of kicking if we could recall the Good Old Days and tried to get along without Modern Plumbing.

A girl will spend four hours dolling up to be looked at and then get mad because the men look at her.

TO ATTEND DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION AT ST. LOUIS.

Col. James O. Chance left today with his wife for St. Louis, where he goes to attend the meeting of the national democratic convention next week. This gentleman is a delegate from Brazos County.

Consolation.

A young probationer was preaching his trial sermon at a Northern parish church.

After finishing his discourse he leaned over the pulpit and engaged in silent prayer, an act which rather surprised the congregation, who were unaccustomed to such modes of procedure.

But the worthy old Scottish beadle, ascending the pulpit steps, began clapping the young preacher on the back as he said:

"Hoot, toot, man, dinna tak' it sae much tae heart; ye'll mebbe dae better next time!"—Tit-Bits.

WRONG INITIALS GIVEN.

The notice in The Eagle Wednesday about the bankrupt sale of the Mendlovitz stock read that H. O. Boatwright was trustee, and same should have read S. L. Boatwright was trustee.
