ALL THERE IS.

To be good, to be sweet, to be true—What else in the world can we do? To be fair, to be just, to be right—What more do we need of life's light?

All of these, all there is, let us pray That the first are the best all the way.

To be loving, be kind, and be near—Every grief of her heart with your cheer.

With your help, with your hope, with your love Like a blue sky that shimmers above!

All there is, all there is—it is life, To be fine, to be strong through the strife,

To be trusting and tender and fair, To be sweet through the trouble and care.

To be patient and noble and glad to the end—A lover, a husband, a comrade, a friend.

To be gentle, be pleasant, be gay; To be earnest, at work or at play; To be frank, to be open, be free,

To be honest, but ever to be—O'er the rest, over all, as time goes—True as light that God sends to the rose.

All there is, let us be it, and trust That the end to our hearts will be just;

As we give, as we serve, as we wait, So shall come to us all as our fate—All the promise, the hope, and the gleam

That we've fed on in ages of dream.—The Bentztown Bard.

This modern trench fighting is something new under the sun, and than the few people in this country really understand what it means.

Some of the trenches captured by the British and the Germans in the recent offensive, were forty feet deep at some places.

At this great depth there were many large rooms made for officers' quarters, and these were elegantly fitted up with carved doors, rugs on the floors and paintings on the walls.

The defenses, behind which the soldiers fought when they ventured to the surface, were made of reinforced concrete.

When we consider all these facts it is not surprising that these trenches are so hard to take. It is like smoking a rabbit ryan.

From a hollow log. And back of this first line trench there are second and third line trenches to which the troops can retire if driven from the first line.

Nearly all these rear trenches are connected with the first by underground passages, and it is scarcely necessary for the troops to be exposed at all in falling back.

When we think of these gigantic preparations it seems a far cry back to Gettysburg and Pickett's charge.

The Bryan Eagle ejaculates: "The blessed rains have saved the day and old Brazos will roll up a cotton crop above the average." But let's not be too sanguine.

Brother Carnes should have learned through his long years of study and observation that it is the part of philosophy to rejoice when we have the opportunity.

The absent wife can enjoy her summer trip immensely if she can believe her husband spends his evenings in loneliness at home, giving due attention to the canary bird and the poodle, and counting the minutes until she returns.

That is what Snap Shots said was troubling Mrs. Peavish. Mrs. Peavish announced that she was not going away this summer, because while she was away her husband did not stay at home long enough to wind the clock.

A bill is already under consideration to be presented to the next legislature to suppress moochers, panhandlers and deadbeats from preying on the candidates.

All legislative bodies in the world could not enact legislation sufficient strong to keep certain men from trying to "work" the candidates.

The Lord told Jonah to go to Ninevah and warn the people by crying in the streets, "Yet forty days and Ninevah shall be destroyed." He disobeyed and fled to Tarsus and the whale was his fate.

Gen. Funston says that while a thousand guardsmen have asked for discharges, not one of them was from Texas.

The purchase of the Danish West Indies by the United States at twenty-five million dollars is but another step in the government's preparedness program.

The Republican State convention meets in San Antonio on Tuesday. It is to be hoped all eight of them will be present so the candidates nominated and the platform adopted will be satisfactory to the party.

One thousand people have died from heat in Chicago. Why will people persist in living in a place like Chicago when Texas is standing with outstretched arms to welcome them?

A smile does not cost any more than a frown, but it will buy a whole lot more.

Sunday—open church doors. Warm welcome. Be there.

WISER AND OTHERWISE. "You must have cut a dash in Italy!" "Why do you say that?" "I hear you rented a palace."

The real estate agent called it a palace. Real estate agents the world over are much alike.—Kansas City Journal.

You can easily run into debt, but you have to crawl out.—Detroit Free Press.

"Is that young lady I saw you with the other day your wife or sister?" "Er—I haven't asked her yet."—Judge.

"Do you think with your native American independence you would feel unnerfed in the presence of a king?" "Not if I held an ace."—Baltimore American.

Look not for musk in a dog's kennel.—Herbert.

The Surgeon—"Don't worry, old chap. You'll get something some day, and then I'll—" The Intimate Friend—"My dear boy, be assured of one thing—I'll never let you cut me up—I'll live first!"—Life.

Politician—"I have nothing to say. All I know is what is in the papers." Reporter—"I see now what you meant yesterday when you said there is nothing in the papers nowadays."—Puck.

You can sometimes catch the mossback vote with greenbacks.—Indianapolis Star.

"Jack is in love with you." "How absurd!" "That's what I said when I heard it." "You mean thing!"—Boston Transcript.

ANSWERED. Carolyn Wells, compiler of a dozen "Nonsense Anthologies," was once handed an autograph album by an admirer, with the request that she add her name to its pages.

AMUSEMENTS. There will be a fine program at the Dixie tonight, of which the feature will be an excellent Selig photoplay, "The Man Who Tried," introducing Mr. Al Filson in the leading role.

SEEMED RATHER UNLIKELY. A greasy road, a bicycle and an elderly gentleman. Such a combination is full of possibilities, and when to these is added a playful puppy excitement is apt to grow intense.

ENOUGH TO DO ALREADY. Little Mary had frequently been scolded by her mother for tying her sled on sleighs, and had promised to reform, says an exchange.

CLOVER. The following gem from Delaware, Ohio, is a specimen of the news with which some of the American newspapers entertain their trusting readers.

AFTER A LONG JOURNEY. Here is an old, old story, says the Christian Register. It has the same subtle charm, aroma, in it which it had when the summer editor heard it, 10 years ago.

MONDAY, TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY. We will close out our entire stock of INFANT FANCY TOP SOCKS.

MANY TRACTORS FOR STATE FAIR

FARM IMPLEMENTS TO FEATURE 1916 DISPLAY

THIS EXHIBIT LARGEST EVER SHOWN

When the great State Fair of Texas opens at Dallas October 14, the largest and most valuable collection of Farm Implements, Vehicles and Machinery that the South ever saw will be ready for the public.

A recent announcement from the office of Secretary W. H. Stratton, of the Fair Association, states that negotiations for space have been concluded with a large majority of the country's best manufacturers in these lines, and that the demands for representation will undoubtedly fill the available space to overflowing.

An interesting part of this great exhibit, particularly to the farmer who believes in progressive methods in agriculture, will be the great number of new devices shown. During the past year many improvements have been made in farm machinery and practically all of these will be included.

Big Automobile Show. Secretary Stratton also advises that present indications point to the largest and most complete show of automobiles ever seen in this part of the country. Practically all of the cars of standard make will be seen and the many improvements as shown in the 1917 models will no doubt interest many.

Many Tractors to Be Shown. A topic in which the Southwestern farmer of today is vitally interested is Power Farming, as practiced with the various types of Tractors now being made and sold for use on the farms.

Nearly all of the popular types of tractors will be seen at the 1916 State Fair of Texas—the leading manufacturers of the country having already negotiated for space.

Many of these tractors will be shown in active operation, under conditions approximately as closely as possible the conditions found upon the average farm of this section. Here, then, is an opportunity for the farmer who wants light on this interesting subject to form an intelligent comparison.
