

DID NOT SHOOT YOUNG

Nan Patterson Placed Upon Stand
In Her Own Behalf.

TELLS HER VERSION

"I Would Give My Own Life," Said
Defendant, "to Bring Him Back
[If It Were In My Power,"
Speaking of Deceased.

New York, Dec. 20.—"Did you or did you not shoot Caesar Young, Nan?" said Lawyer Levy to Miss Patterson Monday.

"I did not," replied the witness, in a firm voice. "I would give my own life to bring him back if it were in my power. I never saw the revolver with which he was shot. There was a flash and then the end."

In a voice filled with emotion and dramatic intensity, Miss Patterson, who is on trial, charged with the murder of Caesar Young, the bookmaker, recited to the jury the scenes in her life which had to do with her dealings with Young. Not only did Miss Patterson swear that she did not kill

NAN PATTERSON.

Young, but she denied every circumstance in the case which the state has brought up against her. She denied that she was dismayed because Young was going to leave her and go to Europe after having been told by him, as it has been alleged, that all was over between them.

On the other hand, she testified that as a result of her conference with Young it was decided that she should join him in England and take apartments in the Hotel Cecil, London, taking care that she keep her whereabouts a complete secret from Mrs. Young and Young's relatives. Another important feature brought out was the fact that Young gave the woman a postal card on which he wrote her name and address, saying it was something she might need.

The crowded court room became suddenly still when the former show girl took the stand. The first of her testimony relating to herself was given in a low, even voice, but as she proceeded, her tone became more intense until, in her account of the fatal cab ride, her voice was filled with tragic expression.

Early in her story Miss Patterson told of her original meeting with Young, of their life together and of their contemplated European trip. She told of her talk with Young the night before his proposed departure for Southampton; of her being awakened by a telephonic message from him to go to the pier to see him off; of the ride down town; of the moments in a saloon and of the ride in the cab before the shooting. Her eyes were red from weeping.

In describing the fatal shooting, she declares she heard a pistol report, but up to that time had not seen the weapon.

"Mr. Young fell over my lap, got half way up, fell again, and I thought he was having a spasm. He kept twitching and twitching. I called to him and tried to make him answer, but he would not. I believe I put my hand up and told the cabman to drive to the druggist. I don't know whether I did. It was my idea, and it seemed ages before I could get any one to pay any attention to me and help me. A policeman got in the cab, and I felt so relieved. I knew he would take care of Mr. Young. I seemed to be dazed in my memory after that."
