W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

Edited by MRS. H. A. BENEFIELD.
The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. Leaf Thursday, April 13th, at 3:30 by the clock.

Our open meeting at the M. E. Church March 30th was pleasant as well as instructive. Sorry so many members were absent and that others did not come in. Bros Holt and Belott were with us and each gave us a good talk. Bro. Stringer also came, but left before the meeting opened on account of a severe headache. Come out all of you when we have these open meetings and hear our sweet songs and good readings.

Doctor—, a successful physician in the West, returned to his old home lately after a long absence, and visited the college in which he had been educated.

"Twenty years ago," he said to group of students, "I graduated in this hall. There were eighteen men in my class.

"Of the eighteen six drank habitually while at college. Not to excess, but regularly—a glass or two each day. Not one of these men has succeeded in attaining fortune, reputation, or even respectable position. Yet they were among the ablest men in the class.

"While at college I was in the habit of frequenting the daily newspaper office here. There were ten men in it—editors and reporters. I knew them all—a lot of bright, jolly fellows. The work was hard, the hours late, the meals irregular.

"Every man in the office drank but one, a reporter, Ben Perry. One of the editors told me that he had seen Ben come in from a fire at two o'clock in the morning, drenched to the skin and tired out. He would look wistfully at the whisky bottle, but he never touched it.

"I inquired for the boys today. Three have died from drink; six are holding inferior positions in newspaper offices.

"Habits bad," said my informant. "They could not make their way, fell lower and lower. Perry's head was always clear, and he was regular at his work. He is editor in-chief of one of the principal newspapers in a seaboard city. He had not half the natural ability of at least three of the others.

"These are facts," said the doctor. "I advise you who are beginning life to consider them. I have not a word to say about the moral question involved in drinking. But I know, as a physician, that no American, with his nervous organization, in this wearing climate, can habitually take liquor without injury to his health, and without in greater or less degree hindering his chances of success."

A schoolboy in Australia recently put the matter tersely, thus: "I abstain from liquor because if I wish to excel as a cricketer, Grace says 'abstain'; as a walker, Weston says 'abstain'; as an oarsman, Hanion says 'abstain'; as a swimmer, Webb says 'abstain'; as a missionary, Livingston says 'abstain'; as a doctor, Clark says 'abstain'; as a preacher, Tarrar says 'abstain.'" Asylums, prisons and work-houses repeat the cry, "abstain."—Youth's Companion.

Rheumatic Pains Quickly Relieved.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

A New Creed.

I believe in mercy as I hope for mercy.

I believe in truth because it makes me free.

I believe in justice because I believe in God.

I believe in cleanliness of body, mind and soul.

I believe in suffering, because it chastens and purifies.

I believe in kindness to man, woman, child and animals.

I believe in moral courage because I am more than a brute.

I believe in self-control because I want to influence others.

I believe in honesty, not for policy's sake, but for principle's sake.

I believe in that kind of industry that takes an occasional vacation.

I believe in patience because it is the swiftest way to secure results.

I believe in charity that begins at home but does not end there.

I believe in hospitality because it puts a roof over every man's head.

I believe in that sort of economy that spends money for a good purpose.

About Rheumatism.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by W. J. Sedberry.

Riding and Walking.

A train one mile long starts from the station at Gladly. The engine leaves the station and the conductor waits until the caboose comes, when he jumps on the caboose and walks over the train. When the engine reaches the next station, Oxley, four miles distant from Gladly, the conductor steps off the engine. How far does the conductor and how far does he walk?—Exchange.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food, C. G. Grayson, of Lula, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pills, "with the results" he writes, "that I was cured." All Stomach and bowel disorders give way to their tonic, laxative properties, 25c at all drug stores, guaranteed.

Thirty cotton mills are being erected in England to employ 9 000 people. Double that number of mills are being erected in the United States besides hosiery mills.

Accept No Substitute.

There is nothing just as good for malaria, chills and fever as Dr. Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Cure. Take it as a general tonic and at all times in place of quinine. If it fails to give satisfaction your money back. The J. F. Crow Drug Co.

An exchange tells of a negro exhorter who, in the midst of his exhortations, shouted: "Come an' jine de army of de Lohd." "I've done jined," replied one of the congregation. "Whar'd yoh jine?" asked the exhorter. "In the Baptist church." "Why, chile," said the exhorter, "yoh ain't in de army; yoh's in de navy."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best and Most Popular.

"Mothers buy it for croupy children, railroad men buy it for severe coughs and elderly people buy it for la grippe," says Moore Bros., Eldon, Iowa. "We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than any other kind. It seems to have taken the lead over several other good brands." There is no question but this medicine is the best that can be procured for coughs and colds, whether it be a child or an adult that is afflicted. It always cures and cures quickly. Sold by W. J. Sedberry.

Little Teddie had just signed the Band of Mercy pledge. After he reached home, he went to the cat, patted it on its head and said very soberly:

"I promised very soberly never to pull your tail any more."—Little Chronicle.
